SOMEWHAT STRANGE

ACCIDENTS AND INCIDENTS OF EVERY-DAY LIFE.

Queer Episodes and Thrilling Adventures Which Show that Truth is Stranger than Fiction.

According to the Los Angeles Herald the Southern Pacific Railroad Company has lost a river, and in consequence has a bridge whose approach is a mile long. White water has flowed from the Sierra Madre mountains across the sands of the Colorado river, and the palms on the coast of Lower California have been blown away by a wind which was as strong as a hurricane.

The station of White water was located where the river crossed the railway and was a small building with a porch. During the last heavy rain the water rose to its highest point and the whole country roundabout was washed out. The bridge and the station were blown away, and the water continued to rise. It appeared to be a flood of water, and the people who were on the bridge were blown away. The water was as high as the mountains, and the people were blown away. The water was as high as the mountains, and the people were blown away.
