

Question Of Repeal

"Be not drunk on wine wherein is excess; but be filled with the spirit." —Eph. 5:18.

My references are from the word of God. Isaiah 28:1, 3, 7; Prov. 14:34; II Thess. 5:7; Daniel 5.

People of Roxboro and Person county. I give the following reasons for voting against the repeal of the 18th Amendment.

My first reason is Prov. 14:34. Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people. Drunkenness is, I will say, a sin that is ruining the people as a whole, from the president to the poor beggar. The people that once were living well, because of a drunken father and sorry to say, lots of mothers are drinking the rotten junk and bring sorrow and sickness to many homes, and wrecking lives of many boys and girls. Righteousness brings joy and peace to any people.

My second reason is Isaiah 28:1. Woe to the crown of pride to the drunkard of Ephraim, whose glorious beauty is a fading flower, which are on the heads of the fat valley of them that are overcome with wine.

I believe we could put U. S. instead of Ephraim. It certainly is a pity that the head men of U. S. couldn't think of anything else than the devil's trashcan to aid the country which is supposed to be a Christian nation.

People, let us go to our knees! Isaiah 28:3. The crown of pride the drunkenness of Ephraim shall be trodden under foot. I am afraid that U. S. will be trodden under foot by her enemies if we are not careful.

Isaiah 18:7. But they also have erred through wine and through strong drink, are out of the way, the priest and the prophet have erred through many drinks they are swelled up of wine. They are out of the way through strong drink. They err in vision, they stumble in judgment.

Wine and strong drink will make any one err; it causes accidents and nine times out of ten brings death, and that brings widows and orphans, and sometimes cripples for life, jails and prisons full of men, women, boys and girls. The preacher and the prophet have erred through strong drink. I am sorry to say many preachers wait till after election to preach temperance. They are afraid of the people and especially the paying members and official board. Preachers preach it without fear or favor. Please God, not man, for your own soul's sake.

My third reason is read Daniel 5th chapter. Remember Belshazzar had a feast and invited all his wives, princes and concubines and drank wine before his thousands and worshipped or praised idols of gold, silver and stone, and took the sacred things out of the temple and had a night of revelry, and the Lord our God showed them by the handwriting on the wall that the end had come of their pleasure and sin. The writing on the wall by interpretation was "Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting." Wanting for what? Worship of true and living God and righteousness which is very necessary in any nation, state, county and city. I am afraid U. S. White House will find the same thing some day.

Everybody that loves God and man, vote dry by the grace and help of God.

I Thes. 5:7. For they that sleep in the night and that be drunken are drunken in the night. People, don't sleep awake and see the condition of the country, go to praying for the Lord is coming soon.

My fourth reason is Eph. 5:18: And be not drunk on wine wherein is excess but be filled with the spirit. Let us as a people of a nation, be real citizens, not only of the U. S., but of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ our Lord, and live for Him. Help the Lord to spread the Gospel.

THE PRESENT TOBACCO SITUATION

The tobacco growers of Person County have signed the Government acreage reduction agreement so far as I can learn about ninety or ninety-three or four percent. I think the growers have done their part so far as this is concerned. But the question is, is this going to help the prices of this year's crop? Now is the time that the growers need help as I see it from this standpoint.

Some people say the companies have too great a sum of tobacco that is the reason they are not paying more for the tobacco than they are. Others say we do not raise as good tobacco as we did some years back. That may be true, but I see they have not stopped taking it yet. Well, as for me, I do not know what their reason is for not paying more for the tobacco. There is one thing the growers can do if they will do it. That is to cooperate. I believe in cooperation. I think the best kind of organization the growers can have is one of their own. For instance, the Jones plan of Danville. I think that is a good organization. If Mr. Jones could get every tobacco grower in the fine-cured tobacco belt to sign up and pay their ten dollar membership fee he would have quite a large sum of money. Very likely he would have enough money to do a large business on if they would join and put a part of their tobacco in this organization. This is the only chance I see for the growers at this time, is to organize and set up a business of their own, to cooperate and work together and not see how far from one another they can stand.

