

New Berne Weekly Messenger

E. K. HARPER, Proprietor.

INDEPENDENT IN ALL THINGS.

Terms $1.50 Per Year.

VOL. XIII.

NEW BERNE, CRAVEN COUNTY, N. C., SEPTEMBER 4, 1890.

NO. 23.

How is Your Blood?

I had a malignant breaking out on my face, neck, chest, and a half dozen on my arms. I was treated by the best of S. S. S. Ointment, and I feel as good as new again.

Wm. C. Barry, Yorkville, S. C.

OLD DOMINION Steamship Company

SEMI-WEEKLY LINE.
The Old Dominion Steamship Company's Old and Favorite Weekly Route, via Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

FOR Norfolk, Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Providence, and Washington City.

And all ports, North, East and West.

On and after MONDAY, SEPT. 1st, 1890 will further connect:

Steamer MARYD, Capt. Sutcliffe, AND
Steamer NEWBERNE, Capt. Pritchett.

OLD DOMINION Steamship Company

SEMI-WEEKLY LINE.
The Old Dominion Steamship Company's Old and Favorite Weekly Route, via Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

FOR Norfolk, Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Providence, and Washington City.

And all ports, North, East and West.

On and after MONDAY, SEPT. 1st, 1890 will further connect:

Steamer MARYD, Capt. Sutcliffe, AND
Steamer NEWBERNE, Capt. Pritchett.

OLD DOMINION Steamship Company

SEMI-WEEKLY LINE.
The Old Dominion Steamship Company's Old and Favorite Weekly Route, via Albemarle and Chesapeake Canal.

FOR Norfolk, Baltimore, New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Providence, and Washington City.

And all ports, North, East and West.

On and after MONDAY, SEPT. 1st, 1890 will further connect:

Steamer MARYD, Capt. Sutcliffe, AND
Steamer NEWBERNE, Capt. Pritchett.

FARMERS' LINE.

Steamer Cleopatra
Leaves New Berne every Wednesday and Saturday for Trenton at 7:30 o'clock. Returning, will leave Trenton Mondays and Thursdays at 6:30 o'clock.

Passenger accommodations, G. E. ANGLIMAN, New Berne, N. C.

EASTERN CAROLINA DISPATCH

The Fast Freight Line
New Berne, N. C. to Norfolk, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and other ports.

COMMENCING MONDAY, June 10th.

Eaglet and Vesper

Leaving New Berne every Monday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Returning, will leave New Berne every Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday.

Passenger accommodations, G. E. ANGLIMAN, New Berne, N. C.

The N. C. Freight Line

MEMPHIS and SHEPHERD, BALTIMORE
Leaving New Berne every Monday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday. Returning, will leave New Berne every Tuesday, Thursday, and Sunday.

Passenger accommodations, G. E. ANGLIMAN, New Berne, N. C.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is well with Vance! It is well! A case of cholera has appeared in London.

Two boys died in Knoxville, Monday from a dose of morphia given in place of quinine.

HARON ALPHONSO ROTHSCHILD lately bought a clock made by Louis XVI. He paid $168,000 for it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The cholera is increasing rapidly in Toledo, Spain.

The strike at the Chicago stock yards has been settled.

SMALL POX prevails to an alarming extent at Waco and San Antonio, Texas.

Eighteen newspapers started at San Diego, Cal., in the past three years, not one is living.

It looks as if the final vote on the tariff bill in the Senate would be taken on or about September 25th.

The strikers on the New York Central railroad remain firm and say they will win the fight in the end.

CONGRESSMAN WATSON, of Pennsylvania, died very suddenly of heart disease, in Washington last Wednesday.

MR. POWDERLY says he is satisfied that the discharges made on the Central road were the result of a preconcerted plan to get rid of leading Republicans.

SENATOR BUTLER has gone to South Carolina to try and get the Democrats together. It is worse than folly; it is criminal to keep up division and make Republican success possible.

HARRISON is reported as "fatigued." Any man who has to carry around with him as bad a conscience as he is burdened with has a right to be "fatigued," and very much "fatigued."

THE music of the children, that sweetest harmony of vocal melody to a parent's ear, is complained of at Nags Head on account of its discordance. Tune 'em up.—Elizabeth City Economist.

GEN. M. H. BONHAM, ex-Governor and late Railroad Commissioner of South Carolina, was found dead in his bed Wednesday morning. He was a knightly gentleman, a gallant soldier and true patriot. This is not a time for so-called independent movements against Democracy. Democracy must show that North Carolina thinks of the Force bill, and to do this Democracy must be "united all along the line."

At Statesville, N. C., Saturday night, John Jones, colored, killed Eric Murchison, colored, at a negro festival because the latter had accidentally trodden on the foot of Jones' sweetheart and refused to apologize.

THE only ones of the old Territory that have not become States are Utah, New Mexico, Indian Territory and Arizona. When these shall have been taken in, Alaska and Oklahoma alone will remain outside.

WHEN an aspirant for the General Assembly makes his appearance in this county, the question is asked, "Is he for Vance?" and if the answer is not in the affirmative he is at once relegated to the shades of obscurity.—Washington Gazette.

