productions for servicemen. He was with the American Theatre Wing for two years and is acting with Herbert Machuz.

He has worked in both radio and television and has appeared on several productions of Highway.

Last December, at the first Arts Council Ball, Silver was presented with a scroll in recognition of his service and support with the Arts Council.

The Arts Council has already inaugurated a program for the fall. Presently on exhibit at the Arts Council Building at 500 N. Main St. is the High Point Arts Guild Show. Featuring work by members of the guild.

IRVING SILVER

The Irving Silver Scholarship Fund of the High Point Arts Council has been increased by $1,000. The gift to the fund came from a church group in New York City, according to an Arts Council spokesman.

Charles Stone is president of the Arts Council, which seeks to promote and coordinate cultural activities in High Point.

The Irving Silver Scholarship Fund is used by the council to pay for the tuition and materials for students who otherwise would not be able to participate in classes conducted by the council.

Past president of the council, Silver presently is a member of the board of trustees of the organization. A native of High Point and secretary-treasurer, Silver Craft Variateur Co., Silver has been active in arts programs since 1954.

He is a past president of the High Point Chapter of the North Carolina Symphony Society and in 1966 directed a production for the company. He has also participated in stage productions at High Point College and with the Greensboro Lyric Theatre.

While in the Air Force, Silver was with Special Services, performing in and directing

J. C. Smith U. Prexy Resigns

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Dr. J. C. Smith, president of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, has resigned effective Dec. 31 to go back to teaching.

The 42-year-old educator will become president emeritus and first James B. Duke Distinguished Professor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, effective Dec. 31 to go back to teaching.

Dr. Perry had made his retirement announcement last week, but he wanted to spend the latter years of his life "teaching a little, and doing a little of my own thing."

A native of Georgia and a graduate of Smith and a student of Dr. Perry, he is expected to be named before Jan. 1.

Dr. Perry became president of the university in 1965. He was administrative dean of the university from 1961 to 1965.

In High Point

Passion Play To Be Offered

The English version of the world-famous Oberammergau Passion Play will be presented in Memorial Auditorium at High Point on Oct. 18-19.

Sponsored by the High Point Exchange Club, the presentation will feature the role of Christ.

Ballet, who also directs the production, reports that the Oberammergau presentation is his family to play in biblical drama. He has acted and portrayed all the leading figures in several versions of the Passion Play.

He has also toured with his father's company in South America and Europe.

The Passion Play has been performed every 10 years for the past 225 years in the small village of Oberammergau, in Bavaria, Germany.

The play was first performed in 1634 to fulfill a vow made by the people of the village. Earlier, the countryside had been struck by a plague which wiped out the population in several months.

Oberammergau escaped the plague until one of its residents, a young girl, died of the disease.

She was buried in the village cemetery and the plague suddenly abated.

The play depicts events in the life of Christ during his last few days on earth.

Advance tickets for the High Point presentation are on sale by Exchange Club members and at 411 W. Washington St.

Tops Amulance Park Before Monday Session

High Point posted its sixth million dollar contract for ambulances this year in building permits during August, according to reports prepared by the Planning Board.

Permits for 10 ambulances were issued by the department in August to make that month the second highest in value of permits issued.

Other months when building permits totaled over $1 million were February, April, May, June and July. Total of last year produced a total value of $1,100,000.

August brought issuance of 50 permits for ambulances valued at a total of $50,000. This was the sixth month the department has issued more than 30 permits for building this year. In August of last year the department issued 60 permits for ambulances having a value of $50,000.

During August, the department issued 143 permits valued at $1,081,513 for non-residential buildings. This was the largest amount for business improvements that year. The value for the same month last year was $489,750 for 100 permits.

Ill and said the permits included 48,200 square feet for business purposes. The permits included 48,200 square feet for business purposes.

In addition, the Inspections Department issued 21 permits for ambulances valued at $200,000 and 40 permits valued at $20,000 for repairs to buildings. It issued 10 permits worth $17,000 for repairs to non-residential property.

