Quite an interest was manifested at the morning service. The evening service which began at 3 o'clock was very suddenly broken up by disorderly conduct of some parties outside the tent who were drinking and using obscene and ugly language.

There will be preaching for the next 10 days at eleven o'clock a. m. and 8 o'clock p. m. The subject discussed Sunday night was sanctification. Lots of passages of Scripture were read from the Bible, producing the proof of this doctrine. Mr. Kendall disclaims any connection or sympathy with the "Lionettes" of the coast.

TRENTON AND JONES COUNTY.

Merchants Buying Largely. Building Going On. Baptist Holds Protracted Meeting. No Cholera Feared Fairly Pleasant.

The merchants here have ordered and are receiving large amounts of goods. They are no doubt anticipating a much larger sale this season than usual.

A colored man by the name of Vandross, from the Choptankin section, was lodged in jail here in default of bail, for an attempt of burglary on a dwelling in that section on Thursday last.

Our good friend, J. A. Smith, is erecting some good tenant houses on his lands near Trenton. Mr. Smith says he has some good tenants and is determined to build good houses and take care of them the best he can.

The Revs. Jenkins and Alderman, Missionary Baptists, are holding a protracted meeting here, which commenced on Sunday evening last. Much interest is manifested in this meeting and we trust that much good will follow. They have very large and appreciative congregations in attendance.

The Sanctificationists passed through here a few days ago on their way to Lee's church, where they are now engaged in holding a protracted meeting. We learn that the attendance is very large.

We hear of no cases of hog cholera and we hear that the crop of porkers in Jones will be very large. Chicken cholera is prevailing in some localities in our county. Some of the farmers have sustained heavy losses by this malady. The staggerers is prevailing to some extent in our county and we learn that it is very fatal.

A. C. Burt, who has been sick with chills at his home in Choptankin township has got well and returned to work at Trenton.

Our good friend, Jack Dixon, has accepted the position of a salesman at J. P. Brogden's store.

The farmers are well into the fodder pulling, many have nearly finished. We have been having fine showers of rain which have been very beneficial to all crops.

The health of Trenton and vicinity is remarkably good, very few cases of sickness of any kind, except a few cases of chills which readily yield when proper medicine is administered.

The crop of peaches around here have been very fine and plentiful. Apples have been somewhat scarce and of a very inferior quality. The watermelon season is coming, much to the discomfort of the bees and loafing darkies.

A Practical Suggestion to the Business Men of New Bern.

In these degenerate times when it requires all the vim and push to make a living, it becomes the business man to look square in the face of the issue, and see what's going to be the result, or outcome by inaction, or sitting down and waiting patiently.

We have a city you might be proud of; we have advantages not possessed by other towns and cities of the State. A city well drained naturally, its residences, our public buildings would be an honor to larger cities, a healthy place, by using cheap, fine schools, and mild climate.

Now if the laborer, the producer and the mechanic, cannot realize by the sweat of their brow, to whom are you going to look for sustenance. Here in New Bern you have no Chamber of Commerce, or Board of Trade, to which matters concerning the general public good can be referred to and acted upon.

"In unity there is strength," there never was a saying truer than that. Now my idea is to let the business men get together and form a "Business Men's League," employ a Secretary whose duty it would be to look after all matters affecting the business interests, such as setting forth the advantages possessed by our section, its soil and climate.

Then again, if you had them, or any other similar organization, your business is such, you would be unable to attend the meeting unless you were directly interested. You know this to be so.

It is being demonstrated daily on our Tobacco Warehouse floor that there is no section in the State, or even in the United States, that offers advantages which would be grasped, if they were only known to outsiders, and would result in making New Bern the first and foremost City in the State.

The trucking interest is second now to none, in its importance. As to tobacco, we can raise a fine lemon colored wrappers, cutters and smokers as are raised on the earth, and its the class of goods that are now most sought after by the commercial world. Up in the old tobacco belt their lands are played out, soil washed away. Those people are on the lookout for new fields, and now is an opportune time to strike, and let them know what we have.

It is useless to try to sensible business men, what the result would be for you have it in your own hands to do, if you will lend your aid in building up the now waste places, then again this Secretary's duty would be to investigate and bring before the members information bearing on matters affecting your welfare in a business point of view. He would remind the business through correspondence, you would not be required to attend meetings, it would be his duty to inform the members of the League or Club, of any matter affecting the club, and enclose each a sheet of paper that he, or they might express their views on the subject matter and return to the Secretary. He would go over all these, and glean the wish of the members, and act accordingly, when a member's individual interest was affected he would go in person and inform him. In short the Secretary would be in your employ, to do your business, advertise our section, and do as I have imperfectly outlined above. Now what say you, business men of New Bern. If it is your purpose to take advantage of the present, come get in the band wagon, for we are going to get there.

