Kinston Items.

Thermometer on Saturday reached 99 degrees. The river is low again, but the steamers are running. 'Dog days' don't deter Kinston youth from frolicking in the waters of the Neuse.

Why are dry goods now, in our market, like pines? Because it is a drop in the market.

Wassamotta has reached hard pan prices—three for a nickel, for the whole lot for a quarter.

Our town is exceedingly healthy. The citizens don't seem to have a care about the yellow fever.

Mr. Abe Ottling, of that popular firm of Outing gear, has been North on a day's outing goods.

Our mill pond fishermen keep the market well supplied with pike and pike. The dress and the mill pond was sold on Saturday.

Our lawyers all about under shade trees or lounge in their cool offices waiting for and preparing for the next case to come this week.

Lewis Grady, the 'old campaigner,' is arranging to leave for the States. He ought to swing the vote with the bottom knocked out of the top.

Kinston College begins its seventh year on September 13. Dr. Lewis has received several applications for admission from surrounding counties.

Crops are certainly better this fall than in any year since 1890. The corn crop was thought to be very seriously injured by the dry spell, but has been very much helped by the recent rains.

An enthusiastic Simmons man declared the other day that it was right to take every precaution against yellow fever, for, said he, our Congressman Simmons might get it and that would be a great calamity.

Between Cheatham and Mebane in this county, Cheatham stock seems to be a little in the ascendency, but Simmons will clean up, because everybody recognizes in him a useful member and an honor to the district.

The Republicans in this county are having some trouble in their ranks. The late Mr. Wood's store and the school building are the main points of difference who they put up their stakes will be badly smashed in November.

Our Pink Hill and South West friends are happy now that they have the convenience of mail service. A new office, with J. W. Kelly's service, has been established at J. M. Wood's store and is called Cabernet and the mail goes to Repeal. Another branch for Simmons.

This is the first time I ever heard of an old colored man the other day, who was frightened at the report of yellow fever and fled to the mountains from town, when he was informed that that terrible scourge would not attack a black man.

Mr. R. W. Canady is putting the college property in fine order. The high ground which has been the growing place are being removed—lawn mowers to shave down the high grass, lawns to be planted inside and outside and a bright, fresh aspect will be given to all the surroundings.

Our widowers and old bachelors have been having a gay time this summer. They ride out in the afternoons with their dulcianas and then drop in after tea and sing and play the piano in every direction. Wonder if the approaching winter season will be retarded by the sound of music.

Capt. E. R. Page, ex-Sheriff Knover, E. M. Fauce, Esq., and a number of other Jones county gentlemen were at the opening court this week. Capt. Page is still a wheel horse in the Republican camp but he is for our section and has favored a more conservative course to carry them through, that will build up the East.

Judge Merrimon opened court at 10 o'clock Monday morning. A good jury with George Turner, Esq., foreman was selected. The first case on the charge was delivered in the presence of a large and attentive audience. The charge was not in the least lenient, but trying to tell the grand jury all the law there is in the statute books but rather a lecture on their duty and everybody pronounced it a very fine one. It is a most excellent judge.

Our Montana boys have been heard from several times since their migration from Kinston a month ago. They are all four in very good health and employed at unusually good wages. They write that employers there want all the men they can get that are sober, industrious and energetic.

Frank Lusk, a colored man who was well known here, died on Monday morning while giving a ride in his city. Two negroes prevailed upon the dead of mistake, the other that his death was from heart disease. He was about 60 years old.

A Remarkable Dream. In another column will be found a remarkable dream of a colored man in the town. He has written it out just as he saw it, and will not be all a dream which would be a dream.

A Young Lawyer Drowned. Capt. Hill, Esq., a promising young lawyer, was drowned in the Neuse on Thursday evening last. His body was recovered and taken to Washington on Friday.

Drowned. A postmaster in Washington, D. C., announced that a little boy, son of Capt. May, had fallen from the top of the Washington Monument and was drowned.

Sundered. J. H. Adams, who was charged with the murder of the postmaster, was found guilty and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Democracy Booming.

J. J. Moore, Esq. of Hooksett town, Green County, has had two sons arrive at voting age since the last national election, and to make matters more encouraging his good lady reports that she has a third son on the way.

The election is thought to be the year in which the old and young are commencing to raise two Democrats at a time.

First Open Ball. Uddie Fryer, whose farm is about three miles from the city brought in three or four well developed bolls of cotton Thursday.

He says his cotton crop is splendid and is beginning to ripen rapidly. He hopes to have a bale in before the first of September.

By reference to our files we find that the first open ball was brought in here as early as 1847.

It is interesting to note that it is not so long ago that the cotton crop was so small that it was not worth the trouble of picking.

Our city council was in special session Thursday for the purpose of adopting more rigid quarantine regulations.

An ordinance passed on the subject will be found in this issue.

Some of these regulations may seem a little too rigid, but to those who have passed through the scourge of 1894 nothing can be so logical that will prevent a recurrence of such an affliction.

We had later reports from the investment made by the farmers.

Atlantic and North Carolina Railway.

In a recent issue of the Journal the report of President H. H. Van Bokkelen, the stockholders of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railway, was published.

The report is a full and frank one, and it is interesting to note that it is not so long ago that the cotton crop was so small that it is not worth the trouble of picking.

Although Harper's Magazine for September is a full number, there are reasons about it of turning in the year and a low leaf.

On the contrary, all the leaves retain the vigor and freshness of summer to a degree that is simply marvellous. The faces of all the editors and contributors are beaming with the joy of the harvest.
