The Senatorial Question.

Hon. F. M. Simmons was elected to the Senate to take the place of Marion Butler by over 50,000 majority, and Gen. J. S. Carr was defeated by a like majority. We are proud of Alamance county's vote for Mr. Carr. She did herself honor. We have never known a more bitter fight to have been waged inside the ranks of any party as was waged in the Primary contest and we hope to never have to go through such another. We are glad to see that the two great men have shaken hands and buried the hatchet, and we are sure that their followers will follow the example of their leaders and go to work to restore the goodwill that existed before the canvass. We have been called Populists, Republicans and accused of everything, and our best friends have forsaken us, on account of our fight for Mr. Carr, but all these grievances have been forgotten, and we, with our defeated candidate, declare our determination to forget and forgive and claim the right to be Democrats true and tried, once more.

The result of the election was a surprise to us. We thought Bryan would be elected, partly because we wanted him to be, and because we thought the indications pointed that way. It was a complete defeat of Mr. Bryan. In fact we believe Mr. Bryan was the cause of the defeat of the party this year. We believe in Mr. Bryan and his principles, and believe because he was such a strong man, a man who could not be bought or influenced to do evil, the trusts, the money of the country and every other influence was against him and fought him as they would not have fought any other living man; and hence his defeat. The name of William J. Bryan will go down into history as standing for all that is right, and some day when this old government finds herself floundering helplessly

The above table gives the following majorities: McKinley, 333; Joyce, 215; Carr, 357. The Prohibition electors received 32 votes, and the Middle-of-the-Road Populists, 6. Simmons receives 841 votes; Carr, 1,194. Carr's majority 353. There were 765 fewer votes cast than in August, when the total vote was 4,844. The combined vote of Senatorial candidates was 39 greater than Kitchin's vote.

as a monarchal government trying to govern a free people, his doctrine will triumph and redeem her from truction, if not wrent by a terri revolution before.

We never heard of so many congratulations being offered after an election as this. Roosevelt congratulates McKinley and the nation upon his, McKinley's, (?) election, and McKinley congratulates Roosevelt upon his, Roosevelt's, (?) election. Hanna turns up his great eyes to heaven and thanks God for "all of us" election, and the band plays on.

We do not see how the result can be known as to who is elected President until our Porto Rican, Philippine and Hawaiian citizens can be heard from.

May the Lord have mercy on us all. Hanna is spoken of as the next Presidential candidate of the Republicans.

The Campaign Booby Prize.

From the New York World. By unanimous consent the booby prize of the political campaign is to be awarded to the man doing the most harm to his own party has been given to Richard Croker, on the following points: Giving "too much Croker" at the first Bryan meeting in this city. Advocating force at the polls. Stringing insulting mottoes over the heads of the Republicans on parade. Putting an imitation of wild Roosevelt in a cage and having it hauled through the streets. Giving daily bulletins on the situation which were destitute of sense and in language which the stenographer failed to put into English. Until toward the close of the campaign it looked as if Theodore Roosevelt would have a walkover for the booby prize, but after Croker took the lead he never stopped and won in a plunge.

Work for Young Men.

Southern Farm Magazine of Baltimore for November: "There is a heap of truth in these words. In the wreck which followed the war, young Southern men could hardly be blamed for seeking a competence in other parts of the country. But times have changed. Now the South emerging from its tremendous difficulties, is not only demanding that its young men shall abide at home, but is beckoning with attractive finger to those who have grown up afar and also to the men not to the manner born. There is work to be done in the South—work of building for developing towns and cities, of extending railroad lines, of uncovering rich minerals, of utilizing timber resources and of diversifying and advancing agricultural interests. This work should be done by Southerners. They ought to be best qualified to reap its beneficent rewards."