If the farmers have ever received anything but a promise I don't know what it was. The farmers feed the world. Why shouldn't they receive a living price for their products? GLENN BURCH.

A SAMPLE OF LIFE

One day I called attention to a few peaches on a tree, and spoke of them as a sample of what we would have if the tree were only well loaded.

Is it possible thus to get a sample of what a life would be if it were given more opportunities?

How often have we heard some one say, "If I had a million dollars I would help that cause for it is worthy." Would those people thus act if a million dollars were placed at their disposal? Perhaps some of them would; certainly some of them would not.

If it is possible to form fairly correct opinions of people as regards such matters how shall we do so? Can we say that a man who is selfish with fifty dollars would be selfish with fifty thousand? Can we say that a boy who will cheat in order to make a run on the baseball field will cheat in a business deal? If I should make such statements some would call my statements too broad; some would call them unjust; while others would call them untrue.

Furthermore it would be unpleasant on my part to make such statements ungrounded.

Therefore I shall allow another whose knowledge and truthfulness are unquestioned to do the speaking.

He teaches us that life is to be judged by what it is doing with present opportunities, and not by the imagination as to what would be done were conditions different.

His own words are: "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much; and he that is unjust in the least is unjust also in much."—Luke 16:10.

STOMACH AND NERVES BAD?

Mrs. M. L. Price of 122 Winter St., Hagerstown, Md., says: "I felt worn out—suffered from stomach complaint and was awfully nervous. CRUMPLING OF HINDENBURG LINE

By W. F. Marshall

Raleigh, Oct. 23.—Continued crumpling up of the Hindenburg Line of the repeal cause in North Carolina has forced the directors of wet strategy to hurl their last reserves into the breach. Former Governor Gardner has issued from Washington a statement in favor of repeal; Senator Reynolds is to make a hurried dash into some of the western counties and one or two eastern counties; and in addition to previous announcements in the way of sponsorship of Mr. Farley's forthcoming visit to this state Senator Bailey is scheduled to issue shortly a statement in favor of repeal of the 18th Amendment, with suggestions as to North Carolina's proper policy in liquor control after repeal.

The Dry forces are chuckling over the re-entrance of Senator Reynolds into the arena. As to the effect of the Reynolds campaign, the Dry recall a story William Jennings Bryan used to tell. A big husky man was the victim of occasional scoldings and animated assaults by his diminutive wife. When his friends chided him for being so hen-pecked and enduring so submissively the assault and battery of the little queen of his home, he replied: "Well, why not? It seems to do her a whole lot of good and doesn't hurt me at all."

The view is taken by some of the Drys that North Carolina's Junior Senator has set at least one example worthy of emulation by his fellow-citizens back home. The most conspicuous official act of his Senatorial career, they point out, was his graceful and complete apology one day last June to his fellow-Senators, and to the country, for a most unfortunate mistake perpetrated by him the day before. The Dry suggest that, taking the cue from the Junior Senator's graceful apology in the Senate, the people of North Carolina from one end of the state to the other go to the polls November 7 and show to the world how gracefully, completely and eloquently they can apologize for their mistake in having sent him to the Senate.

Nor do the Drys seem to be taking on much worry over the participation of former Governor Gardner in the festivities of the campaign. There has been some speculation as to what influence his position and prestige would have upon the voters; but no alarm discernible on that account. A certain remark of former Governor Gardner made at the State College Alumni luncheon last June is recalled, "State College," the quotation runs, "will always remain the North Carolina State College of Agriculture and Engineering and will always be located in Raleigh, if I have any influence left—and something happened Saturday to make me think I have." The something that happened Saturday was the handsome lead in the primaries of more than 47,000 votes scored by the Ex-Governor's favorite candidate, Mr. Ehringhaus, over the highest of his two opponents. The "influence left" seems however to have pretty near ruined his favorite candidate, who won the nomination in the second primary, indeed, but only by the narrow margin of a bare 13,084 votes over his single competitor.

