State Young Democrats To Work For Repeal

State Convention Goes On Record With Big Vote For Repeal

ALSO AGAINST SALOON

Wrightsville, July 8.—A resolution committing the Young Democrats of North Carolina to work for repeal of the eighteenth amendment was adopted by a thunderous vote of approval today after the only person who attempted to speak against it had been shouted from the floor.

When Ney Evans, of High Point, chairman of the resolutions committee, introduced the resolution he was greeted with shouts of approval.

Debate on the question was limited to two minutes for each speaker.

E. C. York, of Lee county, urged the convention "if possible to avoid this issue of repeal." He termed the question one of personal liberty and said "there is not one iota of reason why prohibition should be a political question."

"The leaders of the Democratic party in the state are opposed to the Young Democrats pledging themselves for repeal," he shouted, "and there is no reason why the Young Democrats should be listed as a wet organization."

Yelled From the Floor
When York's two minutes were up, he was yelled from the floor by cries of "time up," "time up" and a roll call vote ordered.

The roll call was started but only a few counts had been made when Dewey Dorsett, of Raleigh, president, called for an oral vote.

He was greeted with a prolonged and thunderous "aye" when he called for those favorable to vote. Approximately 20 persons voted "no."

W. W. Neal, of Louisville, attempted to amend the resolution by adding a paragraph condemning the Turlington act, the state's prohibition act, and asking its repeal but this was tabled by a loud oral vote.

The convention, while opposing national prohibition, evidently took the position that the state's own laws on the subject are matters for future consideration.

Charles Lucas, of Wilson, the only man to speak in favor of the repeal resolution before the vote was taken, urged a unanimous vote without hearing "the other side of this matter." Lucas said that dyes could vote against repeal in the November referendum.

In addition to calling for repeal, the resolution pledges the Young Democrats to "urge the enactment of such measures as will actually promote temperance and effectively prevent the return of the saloon."

BAPTISTS CALL FOR FIGHT ON REPEAL

President Southern Baptist Convention Issues Appeal To All Christians

A call for Baptists of the south to rally to support of prohibition and fight against repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the constitution is made by Dr. M. E. Dodd, president of the Southern Baptist convention, in a formal statement received here yesterday.

Addressed "to the pastors, officers and four million members of the 24,000 Southern Baptist churches," the appeal says:

"Since various states in the territory of the Southern Baptist convention will soon have the opportunity to vote again on whether or not the eighteenth amendment shall be retained or repealed; and,

"Since Southern Baptist pastors, evangelists, deacons, Sunday School teachers and other leaders and members, in the past, had much to do with creating a south solid against the liquor business;

"It seems imperative to me to issue the following statement and appeal as President of the Southern Baptist convention.

Traffic Is Legal Outlaw
"The liquor traffic is a legal outlaw, an economic outcast, an intellectual imbecile, and a moral derelict.

"It is an outlaw because it is not now, never has been, and, by its very nature never can be subject to any legal restraint, regulation or

Momentous Question Finally Is Settled

For the past several weeks the question of the location of the post office has been a burning question here. Moving a post office site, like moving a school house across the creek, will raise more ire than almost anything, and the talk of moving the post office here was no exception. Trips had been made to Washington, inspectors had made several visits and checked and measured almost every building in town, and those personally interested had watched the mail every day to see if they had not received notice of acceptance of their bid. Well, the notice came Saturday morning and Mr. Claud Hall was notified that his bid had been accepted, and for another five years the post office will remain where it is.

Grain Reaches Dizzy Heights

Cotton Continues Shk-Rocketing, Too; Rye Crosses Dollar Mark

Chicago, July 11.—Sensational price gains by rye and wheat today followed yesterday's bullish government crop estimate. Gains of approximately five cents a bushel in wheat were registered in frenzied trading. Two deliveries of rye, September and December, crossed the dollar a bushel mark and May wheat at one time was at $1.14 a bushel. The rye advance made gains for the last two days of almost 20 cents a bushel. A year ago rye was selling for less than 35 cents.

New Orleans, July 11.—Cotton followed gains into new high ground for the year and season today on a renewal of the buying wave, which established fresh 1933 tops for the second successive day.

After an early dip of about 50 cents a bale, futures rallied $1 a bale to show a net gain of 50 cents over yesterday's close with October at 10.95 and December at 11.13.

Following the meeting of the board Ickes announced the appointment of Colonel H. M. Waite, formerly city manager of Dayton, O., as his first assistant in administering the big $3,300,000,000 public works program with the title of deputy administrator.

Main Provisions Of Textile Code

Washington, July 9.—The cotton textile code of fair competition, signed tonight by President Roosevelt, includes in its main provisions: A maximum working week of 40 hours, with no employee to exceed this, even though working for two or more different employers.

A minimum wage of $12 and $13 in the south and north, respectively, with an "understanding" that this subject may be reopened with a view to raising this minimum if economic conditions warrant.