Yours Very Truly, E. M. PACE

Huckleberry Honey.

There are things to be learned even by a newspaper man. Yesterday Mr. T. J. Baxter exhibited some frames filled with honey, which he had taken from his hives at his home.

Some of the honey was very clear and some a very dark shade, almost black. Mr. Baxter said that the black honey was made when the huckleberries were ripe, and that it had a strong huckleberry taste. The huckleberries grew three or four miles from town. The bees were Italians, and these bees travel further than other varieties, going to a distance of six miles from the hives. Old honey generally has a dark brown appearance, but this huckleberry honey is not that shade, but the true black huckleberry color.

The Atlantic & North Carolina railroad has paid its taxes to the State Treasurer, which amounted to $1,378.58.

WHEN MARIA JANE IS MAYOR.

When Maria Jane is elected to the mayoralty chair, there will be many wrongs corrected that are now apparent here. The sidewalks will be carpeted, the streets swept thrice a day. The alleys will be fragrant as fields of new mown hay.

What with parties and receptions and socially a ball. There will be a transformation around the city hall. And such a ward in the city will be represented then. By loyal adherents, and not horrid adherents.

When Maria Jane is mayor, none but ladies will be appointed members of the city police force. And in their blouster uniforms they'll look so very sweet. The gang to be arrested will consider it a treat.

The stores will be compelled to have a bargain sale each day. And for chewing gum and soda you will not be asked to pay. All great reforms will be projected, all the wrongs will be corrected. When Maria Jane is elected to the mayoralty chair.

DOCTORS AND SUICIDE.

Statistics Show a Peculiar Bond of Sympathy between the Two. During the last three years, says the Medical and Physical Reporter of Philadelphia, nearly one-fifth of all deaths among physicians have been by suicide. This is a conservative estimate, as many instances of death are attributed to accidental overdosing, as the tendency is always to hush up a suicide whenever possible. But without including such cases, the fact remains that the medical profession is more prone to suicide than any other. These statistics may be explained by the development of morbid fancies in the mind of a doctor on account of his constant association with the sick and dying, or of an actual indifference to death, or because he has the requisite knowledge of how to die conveniently and painlessly.

Poisoning is a favorite method, but it does not appear from statistics that the cyanides or morphine have the preference which would exist if epicurean philosophy were carried into the choice of drugs. At the same time, physicians usually put their knowledge of drugs to a practical execution in selecting a poison for suicide. But if the more knowledge of the pathlessness of death by certain means, and the determining factor in leading so many physicians to suicide, probably the accessibility of poisons is.

Suicide is largely a matter of insane impulse, and such an impulse can often be ascertained even in the case of those who have long been indifferent to life and have contemplated suicide. If a man must put on his hat and overcoat, walk to a drug store and tax his ingenuity for a lie with which to explain his desire for poison, he may postpone the fatal act until he has had time to meet a friend or have his interest in his day occurrences or physical exercise may bring him to his senses. If, as is the case with almost every doctor, he has simply to feel in his pocket or walk across his office to get a deadly poison, the impulse may be carried into execution before anything can happen to supplant it in the brain.

Declining Appendicitis. A teachers' examination was held at Sevier, Kan., at which one of the questions in physiology was as follows: "What is appendicitis, and what are its causes and cures?" Below are given a few of the answers as reported in the Sevier Tribune.

"It is a disease of the appendix, which is located somewhere between the liver and the heart, the organ of the affections."

"Gonification of the marrow of the longitudinal shaft bone."

"Appendicitis is sunstroke or over-heating, caused by a great heat. The cure is to get the patient into a cool place, bathe the face and hand with water."

"The disease of appendicitis, caused by want of exercise, improper food, clothing and ventilation."

"Appendicitis is a condition caused by food substances lodging and causing a blockade in the digestive apparatus. It is cured by surgical operation, in which the obstruction is cut away. A theory is given that the appendix was at one time a tail on man and is not yet evolved off. It is cut away by the surgeon."

Jack Tar's Reply. A sailor was recently brought before a magistrate for beating his wife, when the magistrate attempted to reach his heart by asking him if he did not know that his wife was the "weaker vessel."

"If she is, she ought not to carry so much sail," replied Jack. —London Titbits.

KELLY THE KING.

RECKLESSNESS OF THE BIG HEARTED BASEBALL PLAYER. His Little System That Won a New Name at Guttenberg—A Case of "Come Easy, Go Easy"—What He Did With the Last $5 of That Particular Pot.

