

ALL FOOLS DAY IS COMING TOMORROW

If you see a perfectly good hat reposing on the sidewalk tomorrow don't kick it—it'll be sure to hide a brick which may play havoc with horns.

If your telephone rings and you answer it, only to be "number please"—ed by the opr., don't cuss—the person at the other end of the line is but acting natural and well within his or her rights.

You see tomorrow is All Fool's day and all of them are generally working at their trade. In those parts the 24-hour period is known as April Fool's day. And it generally is.

Just thought you'd be interested to know that you'll have to be on the lookout for slickers tomorrow.

Get This Out—It is Worth Money. DON'T MISS THIS. Cut out this slip, enclose with 5c to Foley & Co., 2345 Sheffield Ave., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. DAYLIGHT SAVING IS ORDER OF DAY

The new time, as the daylight saving schedule of hours is known hereabouts, slipped into being again Sunday morning and by today scarcely anyone knows the difference. Getting accustomed to the change was a trifle hard Sunday morning—several missed church services because they overslept, at least they say so—but this morning there was little difficulty encountered in living right smack up to the new doings.

By the end of the week no one will know the slightest bit of difference and the hours saved toward the end of the day will well repay for the ones usually given over for sleep at morning.

NOT ALL ELIGIBLE.

Special Training Only For Certain Class of Injured Men.

Washington, March 27.—The federal board for vocational education today issued the following statement: "There has been somewhat of a confusion in the public mind relative to the rehabilitation work in general, and a great many applications have been received by this board from men who have received some sort of injury or disability as a result of their service in the army, navy or marine corps, and who think themselves entitled to the retraining which this board administers.

"This free vocational reeducation or special training was designed by the government for cases of the most severe or permanent character. The disabled man in order to be eligible for this retraining and support must first have been discharged from the service. Second, his disability must be such that he has been awarded or is eligible for 'compensation' from the war risk insurance bureau. It was designed by congress to correct the disability caused by wounds or disease, and to supply the disabled man with means of making a livelihood. This is done by capitalizing his remaining assets, retraining them and making them serve him in place of those qualities or accomplishments which he has lost. Congress delegated this work to the federal board for vocational education which has headquarters at Washington, and district offices in fourteen different cities in the United States.

"The board desires to assist disabled men in every way, and if there are cases where these men have not obtained compensation, or where their status has not been determined by the war risk insurance bureau, the services of the federal board are placed at the disposal of the individual in order to help them find just what their status is.

"When cases has been found to be 'compensable,' the line for which the man desires training is decided upon, he is given a sufficient amount to support him comfortably while studying; an allowance is made to his dependents—more liberal than when he was in active service—and when he has finished and is competent, if it is a wage-earning occupation he has been training for, a position will have been found for him by the placement division of the board.

SWEDISH DOCTORS PRESENT PETITION

Stockholm, March 1.—(By mail.)—One request that America should send food to Germany was drawn up here by a delegation of medical scientists representing 200 Swedish physicians who asked the American minister, Ira Nelson Morris, to forward it to President Wilson.

The petition was supported by the report of Professor J. E. Johansson, a nutrition expert, whose investigation of the German situation has been in progress since 1915. He declared that tuberculosis in Germany has increased 100 per cent. Basing their argument on this statement, the Swedish doctors in their petition said serious epidemics might be expected to spread through the world from Germany unless food was soon supplied to the German people.

Since the Swedish petition was presented to Mr. Morris, Germany has agreed to surrender her merchant ships to the allies and the latter have promised to send food to Germany.

AFTER-EFFECTS OF INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

Influenza was the direct cause of 9,686 deaths in North Carolina during October, November, and December, 1919, according to the reports received by the state board of health, and up to March, 1919, the number of deaths from the disease exceeded 11,000. This loss of life, together with the suffering and financial cost, is a burden that it will take the state many years to overcome. The most serious result of the epidemic, in the opinion of the state board of health, is the after-effects which will cripple a majority of the men and women who suffered from the disease. Injuries to either the lungs, the kidneys, or the heart are a common result of influenza and if persons having these defects are not treated early the defects will become more pronounced and lead to handicaps and, in a great many instances, to invalidism and early death.

The American Public Health association, through Dr. Lee K. Frankel, its president, is urging every person who had influenza to go to a physician and be thoroughly examined in order to find out if any injury was caused to the vital organs by the disease. If any defects are found in it, of course, highly important to have these treated before they become serious or permanent. In this connection it is interesting to know that there are 10 counties in North Carolina, which are cooperating with the state board of health in providing these examinations for their citizens. These are Davidson, Forsyth, Lenoir, Nash, Northampton, Pitt, Robeson, Rowan, and Wilson. Citizens of these counties should ask their health officer for an appointment for free examination.