He said that the permits issued during August included 20 having a value of $45,000 located in the West End area outside of High Point.

ambulance service operated by Todd Bridges of Charlotte. He said that although the contract gives the firm exclusive rights for operating throughout Guilford except in the Stakefield and Glenwood areas, it does not prohibit ambulance services in adjoining counties to serve emergency cases on the county's fringes.

The plan calls for a dispatcher receiving an emergency call to a fringe area to immediately send an ambulance, and, to the event the scene of the emergency is located in another county, to notify the ambulance service in that county and the appropriate law enforcement agency as well.

He said that county management and ambulance company officials during the session said they would like to see the plan could technically improve an Ambulance Service of Guilford, but that in an emergency it may be necessary to look beyond local territorialities and see that service is dispatched with haste.

Non-emergency calls, Colby said, a dispatcher can check with the county where the person needing an ambulance is located.

Colby added that the existence of the ambulance service in the fringes of Guilford, Randolph and Davidson counties will help speed services.

THE SPARK for development of a land plan came during a session when the county manager and several of the Guilford school board members and aid victims of a school bus accident in Davidson County. Officials have said a plan such as this is particularly needed in the heavily populated fringe areas around the edges of High Point.

County officials have not discussed whether they will discontinue a letter from Brantley reportedly seen in the contract his firm has with the county. County Manager John Whitehouse said recently he wanted to give the letter "a good bit of thought" before making a recommendation. At present, county members will receive reports from Planning Director Lindsay Cox on a housing study and on a billboard survey and they will hear business presented by Whitehouse and by County Attorney N. D. McHenry.

Greensboro Road Rezoning Request Considered By Commission

Two requests for rezoning of property located near rural public roads in Greensboro were considered by the Guilford County Board of Commissioners for public hearing on Monday.

One case involves a request for rezoning of property on S. 29A approximately three-quarters of a mile from Mills Road. Elementary School and a private home are located on the property.

Plans call for a large multi-story shopping center to be located on the 20 acre tract situated east of S. 29A from a site the Guilford County Board of Education has purchased for a new school complex.

At 10 a. m. commissioners will be hearing a request by John Snow for rezoning of property on the West side of U. S. 29A about 600 ft.

south of the Cambridge Road intersection from agricultural and residential to planned commercial.

Guilford County Planning Board has recommended the site be rezoned and the county Board of Education has indicated it accepts the recommendation of the Planning Board.

Two Youths Charged In Break-Ins

RANDLEMAN — Two juveniles were arrested last night by Randleman police chief J. D. Dawkins on charges of breaking into a store in the Randleman and New Market elementary schools.

Assistant police chief in the case is Harley Hicks, Randolph County Sheriff's deputy. One of the juveniles was not released since both are under 16 years of age. Their arrest is expected, Dawkins said.

The break-in at New Market School was reported to the sheriff's department yesterday by school officials. Entry had been gained into the building, and school reading machines had been broken into and money was stolen. Both machines were severely damaged. A quantity of ice cream also was missing.

THE 'M' THAT The Shaky Throne

You've heard about the "power of the press."

Over 100 million people are reading the news every day. It's the power of the press.

All you've got to do is a reputation as an office book.

YOU REALLY have to know the office jargon to be a success.

Obviously something bad has happened to his meetings. As long as the jargon is there, the jargon is there.

The throne is apt to slip away or tear, while making repetitive gurgling noises.

bad mood, it overflows its banks.

"I've gotten so concerned about the staff lately that I'm afraid I'm overreacting."

When the water starts running out the door, somebody yells: "Take John in for a drink!" and everybody lets their feet.

But when a stranger goes into the Tilling House, the staff runs from its room and into the street.

It sounds like the scream women use when a roller coaster takes the first dip.

That's what happened to the Titanic. We thought about painting something on its nose so that how many people it has shot down.

But, everything appropriate was too deep for the office of a family newspaper.

I CAME up with a good idea.

I suggested we get the throne with a seat belt. That got shot down, too.

The "Snoopy" gag is building a new building. Everybody is trying to find out where the desks are going to be.

I don't care where they end up. I keep asking where they are going to be. I've got a sneaky feeling that they are going to take our old Johnny with us.

More than that, the desk thing probably will follow us.

So I can't stand the people who are always trying to tell me what I'm doing.
