SOME time ago a woman's club, said to be the first of the kind in this country, was organized in New York, and now one has been organized in Philadelphia. It is composed of some of the most aristocratic women of that city, and classes in reading, musical instruction, sewing and cooking will be formed. At a few of the entertainments a limited number of gentlemen will be admitted.—Exchange.

NEARLY every country of Europe has about perfected arrangements for using only smokeless powder in military operations, and soon all ought to be able to carry on the business of war at the old stands with unexampled facility. What with smokeless powder, dynamite guns, nitro-glycerine bombs, and other modern inventions of war, it may soon come to be a choice between annihilation and no war. We may have to agree to universal peace in order to escape universal destruction.—New York Star.

SULLIVAN and Jackson will not fight near Norfolk under any supposed authority conferred by the charter referred to, and half of Richmond will have to be content with less exciting sport if they should come. There is plenty of fine fun down here, but no prize fights, no duels, nor Spanish bull contests. There are splendid hotels and fishing clubs, and sea bathing, and shooting and dancing and flirting, and apollinaris and lemonade, etc., etc., but, though the breath of a great boom is in every breeze, we are in Virginia, not in Mexico—nor New York.—Norfolk Landmark.

A SOUND of wailing and gnashing of teeth goes up from the Massachusetts Congressmen, who say they will fight the McKinley bill till its hide is taken off, and the Massachusetts boot and shoe manufacturers, who find themselves unexpectedly, and, as they think, unreasonably, attacked in the house of their friends. Threats that Massachusetts will go Democratic are heard on all sides. Even the Boston Advertiser gloomily remarks: "If Chairman McKinley and his Republican associates wanted to take the course most likely to secure the transfer of Massachusetts from the Republican to the Democratic column of States at the next election, they could not have hit upon a plan more shrewdly adapted to that end."—New York Sun.

THE executive committee of the Georgia Farmers' Alliance has agreed upon the questions which all candidates for office from ballot to Congressman, will be required to answer. They demand that the powers of the State Railroad Commission shall be enlarged, and that more control of the railroads be given to the State and Interstate Commissions. They demand that better common school facilities shall be afforded the children of the State, poor and work houses for the indigent, that convicts be better treated and cared for, and that the able-bodied ones be made to work the roads, the lowest possible tariff duties on all articles necessary to the farmers of the country, and that all candidates for office in Georgia shall place themselves squarely with the alliance on this policy.

TREED BY A BULL.

The New York Star has an account of an aged farmer who was treed by a bull. "The bull rushed on the opposite side of the lot to wards Murry following savagely. The old farmer made for a tree near by, the lower branches of which were not far from ground. He succeeded in climbing the tree and getting out of the reach of the bull just as it came tearing to the spot.

Murry supposed that when the bull found that he was out of its reach it would go about its business, but the vicious animal showed no disposition to do anything of the kind. It remained under the tree, pawing the ground and giving vent to its rage in bellowsings. Murry called loudly for help, but he was out of the hearing of any one about there. It grew so dark that he could see nothing, and only knew that the bull was keeping up the siege by the noise it made. For three hours the bull kept the old man in the tree. Murry was nearly lead from cold and exhaustion, and he felt that it would be only a matter of a short time before he would have to let go his hold in the tree and fall to the ground at the mercy of the bull unless some fortunate circumstance turned up to his rescue.

Old man Murry was in a bad fix. If he kept in the tree he would freeze, if he came down the bull would get him. The Republican party has been treed by a bull. It is the same old brand that has been bellowing and pawing up the ground these many years. It has a special penchant for farmers and its name is Tariff. It has a long Hamiltonian pedigree, and a numerous offspring including monopoly, plutocracy and trusts. It is a vicious animal, and at times it turns and rends its warmest friends. For a long time it has grazed on Republican pastures, but now it has the Republican party up a tree.

