EDITORIAL NOTES.

ANOTHER revolution has broken out in Brazil.

THE Mayor of Boston does not agree with Hill.

THE Cuban insurrection is getting the better of the insurgents.

A MILLION Persons have declared themselves unable to support the Democratic ticket.

GOVERNOR NORTHEN, of Georgia, was unanimously renominated by the Democratic State Convention.

THE change from the North pole to the equator, measured along the earth's surface, is 6000 miles.

THE Democratic canvass of this State goes steadily on. Enthusiastic meetings with good results in all quarters.

THOMPSON PAYNE, of the Goodsell observatory says there is no doubt that the planet Mars is inhabited.

THE outlook for harmony in the Republican ranks is not favorable. The break is most favorable to Democracy.

THE Cotton Agents are playing havoc with the cotton crop in Texas. In the Salado district "Every plantation is completely ruined."

THE death penalty has been commuted to imprisonment in the penitentiary for life in the case of Col. H. Clay King, of Tennessee.

JERRY SIMPSON and other third party leaders deny that it was their purpose that "was run over by the Alabama ice wagon."

WASHINGTON City is now quite deserted by Government officials. The President and all the members of the Cabinet are absent except Secretary Foster.

A TRAIN bearing $3,000,000 in gold from San Francisco to New York city passed through Chicago Sunday night. It was guarded by a company of soldiers.

THE colored men are working largely for Gov Jones at the late Alabama election. It shows that the campaign of education has advanced further than was expected.

"THE Campbells are coming," and not only the Campbells but the Joneses, the Browns, the Smiths are their neighbors are coming back into the Democratic fold.

FREE trade has no part in the contest. There are free traders in the Democratic party, but they follow, not lead. If the party which advocates tariff for robbery, as against tariff for revenue, has in its principles, let it meet the issue squarely.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FROM Asheville comes the intelligence that Col. T. B. Long, the veteran office holding Radical, will be the nominee of the Weaverites for Governor. That will fuse the two factions for Long is as good a Radical as Gen. Weaver, of the Northern army, and he is training with the enemies of good, honest government in North Carolina. By the way, where did he get his title? Was he in the war, or is he only a Yadkin House appointment?

THE Weavers and Watsons and Donnellys and Kellys are born leaders of rabble and petty insurrections, based on transient events or making up of a small part of a great movement. If the so-called "people's" cause has developed [a greater than these—if it has brought to the front any man capable of devising remedies for known evils, or carrying out plans of importance, or uniting the people of distinct communities in a common effort—if it has done this, the man did before the party fell under its present leadership.—Petersburg Index Appeal.

GOVERNOR NORTHEN recently succeeded himself as Governor of Georgia, has furnished the Constitution with a letter in which he discusses in that State. Governor Northen says as to the effect the recent heavy frosts will have upon the crops of November. He points out that hundreds of Democrats who voted or talked would not have done so had they been aware that the success of the Republican party in the State was taking away their real interest in the campaign, and predicts that Grover will carry the State by 50,000 majority, no matter how many electoral votes may be run, and no matter how much money the Republican Committee may see fit to pour into Alabama.

A THIRD party orator in a speech at Omaha said that no dead American has a right to be under a $5 coffin in a time while a live American woman is starving in a garret. This touching sympathy for the starving live American women is commendable, but there isn't any sense in questioning the right of a dead American to sleep under as much of a gravestone, he sees fit. It is better to spend $5 upon a gravestone, and thus give work to workmen and at that much money in circulation than lock it up in a vault. The dead man who spends his money that way is to be commended rather than trimped upon.—Star

ARE NORTH CAROLINIANS FOR SALE?

We have formation [illegible] deemed absolutely reliable that certain Republican leaders have been in long and earnest conference in Washington, and have succeeded in impressing the Republican candidate for President, of his advisers, with the belief that North Carolina is a promising field for the Republicans. It is asserted that the Third party was made great progress in the State, and as it draws its strength mostly from the Democratic party the Republicans have a better chance for success than they have had for years. That the Republicans themselves will conduct a campaign of apparent inactivity until towards the close, and that it is determined to [illegible] thoroughly.

Such, then is the Republican plan of campaign—to buy up the Third party and make a still hunt.

A worthy contemporary says: "This timely warning is given for the benefit of many honest men who, from one reason or another, find themselves in the incohe rent ranks of the Third party. It has been apparent to any man whose vision was not utterly obscured that the Third party was in effect nothing but an auxiliary corps of the Republican army, but it was not known that the Republicans would claim them as mercenaries."

If a substantial farmer in North Carolina, who is a Third party man, was approached with the direct proposition to sell him, he would resent the insult as good old North Carolina flesh and blood. But what cannot be done directly may be done indirectly. A good man often made the unconscious instrument of evil when he least suspects it.

Money is not always necessary to purchase. Office has a wonderful purchasing power, and many men who hold the virtue as above price fall under its magical influences. Flattery sometimes wins it way, where seeming more potent agencies have failed. Prejudice is strong in most men than reason, and prejudice will be appealed to with satanic sagacity.

Republican tactics are always adroit. Whether they use money, office or flattery, or prejudice, it will be done with the cunning of the fox and the subtility of the serpent.

It would be very interesting to know to whom the Republican leaders will give their campaign corruption fund. They will be sure to put it where it will do the most good, and it is not probable that the brother in black will be forgotten in the great distribution.

There is a great difference between Third party leaders and the great mass of the party. Can anybody believe that the leaders of the Third party prefer Democratic to Republican success? Do they not know that Democratic success would be a high certificate for their defection?

A blind man can see that the Third party cannot succeed, but it may stab the Democratic party to death and its leaders receive the price agreed upon as the reward of the assassination.

True men and virtuous citizens owe it to themselves to shun the appearance of evil.

We say to them to the great majority of the Third party, who love North Carolina and are sincerely attached to Democratic principles—come back to pure and simple Democracy and cease following guides who if they are not blind, are the paid emissaries of Republicans.

ELIAS CARR was nominated by the Democratic Convention because he was believed to be the best representative of the farmers generally and All Alliancemen, really in the State. Mr. Carr is a true Democrat and most excellent gentleman, worthy the support of all Democrats, but he especially deserves the support of every farmer in North Carolina.

THE JOURNAL does not care to champion any man's claims to the seat on the supreme court bench made vacant by the death of the lamented Davis, but we take occasion to express our high admiration of Judge Connor. As a man, a Democrat, a lawyer and a Christian gentleman. He would be an ornament to the supreme court of North Carolina.

THE Third party commends itself to the support of Southern men in a horn. They nominated the boss South Hater for President and in Edgecombe they have nominated a negro for the Legislature. Rattlesnakes and cocoanuts.

THERE was great excitement in Memphis when it became known that Governor Buchanan had commuted the Sentence of H. Clay King, who was by the Supreme court sentenced to hang on the 12th of August. The Governor was hung in effigy, and King was removed from Memphis to avoid lynching.