Note is also taken of the fact that when Ex-Governor McLean and Ex-Governor Morrison completed their official terms and retired to private life, they very properly refrained from any further efforts to govern the State, generously leaving that function exclusively to their successors in office. In connection with Ex-Governor Gardner's entry into the current campaign a number of newspapers carried the following comment by their Raleigh correspondent:

"There is also reason to believe that while he (Ex-Governor Gardner) was gratified in the manner in which Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus followed out many of his policies as governor and re-appointed a number of officials he had originally appointed, he was not so well pleased with some of the political generalship or lack of it displayed by Governor Ehringhaus in some of his other appointments and official acts." All of these things are lodging into the think-works of the average independent North Carolinian; and there is no doubt of the fact that quite a number of them are coming to regard the approaching election as likely to remove from Mr. Gardner's mind the apparent hallucination that he is still Governor of North Carolina.

TREAT WHEAT TO PREVENT SMUT

(By A. G. Bullard)

Low yields of wheat due to damage caused by smut may be corrected by a simple treatment of the seed with Copper Carbonate. This method of treatment only costs about 8c per bushel and is superior to the blue stone treatment as the seed are not soaked in a solution.

The treatment is as follows: Secure a barrel that has both ends attached. Cut an opening in one end and make a door to fit this opening. Place several slats perpendicular to the sides of the barrel and nail in place. Pour one bushel of wheat in the barrel and add two ounces of Copper Carbonate. Roll the barrel around the yard until thoroughly mixed. The seed may be sown immediately or kept until a later date. Care should be taken to keep the treated seed away from animals.

The Bethel Hill Young Tar Heel Farmers have a machine at the high school for treating wheat and will be glad to treat anyone's wheat. A charge of 8c per bushel will be made to cover the cost of

DANCING COW

Music may have charms to soothe the savage beast—but when the beast happens to be a perfectly contented cow, the effect is something else again. That's what was discovered at the Radio pictures studio while they were trying to find a cow who would submit to being milked to music.

Four cows were tested in turn. And each was placid as could be until the music started. Then each became suddenly mad and did every thing except tear down the huge stage upon which the tests were being made.

And they're still looking for a cow who will remain quiet while the orchestra is at work. They might try a deaf cow.

Build Up Health and Pains Go Away

WOMEN who suffer from weakness often have many aches and pains which a stronger state of health would prevent.

Women in this condition should take Cardul, a purely vegetable tonic that has been in use for over 50 years. Take Cardul to improve the general tone of the system in cases of run-down health and "tired nerves." Women have found, in such cases, that Cardul helps them to overcome pains and make the monthly periods easier. CARDUL is safe and wholesome for women of all ages. Try it!

Long Speeches Taboo

Elizabeth City.—If Judge W. C. Morse, Jr., of Pasquotank county's Recorder's court, has his way about it, there will be no long winded speeches and other procrastinating methods practiced in his court. Judge Morse recently delivered himself of the opinion that there was altogether too much time wasted needlessly in the trial of cases, and declared his intention of bearing down upon those he thought guilty of such methods.

"There's One Sure Way to Compare Tobacco Fertilizer"

W. B. Burroughs
PRESIDENT, F. S. ROYSTER GUANO COMPANY

SEE if this doesn't sound like common sense to you. Look at the tobacco on the warehouse floor. Pick out the finest quality—the highest priced. Then ask which fertilizer was used. When you find that Royster fertilized tobacco is of superior quality and brings a higher price—then it stands to reason that Royster is the tobacco fertilizer for you to use. We ask you to make this fair comparison because it is the one sure way to judge fertilizer—by results. And Royster results speak for themselves from the warehouse floor.

ing the tobacco plant—finding out all there is to know about its plant food needs—from the time the plant beds are sown until the crop is in the barn. These men of long experience locate, test and refine all materials to make sure that only the best obtainable go into Royster sacks. Year after year they check up through actual field tests—to make certain that every sack of Royster Tobacco Fertilizer contains the correct combination of materials to produce the finest quality leaf.

Remember this: Royster Tobacco Fertilizer is made in one quality only—the best that money can buy at any price. That high standard is maintained by Royster experts who are constantly study-