This is a bad fix for the G. O. P. If it stays up the tree it will freeze, if it comes down it will be pawed to death. Mr. McKinley has attempted to rope the brand, but he is in danger of falling on the horns of the beast and being tripped from centre to circumference. So far as we are concerned, we do not care whether the Republican party stays up the tree and is frozen, or comes down and is pawed to death. The funeral will take place all the same, and there will be precious little mourning among the people.

A bull in a china shop is nothing to a bull with the Republican party up a tree. Harrison was treed long ago. Imbecility treed him. Wanamaker was treed by maladministration, but it took a genuine tariff bull to put the whole party up a tree. Now, what is the conclusion of the whole matter? Simply that Republicans cannot agree upon the tariff. Eastern manufacturers demand a high protective tariff, and Western farmers demand a low revenue tariff. The bull has the party up a tree, and its escape is impossible.

THE FARMERS ASSOCIATION OF SOUTH CAROLINA. Through all the years of the past American farmers have constituted, in a large measure, the conservative element of the country, and it will be a sad day in the history of the Republic when for any cause, conservatism is abandoned. That there has existed, and still exists a condition of affairs that severely tries the pluck and fortitude of American farmers is not to be questioned. That this condition is to some extent incident to the political situation must be admitted, but other factors enter into the problem, and those who ignore them cannot arrive at a proper solution.

It must be remembered that no occupation is so much affected by the times and seasons as that of the farmer, and it is evident to all that no portion of the people of this country suffered so much by the war between the States as did the farmers of the South. The labor upon which Southern farmers depended was destroyed and in its destruction $1,000,000,000 was lost to the South. Was it possible for an agricultural people to recover from such a loss in a quarter of a century? Is it not wonderful that the South has breathed the waves of misfortune and survived the storm?

Her present condition, moving steadily to the front and carrying her triumphant banners over once desolated fields, converting the wilderness into a garden and filling the desert with springs that leap from its bosom and sparkle in the sun is a spectacle in which the nations look with admiring wonder. Admit that the political situation is adverse to agricultural prosperity, must the country lose the conservatism that has been its shield and backer, and rush madly into social disorder and political revolution? This will not, cannot be. The strong arms and brave hearts of agriculturalists will continue to be the bulwark of the nation and the defense of our people.

We are led to these reflections by the late action of the Farmers Association of South Carolina in convention assembled. This action has made no little stir throughout the country. In some places the object of the Association is misinterpreted, in other places, where its purpose is understood, it is criticised as disorganizing and hurtful in its tendencies. No movement can make even temporary headway which does not profess to have reform for its object. The Farmers Association of South Carolina asserts that the State is under the control of oligues and rings, and that representation in the Legislature is not properly apportioned. If this is so it is a serious fault, and there should be no delay in its removal. It is patriotic in the Association to call attention to the fact and insist upon reformation, but it is unwise to organize against the great political party that has made a highway through the wilderness in which it is attempting to blaze a path with the pioneer's axe.

Popular rule and representation according to population are cardinal principles of Democracy. The place to fight oligues and break rings is in a convention of the Democratic party. There are but two parties in this country. There never can be but two great parties in any country. The Farmers Association of South Carolina must nail its colors to the mast of the good old Democracy, or they must man the piratical craft that floats the Republican flag.

We have no fears in this matter. The success of the Democratic party in South Carolina is not imperiled by this movement. The farmers of South Carolina will stand shoulder to shoulder with the farmers of Virginia, North Carolina and Georgia, in support of the principles that have rendered the American Democracy glorious and immortal.

THE ELECTORAL COLLEGE. When the nation was passing through its formative period, the smaller States were jealous of the power of the larger ones, and in order to evade this embarrassment it was assumed that the States were equal in dignity and honor. Every State entering the Union was therefore entitled to two Senators, and Representative according to its population. But this was not enough. The smaller States demanded further concessions, and it was agreed that the Electoral College should be organized on a congressional basis, giving to each State the same number of electors that it had Senators and Representatives in the Congress.

