

Washington, Sept. 16 (Autocaster)—The two busiest members of the Cabinet these days are the Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Treasury. Mr. Hull has several problems to solve involving America's relations with the rest of the world, and Mr. Morgenthau is working overtime trying to evolve a program for bringing the books of the Federal Government into balance within a reasonable time.

The State Department is studying the neutrality resolution, passed just as Congress adjourned, and trying to figure out how it jibes with the Kellogg peace pact, and whether it would prevent the sale of American foodstuffs, mules and other war supplies to either Italy or Ethiopia, if and when hostilities actually begin between those nations.

Russia and Japan

Of greater concern, perhaps, is the American-Russian situation. Our rebuke to Russia for breaking her promise not to countenance plots to overthrow our government was received with very bad grace by the Soviet government. The possibility is not remote that we may wind up by recalling Ambassador Bullitt and breaking off our lately resumed diplomatic relations with Russia.

Perhaps more important than either of those is the friendly negotiation that is under way with Japan, concerning the "dumping" of Japanese textiles on our markets. Out of that may well come a larger market for American cotton, and a better understanding between the two nations.

Secretary Morgenthau, who never pretended to be a financier, has won the respect and admiration of official Washington by his devotion to the study of Government finance, largely under the able tutelage of Comptroller General McCarroll. Mr. Morgenthau is regarded as one in the Presidential circle who can say "No" to Mr. Roosevelt. In a group which some declare is composed chiefly of "yes men" such a personality stands out. Mr. Morgenthau has now begun to say "no" to some phases of the Administration's spending policy. He is working now, and will be engaged for months, on a budget plan to be presented to Congress in January.

The Federal deficit — excess of spending over income — for the fiscal year just ended was about 4 1-2 billions. The schedule in force for the current year, to July 1, 1936, will show a deficit of about 4 billions. The Morgenthau plan is intended to cut this to 2 billions for 1937, half a billion for 1938, and then have a surplus of half a billion in the fiscal year 1939.

Fulfillment of that program depends, of course, on many things not clearly foreseeable, among them the result of the 1936 election. Few Democrats admit to any doubts about Mr. Roosevelt's re-election, but on the other hand, there has been a great uplifting of hope in Republican hearts in the past fortnight.

Borah Gains In Favor

Perhaps the most interesting political phenomenon of the moment is the strong swing all over the country to Senator William E. Borah as the favorite G. O. P. Candidate. The movement started with the "Young Republicans," curiously enough, as Mr. Borah is past seventy and would be the oldest man ever elected President, were he successful.

The Borah qualities that seem to appeal to the young Republicans are his liberalism, in the classical sense of that term, his independence of the party machine, and his individualistic point of view. Those same qualities have made him many enemies inside the party organization, so it is rather significant to hear members and adherents of the "Old Guard" admitting, now, that Borah might be a good candidate.

Here and There

Fifty members of Congress are going on a junket to Hawaii and the Philippines and on around the globe, as guests of the Philippine government. Vice - President Garner will head the party, which will also include Speaker Byrns and Senator Joe Robinson, the Administration leaders.

Although there are no funds available to start the Social Security program in full operation—due to Senator Huey Long's filibuster, the President is looking over the field of "available persons for appointment to the Commission which will administer the law. Gossip has it that Madam Secretary Perkins may be its chairman, resigning from her post as Secretary of Labor.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

BLADDER TROUBLE

A friend in Oklahoma requested this letter. These ailments are so named by ignorant laymen and unprincipled quacks—as if all "bladder troubles" were exactly alike!

They may vary from the most trifling irritation to the most ponderous, incurable and malignant growth. Formerly, most bladder irritations were supposed to be caused by "uric acid." Great numbers of urates were found in many such conditions.

With improved methods of diagnosis now, however, few mistakes need be made. It would take much space, however, to cover even brief mention of them. A heavy, foul sediment noticed in the urine on voiding should send the patient post-haste to the doctor because that is no time for guess-work.

Heavy sediment in the urine, coupled with an evil-smelling odor, especially if the patient be over 40 years of age, should send the sufferer to a capable physician. Fresh urine that is "smoky" in color or even red, leads to the conclusion that blood is present. Bloody urine is always a symptom of danger.

The first symptom of "bladder trouble" is frequency and burning on voiding urine. This symptom calls for immediate relief and in elderly patients should occasion a search for stone in the bladder or urinary calculi which is distinctly a trouble of surgical importance.

The x-ray is one of the most essential pieces of apparatus in the diagnosis of bladder diseases. Reliance should not be placed on quack nostrums no matter from where they come. Care should be taken in the drinking of water. Then see your physician.

