PACKED HOUSE HEARS CHOIRS GIVE CANTATA

Choirs Of Long Memorial And South Boston Methodist Church Presented "Bright Easter Morn" Sunday Night

SAME PRESENTATION AT SOUTH BOSTON

An audience of approximately one thousand was held spellbound Sunday evening for sixty-five minutes while a combined chorus of forty-five voices sang the triumphal numbers of Heyser's "Bright Easter Morn."

Words beggar an adequate description of the beauty and effectiveness of the presentation. Sweet music that lingered in the ears of the hearers long after the last echo had died away pervaded the air. The building reverberated and resounded the triumph of the numbers which was so neatly brought out in the singing.

The chorus, combined choirs of the Long Memorial church and the South Boston Methodist Church, gave the same presentation in the South Boston Church on Friday night. Practice for these performances had been going on for more than a month before Easter. Mrs. J. A. Long is the director of the choir here and Mrs. J. D. K. Richmond is the director of the South Boston choir.

The Cantata drew a crowd that taxed the church's seating capacity to almost the limit.

Mrs. W. T. Long, organist for the Roxboro choir, and Miss Harriet Crews, organist for the South Boston choir, presided at their respective organs.
