HIGH POINT, NORTH CAROLINA, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1911

A ROUSING MEETING

PLANS BIGGER AND BETTER THINGS FOR HIGH POINT

The citizens mass meeting held at the Auditorium last night was a great success. A large number of enthusiastic citizens from every section of the city were present and were deeply interested in the proceedings of the meeting.

Mayor Tate stated the object of the meeting and also outlined the work to be done by an industrial club, such as it was hoped could be organized here. Col. Robinson, Mr. Matt Hedgecock, Mr. Cottam, Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Cox, Mr. Parker, Col. Milton, Dr. Burrus and other gentlemen made rousing talks along the line of united effort on the part of all classes of High Point's citizenship in working for the common interest of building up High Point.

The plan outlined by Mayor Tate as to membership, etc., was somewhat as follows: That the club membership composed of every white citizen of the town, whether business man, professional man, laboring man, or any other class of honest citizens, and that the dues be held down to a very small sum, probably not more than $1.00 per year, and that the place for holding the monthly meetings or other meetings of the organization be at the Manufacturers' Club Rooms, which the club would cheerfully allow without charge, and that the organization be divided up into several departments, each in charge of a competent head, so that the general work of attracting new industries to High Point and bringing outside capital into our midst, as well as beautifying the city and making it more attractive in every way, might be carried on in an orderly, business-like way, and with an organized effort on the part of every citizen of the town interested in the upbuilding of High Point.

great results in this way might be accomplished. Another object of this organization is to get every citizen of High Point interested in doing something for the town and in talking its advantages to every person whether a High Pointer or not. In this way a great many things can be accomplished without the cost of very much time or means.

The Mayor was instructed to appoint a committee of twenty citizens, five from each of the four wards, to meet at an early date and to frame an organization and call another mass meeting of all the citizens of the town to be held in the Manufacturers' Club Rooms just as soon as practicable.

About the best name suggested for this organization is The High Point Industrial Club, and this will probably be the name adopted.

The names of the committee of twenty will be published within a day or two, and it is hoped that every citizen will become deeply interested in this movement and help to make the membership reach 500 by the time the club is well organized and in working shape.

There were several Confederate veterans who attended the funeral in uniform and a large number of friends from out of town who came to pay their respects to the memory of the deceased.

THAT HOBBLE.

A few days ago the Enterprise described the expression of an old lady when she saw her first hobble skirt and offered a subscription to the one who could describe her feelings. The following reply in verse has been received:

Just a Thinking

I'm just a plain old country lady
Down the road I'm trodding's pretty shady,
And our barn is not as full as in days of yore.

A Plea For Pure Athletics

It should be the aim of modern education to develop symmetrical manhood and womanhood and by symmetrical development we mean the enlargement of the intellectual, the physical, the moral. If it fails in any one of these three fundamentals, its output is not a product finished and well rounded, but necessarily lap sided.

But few opportunities pass when the teacher does not, and should, impress upon the young and plastic mind, the import of moral responsibility and the duty of righteousness. We devote our English, mathematics, history and Latin, and other branches of the high school, as essential to intellectual growth, and justly so, but how often we neglect the virtue of the physical, the foundation stone upon which the mental and spiritual must rest.

The formative period of youth is characterized by a spirit of physical adventure, buoyancy and indomitable enthusiasm. It is therefore, the burden of education, not to suppress and restrict such natural tendencies, but by clean and healthy methods, to direct into proper channels these normal propensities.

It was the old Greek ideal, a sound mind in a sound body, coming down to us through many centuries, that produced a race of beings, with the exception of their religion, unparalleled in the history of nations.

Moreover, there is such an intimate relationship between the mental and the physical, such a mutual dependency of the one upon the other, that the neglect of either proves a detriment to the highest development of the individual.

Let us, then, at all time, supply and apply physical stimuli, as well as the mental and moral, and rationally guided, we shall see the rising generation, not a race of weaklings, of vapid and mawkish creatures, but a stronger people in all respects, physically, mentally and ethically.

(Winston Journal)

A brilliant reception at the home of Mrs. George W. Coan on Fifth street Tuesday evening will mark the delightful prelude to what promises to be the greatest meeting of the North Carolina United Daughters of the Confederacy in all history. And when the annual State Convention of this magnificent organization convenes for the first session in this city next Wednesday morning it is expected that more than 200 delegates from all sections of the State, besides many visiting daughters, will be in their places for the opening program. Beginning with the session Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock the convention will continue until Friday evening when the grand finale will be a music recital at Salem College. Members of the local John B. Gordon Chapter U. D. C. and other ladies of the city have made elaborate arrangements for the excellent entertainment of the many visitors.

The sessions of the convention will be held in the auditorium of the city high school. Yesterday the spacious room was being beautifully decorated for the occasion.

The opening reception at the home of Mrs. Coan Tuesday evening is expected to be a most delightful affair. It will continue from 8:30 until 11 o'clock. Those invited to this reception are Delegates, members of the local John B. Gordon Chapter and their husbands. All ladies who are entertaining visiting daughters who are not delegates to the convention.