The present Congress, from its commencement to the present time, has kept constantly in view the perpetuity of Republican rule. The national prosperity has been kept subordinate to party success. Honesty has been at discount. Fraud and crime have been held at a premium whenever they could subserve the interest of party.

Realism, more dangerous than sectionalism because it embraces it, and a multitude of other indignities, has been followed by the admission of new States without regard to the essential prerequisites, and in violation of the established practice of the government. It has been customary to regard this admission of States by the strengthening operation as designed to strengthen the Republican party in the Senate. This was unquestionably intended, but it went further and had for its ulterior purpose the certain capture of the Electoral College and the complete subjugation of the people to the Republican party. Every new State admitted gave to the Republican party two electoral votes for the Senators and at least one for representation in Congress.

"If the Republican programme is carried out, the membership of the Electoral College will be increased from 401 at the elections of 1884 and 1888 to at least 423 votes, and of the gain 10 will be Republican."

Thus by party manipulation a provision intended to protect the dignity of the States has become the oppressor of the people. The New York Star says: "Such is the Republican scheme for packing the Electoral College already well under way to its execution. As to the increase of membership by the admission of Republican claimants to senatorial seats, there is nothing to stop it. But as to the election of Republicans in all the States upon the support of which the Floater Fund managers reckon—that expectation will be balked of realization by the indignation of the people at an Executive and Congressional administration of unparalleled turpitude, in which the attempted packing of the Electoral College is one of the most shameful features."

We trust that the Star is right in its estimate of public virtue, but the hazard is great and the impending calamity is terrible. The Electoral College ought to be abolished. The necessity that called it into being no longer exists, and it is essential to the highest regard for American institutions that the government becomes a government of the people.

THE CLIMAX. Saturday's proceedings capped the climax of Republican intamy. Some months ago the JOURNAL asserted that the present Congress would hesitate at nothing to perpetuate Republican rule, but even though with this conviction, we did not anticipate the events of Saturday. When Cain killed Abel all heaven was astonished, for it had not entered into celestial minds that man would kill his brother. We knew that the Republican party had fallen and would sound unmeasured depths, but we did not expect to see it plunge into an infinite abyss.

But what was done last Saturday that deserves pre-eminence in the black catalogue of crime and usurpation? In the House a committee, by a party vote, decided to report a bill to prohibit "gerrymandering" and requiring that members of the next Congress shall be elected from the districts as they were when the present members were elected. This is a monstrous outrage. The Republican party is the boss gerrymanderer of all the world. Every State that it has dominated bears scars of its scorpion tail, and now, when, in some of these States, the Democratic party has won the day and purposes to wipe out the disgrace, the Congress sternly declares that the stripes shall be worn although they are scarcely less degrading than the stripes of the convict.

Well, be it so. "Lay on, McDufl, and damned be they who first cries blood enough." The people will avenge the wrong. From every district so signally dishonored legions will rise to vindicate the right. "Lachiel, Lachiel, beware of the day when the lowlands shall meet thee in battle array." But the Senate! What was the Senate doing last Saturday when the House was waving its bloody bludgeon over prostrate States? The Senate was engaged in the CAUSE OF DISEASE AS GIVEN BY THE SCIENTIFIC MEN OF THE AGE.

Monsieur Pasteur, who for years has made them a special study, first discovered that these minute insects were the cause of spreading the most deadly contagions through the air, and the most rapid of reproduction. Pasteur discovered them in myriads in human blood in sheep, rabbits and rats. He found that the Microbe was the direct cause of the Variolous, or Small-pox—Bronchitis, Yellow Fever and other contagious diseases.

The Microbe, in the human system, attacked by Variolous, is thread-like, cylindrical, somewhat coiled. It is the smallest of all powerfully magnified animal organisms. It breeds by the thousand in the human system, and is the cause of the most deadly of all diseases.
