One of the most sensible statements that we have seen on the question of lynching is from a colored man Bishop Sanner, of the African M. E. Church which was published in the Independent, of New York, and copied by the Nashville Advocate: "What of the light" In answer to this query we beg to say, first, that the lyuching is not confined to the blacks; the whites, also, are thus summarily dealt with. While it is true that in the past eight years 728 negroes have been thus barbarously treated, 378 whites met the same fate. An additional ray of light is seen, and it is a good broad one too in the act that Ferdinand Ulrich, it is only men of disreputable J. A. Meadows, character who suffer, or characters | Samuel W. Ipock. supposed to be disreputable.

The Southern mob in its farly does not assault the good men of either race but the supposed bad. Suppose it were the colored teacher that was lynched in any way the barbarious mob could suggest. How diferent would the picture be! Of the colored preacher! In its blind and satanic fury the Southern mob passes not only the colored teacher, but by the school house in which he teaches; it not only passes by the colored preacher, out the church in which he preaches it passes by the colored hall, whether Masonic or Odd-Fellow: it passes by the goodly homestead of the well to do colored citizen-passes by all these and only makes for a miserable wretch
