STATE NEWS

Gleaned from Our Exchanges.

Wadesboro Intelligencer: About fifteen months ago a strange disease broke out among the hogs near Mr. Gilead, and has steadily moved northward. Tuesday it was within one mile of Wadesboro, killing every swine in its path.

Greenville Reflector: On Wednesday night last Mr. James W. Brown and Miss L. S. Moore were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the residence of the bride's mother, in the town of Greenville.

Dan Valley Echo: There has never been a time in Rockingham county when so much interest was taken in the cause of education as at present. Private schools in many sections are succeeding the public, and in many sections private schools are established when the public are not.

Roanoke News: On Sunday morning the household of Mr. A. Prescott in a farm, near town, was burned, together with a plentiful supply of corn and other things. It is supposed that the fire was set on fire. On Monday a barn belonging to Mr. J. W. Bradley, at Whitakers, was burned with about sixty bar'ls of corn, a lot of peas, fodder, etc. There was no insurance. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin.

Winston Republican: From Lexington, N. C., comes the familiar story of ketosene oil, fire and death. Tuesday morning of last week the wife of Mr. Julius Fox attempted to kindle a fire by the aid of kerosene. The can exploded, her clothing ignited and before assistance could be rendered, she was so badly burned that death resulted the same day. The deceased had just passed her 18th year and leaves a child only three months of age.

Elizabeth City Economist: We announce with pain that our venerable citizen, F. S. Proctor, was stricken with paralysis yesterday morning.——Is it true that the tides on our coast are lower than ever known by the oldest inhabitant and that the August earthquake was the cause of it?——The Bishop of the Diocese of East Carolina made his annual visitation to this parish on Thursday and Friday and administered the right of confirmation to six persons on Friday.

Greensboro News: It is rumored that parties from the east are here negotiating for the Steele blind and sash factory near the depot, and the proprietor, Mr. McAdoo, will have it tested to show the parties its capacity.——Mr. C. M. Beamguard, a tobacco dealer of Baltimore, has been in the city for the last few days. He is well pleased with the prospects for the tobacco business in this city and says he intends to locate here and go into the business.

The Western Enterprise gives the following: Jim Burnett, col., butcher at this place, had a negro to hold a beef while he knocked it in the head with an axe. Jim made a mistick and the negro caught the lick which was intended for the beef on his head. The negro fell and Jim ran for a doctor, but the unfortunate man soon recovered, and, while it jolted him considerably, it's another living evidence, that it is not worth while to strike a negro on the head to kill him.

Charlotte Chronicle: The firemen of Charlotte are preparing to celebrate the 20th of May in fine style, and a meeting of committees from the various companies was held at the Hornet hall last night to set the ball in motion.——There is an epidemic of mumps among the railroad men, and the engineers, conductors and crews of the freight trains seem to be the special favorites. Yesterday morning a freight conductor came in with his jaws bulging out over his shoulders, and had to be sent home by his doctor by special conveyance. We are told that Cassie Davis' mule is the employe of the Richmond & Danville Company are now down with a similar case.

Wilmington Star: National Bank stocks sold by auction at Exchange Corner yesterday, brought: Second Charleston, Ware Works stock brought 90.——Asheville Hotel site and a building used as a colored school-house in that city were sold at auction yesterday afternoon. Hotel site brought $1,000 and the building $100.——Mr. Wm. Hall, a well-known colored citizen of this city, died very suddenly about midnight Tuesday night. He was in the employ of the Wilmington & Weldon railroad company.

Wilmington Star: The railroad to Navassa is now in the hands of the contractors, and trains will soon be running upon it.——A fellow writes that he runs a patent on poetry. Why we don't see why poetry is a jam to be put up, but we are glad that he has a patent on it, for then nobody else can claim either the glory or the blame.——We are glad that Mr. Murphy has decided to run for Congress. We are also glad that Mr. Murphy has decided to run as a democrat and not as a Republican or Independent. Democrats are democrats in this district and will be so as long as the district exists.——Mr. Murphy will be supported by Democrats from all parts of the district.——Mr. Murphy is a gentleman of the highest character, and is a Democrat of the old school. He is a Democrat because he believes the principles of the Democratic party are for the best interests of the country, and not because he is looking for office
