It is especially gratifying to note that notwithstanding the stringency of the law, two years ago our financial institutions are in an exceptionally prosperous condition and are extending an active and extensive business. Among those we mention particularly are the Citizens' Bank, which has had an honorable career. It was incorporated in 1891 and has a cash capital of $50,000 with a surplus and undivided profit of $75,000 and is followed as follows: Thos. A. Green, Pres., Wm. Dunn, Vice President and H. M. Groves, Cashier. A liberal but conservative banking business is done. In addition to making advances on real estate and receiving deposits, the bank negotiates drafts on prominent banking houses in all the large cities of Europe. It receives the accounts of the Bank of America and other banks on the most favorable terms, issuing other books or certificates of deposit. It discounts choice commercial papers, issues sight drafts on leading American cities, and issues orders for its own drafts in either local or general securities and offers practically the facilities of a metropolitan bank. The marked ability, unimpeachable integrity and broad liberal policy, as expressed in the management of The Citizens' Bank, combined with its resources and the added responsibilities of its stockholders are the public's safeguard.