Abolition of child labor in the industry, through prohibiting the hiring of children under 16 years of age.

Periodical submission of statistical reports by all members of the cotton textile institute, bearing on wages, hours, production and consumption.

Abolition of the "stretch out" system under which the number of machines a worker is called upon to attend is heavily increased.

Shortly after the code was signed tonight, the industrial recovery administration made public figures showing that in "representative textile mills" in March and April minimum wages of between $8 and $8.50 in the south and $9 to $9.50 in the north were paid for a 48 hour week.

At Same Time, Industry Shows Signs Of More Willing Co-operation In Submitting Control Codes

STEEL AND OIL WILL OFFER CODES TODAY; OTHERS TO FOLLOW

Washington, July 11.—President Roosevelt's bold stroke today in creating a supreme recovery council immediately speeded up the determined drive to bring lagging and reluctant industry into his far-reaching plan to increase mass purchasing power.

Fresh from the first council session at the White House, General Hugh S. Johnston, industrial recovery act administrator, announced he is about ready to set a dead line date for submission of industrial codes.

He revealed further that the recovery administration has many alternative plans to bring industry into line. They include formation of a set of basic standards of wages and hour schedules with which all types of American industry could comply quickly until more detailed codes are worked out.

The energetic administrator, who is beginning to show the strain of days and nights at his arduous task, frankly laid his problems before President Roosevelt and the recovery council today at the White House.

Meantime, industry showed signs of more active cooperation with the recovery administration. Johnson announced the steel industry, giant hub of America's industrial wheel, would submit a code tomorrow.

The oil industry also is ready to furnish required statistics tomorrow and various coal groups, still struggling on separate codes, will be brought in and virtually forced to reach an agreement on a code.

Simultaneously, the big lumber industry, sorely hit by the depression, submitted a code. It included the first provisions yet proposed for control of production and price-fixing. A wage scale ranging from 22 1-2 to 45 cents an hour was proposed. Johnson immediately pronounced it too low. A suggested weekly work schedule of 40 to 48 hours was declared to be too long by the administrator. Johnson ordered the hearing on the lumber code to begin July 20.

He said the steel industry hearing probably would begin about July 19. As submitted, the code represents between 90 and 95 per cent of the industry.

Coal Squabble.
Coal operators and union leaders representing the biggest segment of the bituminous industry sat all day and into the night here in an effort to reach an agreement on a code. They virtually agreed on $5 a day as a minimum wage, but John L. Lewis, president, United Mine Workers

GOLD BLOC WINS LONDON VICTORY ON MONEY ISSUE

Conference To Discuss Silver And Private Debts But Bar Controversial Matters

SESSION TO END QUIETLY

London, July 11.—After many days of fierce controversy the steering committee of the world economic conference late today rendered a decision which the gold bloc privately declared virtually kills the monetary agenda and represent a complete victory for the gold group.

The committee, constituted of leaders of the parley, adopted a report calling for the discussion of silver, commercial indebtedness, central banking co-operation and other subjects which can be treated without dissension.

The American delegation, supported by the British Dominions and a number of smaller countries had fought for the inclusion of the full original program in the revised agenda of the congress.

In addition to the three topics approved, sub-committees were authorized to decide for themselves what other matters could be usefully considered without provoking renewed discord.

Since they are thus in a position where they can block discussion on any subject considered undesirable, the gold countries regarded the vote as a triumph for their thesis. They have insisted that monetary questions in general should be eliminated until the dollar has been stabilized and under today's decision they will be able to see that this view prevails.

Publicly this evening all conference leaders were saying that business of the carley was moving smoothly and that work would be continued.

It was understood that a gentleman's agreement had been reached whereby the conference would be wound up soon without any triumphant shouts by either side.

James M. Cox, of Ohio, was a member of the monetary committee, which, he said before the steering committee met, had unanimously agreed on procedure for a future program.

Prime Minister Bennett, of Canada, who has vigorously supported the American delegation in efforts to keep the conference going, said at the end of the meeting, "This agreement will permit smooth progress."

ELMER LONG NEW BAR PRESIDENT

Durham Attorney Elected At Closing Session at Wrightsville Beach

Wrightsville Beach, July 8.—J. Elmer Long, of Durham, was elected president of the North Carolina Bar association today to succeed Kemp Battle, of Rocky Mount.

Election of officers came at the final business session after the lawyers had heard an address by Clarence E. Martin, of Martinsburg, W. Va., president of the American Bar association, in which he deplored the centralization of powers formerly held by the states in the federal government.

J. B. Cheshire, Jr. of Raleigh, Zeb V. Nettles, of Asheville, and W. F. Taylor, of Goldsboro, were elected vice-president of the association. Henry M. London, of Raleigh, was re-elected secretary-treasurer for his 13th term.

E. Earl Rives, of Greensboro, and B. M. Covington, of Wadesboro, were elected to the executive committee.

Selection of next year's meeting place was left to the executive committee.