It is the solemn duty of the liberty loving American people of this Union to whip the Republican party out of its boots in the coming Congressional campaign. That will put an end to all doubt and anxiety as to the stability of business and the integrity of American politics.—Norfolk Landmark.

GEN. GORDON, of Georgia, has called a convention of the Governors of all the cotton States, to meet in Atlanta September 10th; each Governor is to appoint six delegates; the convention was asked for by the Georgia State Alliance, and will consider the matter of direct trade with Liverpool, and matters relating to the handling of cotton.

"The tales which the owners of the Maryland and Delaware and New Jersey peach orchards tell are quite pathetic. Instead of fifty to a hundred thousand baskets of peaches a day, there is hardly a single basket. California is the only source of supply, excepting a small quantity from Georgia. New Jersey may scrape out five or six hundred baskets, and this will be all. The cold spell in March did the business."

THE Norfolk Virginian says: "A Charlotte (N. C.) clergyman wears undoubtedly the largest shoes in this country. The size is 32 and each shoe is 29 1/2 inches long." Who is he? There is a certain Baptist preacher in Charlotte, who has heard, it is "sweeding a wide row," but we thought he was doing it with the sword of the spirit directed by a large head and a big heart. If we were mistaken he must be mashing things.

It is an interesting fact that Senator Quay and those Republicans who antagonize his position relative to the Force bill are accused by precisely similar motives. The objects of those who are rushing the bill are simply and entirely partisan, and Quay's purpose is also partisan. There is nothing in the position of either of patriotism or even of consideration for the negro. The sole consideration is the success of the G. O. P. They merely differ in their notions as to method.—Detroit Free Press.

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose for which it assembled and the work it accomplished.

It is always gratifying to see evidences of progress and development in the colored community. In this convention showed a degree of intelligence and a spirit of independence exceeding expectation. In the convention were men of culture, who have impressed themselves on the times in which they live; they met to discuss the political and social status of their race, and they passed resolutions declaring their independence of bossism as practiced by Republicans in North Carolina. The convention was called to order by J. H. Young. In his opening address he said: "There have been all sorts of rumors as to the purpose of this convention. There have been rumors that it was called for the purpose of disrupting the Republican party. This report is not true. This convention is to represent the true Republican party. We are here to cause a split or disruption, but we are here to demand that we, the colored people, be recognized by the ruling power of the Republican party, because we ARE THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

The temporary chairman, Hon. E. E. Smith, ex-United States Minister to Liberia, made a few conservative remarks in which he said that "the assembly was to rectify some grievances to which this people were subject, and to consider remedial measures for such grievances."

A committee on credentials was appointed and retired, and then came the speaking. Rev. J. C. Price, the foremost negro orator of the times, was called out. He said "we were here to witness and participate in such proceedings as it was hoped would result in securing to the colored men—the great

THE GREAT STRIKE.

For several days it has been a leading question whether the strike that was inaugurated on the New York Central would embrace the whole Vanderbilt system.

As stated on yesterday, Mr. DePew, the President of the New York Central and the master spirit of the Vanderbilt system, is absent, but it is evident that Vice President Webb is managing affairs in a way which shows that Mr. DePew has a lieutenant worthy to represent him in matters of the greatest magnitude.

The Vanderbilt system of railroads is made up of the New York Central and Hudson River, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, the Michigan Central, the Chicago and Northwestern, the New York, Chicago and St. Louis roads. Its direct capitalization is placed at $515,855,726, its extent of track is 10,791 miles, and the number of passengers annually is about 30,000,000. Its freight tonnage last year was 45,310,000 and its earnings the same year was $90,845,082. Its magnitude is thus seen at a glance. It lies mainly between New York and Chicago, but reaches all the important cities in a broad and populous territory. It is estimated that there is directly tributary to the system a population of 20,000,000—nearly one third of the population of the whole country.

It is announced that "there will be no tie up" of the whole Vanderbilt system, but the security given does not satisfy the country and ally the excitement of the masses. It is admitted that the New York Central and Hudson River road is "the backbone of the system," and here the strike not only continues but is encouraged by Chief Workman Powderly.

Whether the people or the corporations are right in this particular instance we are not prepared to say, but in nine cases out of ten in which such strikes occur it is the result of the tyranny of capital.

As a general rule labor is lost suffering. The laborer knows that a strike is the inevitable prelude to suffering; that pure women and innocent children are to go hungry to bed, and he sustains himself by resorting and insulted manhood and meeting want and suffering at his hearth stone.

It is difficult to enact laws to meet this complex question. The right of capital to employ labor and get it as cheaply as it can be procured at ordinary times can hardly be questioned; and it is equally true that the laborer is worthy of his hire.

Just here is where the divine law comes in with its holy mandates and sublime teachings, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

When the precepts of the gospel are followed and its authority recognized, then will come the blessed time in which it will no longer be said "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

THE DARK WING.

A convention of colored Republicans was held in the city of Raleigh on last Tuesday. It was a remarkable body of men; remarkable for its personnel, for the purpose