

VIENNA. (Continued from page 1.)

Vienna, June 8.—A violent hail storm in this city today lasted fifteen minutes. The thermometer dropped from 80 to 60 degrees Fahrenheit at that time. The hail stones fell in sheets and the wind blew a hurricane. No such storm has been known here since 1848.

When the storm broke several hundred artillerists were drilling on Simmering Heath. The horses bolted and several men were scattered over their bodies. Three officers and fourteen privates were injured.

The stones varied in size between walnuts and eggs. The lay in masses all over the street. A tram car and a milk cart stuck fast in the middle of a street and were dug out with difficulty.

All the windward windows in the city were blown. It is estimated that half a million were smashed, including 4,000 in the Arshade Radolph Barracks, 2,000 in the county courthouse, 5,000 in the general hospital, 600 in the Hofburg, 500 in the town hall, and 1,000 in the war office. Many stained windows in churches were destroyed.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Yesterday a gentleman said to me: "Touch up Home Affairs. We are tired of National politics." Why is that? Our people are becoming tired of national politics? Not at all. Let the public liberties be menaced by a foreign foe and they will fly to arms in defense of the national honor.

But, "hope deferred maketh the heart sick," and very many of our people are deathly sick over the wreck of broken promises and the delay in national reforms.

Therefore the disposition to turn from national to state and county affairs in the hope of finding relief from burdens too grievous to be borne. While not believing that national affairs are in the deplorable condition in which they are often painted, we readily concur in the opinion that it is to the State, the counties and to individuals that we are to look for the betterment of our condition.

Whatever may be said of the National Administration, the State Administration commends itself to the approval of patriots of all parties. We do not mean that every act of our State Legislature is wise, or that all county officials are honest, but every citizen knows that our people have been greatly blessed under Democratic Administration.

There is nothing more appalling to the citizen than the apprehension that the State is in danger of returning to the dark period of Republican domination.

It must not be. It cannot be, if we are true to ourselves and our children.

What would be the condition of affairs in North Carolina should the State join the Re publican column? It would be bad enough all over the State, but in Eastern North Carolina it would be intolerable.

Then let us bend our energies to securing a Democratic Legislature. Let us see to it that our party assembly, but for the preservation of our civilization.

Let us see to it that our county affairs receive the proper attention. Let us see to it that our party assembly, but for the preservation of our civilization.

The Democratic party must address itself to the approval of the people by the nomination of true men to fill the offices both state and county. Whoever is done to be the act of the people. It is a miserable fallacy to believe that there is an impassable gulf between Democracy and the people.

Let us not be in favor of embarking the state canvass with the senatorial question.

It will be time enough to concern ourselves for the senatorial success after the Democracy has swept the state and fortified our liberties.

THE TARIFF MUDDLE.

Why is it that men professing to be statesmen flounder in the mire when they approach the tariff? One reason may be that men are sent to congress who are not broad enough to comprehend great principles. They are fluent and "pert," without sufficient ability to tell when the governmental policy or the principles of their party have been invaded.

What is a tariff, and what the purpose of its creation? A tariff is a tax levied on goods imported into this country.

A tariff bill is a legislative enactment declaring what custom house duties are, or will be in the near future. Its purpose is to raise funds with which to defray the expenses of the Federal Government.

Our fathers were opposed to direct taxation, and they decided to avoid it through the agency of a tariff.

Many of us remember that when the Internal Revenue system was inaugurated by the Republican party it was denounced by the Democratic party as an invasion of the spirit of American institutions and harmful to our cherished industries.

The tariff is the subject of the Congressional Campaign Committee's undertakes to make comparisons of the average rates of duty in the McKinley, Wilson and Senate bills, with a view to showing that the last named is after all a very good bill. The trouble about all such comparisons is that they miss the point at issue. The question is, ought to be, which bill will give the most revenue with the least burden to the people?

The Louisville Courier-Journal presents one aspect of the subject very clearly in these words: The tariff question is not primarily one of high or low rates.

In a general way it is true that tariff reformers desire that rates shall be as low as possible, while protectionists desire them to be high. But the rates to be imposed are dependent upon the amount of money that must be raised from customs to meet the requirements of the Government and on the quantity and value of the imports. The need of the Treasury may force rates to a high figure in spite of the fact that they are levied for revenue only.

The only remedy for this incongruity in expenditures, and that can not always be at once secured. The Cleveland Administration follows one of the most extravagant administrations in the history of the country, and it is impossible to meet present obligations without the expenditure of large amounts of money, and this money can only properly be obtained through custom house duties.
