THE NEW YORK LEDGER'S CHANGE From this time forth the New York Ledger Hamitain sixteen pages. The publishers ribers to make this change, so they would the Ledger in a form convenient for stong. In making the change from eight sixteen pages, Measrs Robert Bonner's stures. The new number of the Ledge November 16th; leads off with the opening hapters of an extraordinary story from the pen of ANNA KATHARINE GREEN, muthor of THESABLN INN. This remarkable story was written in a white heat-dashed off almost without rest rom commencement to end. It has been the rate for a long time before taking pen is and to began a new work, and then to do ofe at least a year to its completion, but The Forsaken Inn" presented itself to hor on way so foreible and vivid that all ber omer methods were discarded, and she rote the story under the spur of overpow ring inspiration. The result was the pro ction of an exceptionally brilliant and lowing literary gem.

In addition to Anna Katharine Green's cat story, the Ledger of November 16th ntains the following brilliant articles: NIHILISM IN RUSSIA, by Leo Hartmann, Ni-Ust: Ond-Pashioned Fashions, by Jones Carton : Du. HOKNAGEL'S STRANGE STORY,