Sunday School by HENRY-LESSON RADCLIFFE

International Sunday School Lesson for September 22, 1935.

GOLDEN TEXT: "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation; for when he hath been approved, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord promised to them that love him." James 1:12.

(Lesson Text: James 1:1-17.)

We study this week the epistle of James, which some think was probably the earliest epistle written. The author is generally accepted to have been James the brother of Jesus, the Jewish leader of the early Christian church in Jerusalem.

There are four men, apparently, by the name of James referred to in the New Testament. First, James, the son of Zebedee, who with his brother, John, and Peter were the three chief members of the inner circle of disciples who followed Jesus. "Another was also an apostle, referred to as the son of Alphaeus. Then, there was James the Little, the adjective probably referring to his physical stature. The fourth, the subject of our lesson, was James the brother of Jesus.

James was undoubtedly a worthy man but his relationship to our Lord probably helped him reach the lofty position he occupied in the early church. From boyhood he had been closely associated with Jesus and formed one of the earliest groups of believers following the Crucifixion. "No doubt James sat by Jesus at his teacher's feet in the town school," says H. C. G. Moule. "He had roved with him on the hills; he had watched with him the plowmen and the sowers; and the oxen of the threshing floor; he had worked beside him, very likely, at the bench, Joseph's apprentice at first, then, possibly, the helper of his brother Jesus as he succeeded his reputed father to be the very stay of the widowhood of his mother."

In the stirring events which followed the crucifixion and Resurrection of Jesus, James was identified. It is recorded in 1 Cor. 15:7 that Jesus "was seen of James." Later, according to Gal. 1:19 Paul had an interview with him. Acts 12:17 tell how Peter, after his escape from prison gave instructions that information be carried to James. This James soon became recognized as the head of the Jerusalem church. "Though not one of the twelve," says Philip Schaff, "he enjoyed, owing to his relationship to our Lord, and his commanding piety, almost apostolic authority, especially in Judea and among the Jewish converts."

So, we find James, in this authoritative position when the question arose whether the new Gentile members should submit to the Mosaic law. Paul and Barnabas were sent from Antioch to the Jerusalem church to see if some decision could be reached. "The problem was to save both the liberty of the gospel and the authority of the Scriptures," says J. M. Stiffler. "Antioch stood for the former, the teachers who came down from Jerusalem for the latter. "God's Spirit harmonized the two. If these teachers from Judea had been victorious," says C. Campbell Morgan, "then thru those earliest years, lasting until now, there would have been division between the Hebrew Church of Christ and the Gentile Church of Christ, and the bitterness caused by such division would be mutually destructive and the testimony of Christ to the world would be lost."

When the conference was held Peter spoke first, calling attention to his own experience with the descent of the Holy Spirit upon Gentiles and that the old yoke had been more than the fathers could bear. Paul and Barnabas supported Peter's views. Finally James, quoted Amos 9:11-12, arguing that the liberty of the Church to present the gospel to the Gentiles was maintained but at the same time the promises of God to the chosen people had not been cancelled. Thereupon, the suggestion of James as to the disposition of the vexatious question was adopted.

As said by Philip Schaff, James "was an honest, conscientious, eminently practical, conciliatory Jewish Christian, the right man, at the right place, at the right time. The mission of James was evidently to stand in the breach between the synagogue and the Church, and to lead the disciples of Moses gently to Christ. He was the only man who could do it in the time of the approach of the doom of the Holy City. As long as there was any hope of a conversion of the Jews as a nation, he prayed for it and made the transition as easy as possible. When that hope vanished, his mission was fulfilled."

"The Epistle of James is the most Jewish writing in the New Testament," says Doremus Almy Hayes. "If we eliminate two or three passages concerning references to Christ, the whole Epistle might find its place just as properly in the canon of the Old Testament as in that of the New Testament, as far as its substance of doctrine and contents is concerned. That could not be said of any other book in the New Testament. There is no mention of the incarnation of Christ. The word 'gospel' does not occur in the Epistle. Nevertheless, the Spirit of Christ is here. The principles of this Epistle are the principles of the Sermon on the Mount, to which there are more references than can be found anywhere else in the New Testament in the same space (about 15 references). It has to do with the outward life for the most part, and the life it pictures is that of a Jew informed with the Spirit of Christ."

Bainbridge Colby, leading a movement to organize right-wing Democrats into a third party movement, has been a Republican, a Democrat and a Bullmoose. He was for the NR-A in 1933, but later intensely disliked it. As Secretary of State under Woodrow Wilson, he instituted the policy of not recognizing Russia.