The late Mike Kelly probably made and spent more money during his career as a ball player than anybody else in his profession. Kelly was an inveterate gambler, and, like John L. Sullivan, he had a heart which constantly led him to do acts of charity. Kelly was in his element when at the race track. He got hold of more "good things" that went wrong than the average bettor, but he was always cheerful whether a winner or a loser. One day Mike went over to Guttenberg, when the billiard track was flourishing, and after two races had been run he had just $20 and enough change with which to get back to the city. As he walked into the betting ring preparatory to the third race he saw on bookmaker Ike Thompson's slate:

Play or Pay $1 to $1 Meadows $1 to $1 Bites $1 to $1

"I've got a system, me boy," said the "king" to a friend, "and it's a peach. I'm going to put a five on each of them plugs, and then I can't lose, see? I got to get some good back, no matter how they run."

"That's no system, Mike," said Kelly's friend. "It's as good as the average sport," was the quick retort, and Mike pushed his way up to Thompson's book.

"Say, there, Ike, old boy!" yelled Kelly. "Here's four green fivers. Put one on each of them ponies, keep the change, and gimme the tickets quick."

The bookmaker laughed as he handed Kelly four tickets, each calling for Play or Pay 300 to 5, Meadows 150 to 5, Bites 5 to 5, Hooey 4 to 5 respectively.

"That's quite a chance you're taking, Mike," said Thompson, with a laugh. "It is, if one of them long guys comes walkin' in with the yellow boys in his stocking," replied the ball player.

The bell rang telling the crowd that the horses were at the post. "They're off!" yelled Kelly, as Starr or Caldwell dropped his flag. "What's that guy away out in front, running as if he saw a square meal somewhere?"

"It's Play or Pay!" screamed hundreds. And so it proved to be. The horse had been the recipient of one of those celebrated Guttenberg injections, and he won in a romp.

Kelly never ran faster than he ran up to Ike Thompson's book, brandishing his ticket calling for $305.

"Give us the green goods, Ike!" he roared, while the crowd gathered around breathlessly. "There's your money," said Thompson pleasantly, as he took a big roll of bills from the cashier. Kelly didn't stop to count it, but made a rush for the bar room, crying out:

"If there's dust in any guy's throat around here, let him come in with me and wash it out. Everybody here a drink!" The bar looked like a bargain counter as the spots lined up. They called for everything from wine to cigarettes, but when all had had enough Kelly said to the drink mixer:

"How much, sport?" "Fifteen dollars, Kelly!" "There's twenty. Have a lot yourself!" "Say, Mr. Kelly," whispered a tent, "could you stake me to a few bucks? I've got a cinch."

"There's ten of them, me boy. Go and break up the betting ring," was Kelly's response as he forked out a $10 bill. Other miscellaneous persons successfully "staked" him for various amounts until Mike decided to plunge again. Going up to a bookmaker who had 100 to 1 against the horse Duke John, Mike cried out: "I'll put a hundred on that one!" and quickly produced a century, for which he received a ticket calling for $10,000 to $100.

"If Duke John wins," said Mike, "I'll buy the track." Duke John was last in a field of 12, but Kelly only laughed. And so he continued to speculate until the races were over. Then he had a $10 bill and some change. He paid the car and ferry fares of at least 50 cents, loaned 50 cents here and a quarter there, and by the time he left the boat at the foot of Forty-second street he had a few pennies over $5. As Kelly crossed Tenth avenue he caught sight of a little girl about 3 years old who was crying as if her heart would break. He picked her up in his arms and said gently:

"What's the matter, little one?" "Mamma's sick in bed and I'm hungry," sobbed the little girl. Kel gulped down a lump in his throat, put the child on the sidewalk, pressed $5 into her hand and said abscondingly:

"There, give that to your mother, little one, and may God bless you." "Come on, sport," Kelly said to his friend then. "We're broke, but let's hunt up some more green goods." He soon borrowed $50 from his namesake, Honest John Kelly. That was at 7 o'clock in the evening. At 11 o'clock that same night he had won $1,000 at faro. The next day he caught the noon boat for Guttenberg, and he had but $50 when Mike died, he didn't leave a dollar. —New York Sun.

The Royal Victoria. How do the royal family manage to distinguish between their Victorias? There is a Victoria in every family of the second generation—Victoria of Prussia, Victoria of Wales, Victoria of Edinburgh, Victoria of Rome, Victoria of Sleswick-Holstein, Victoria of Connaught, Victoria of Battenberg, Victoria of Teck and others somewhat less nearly connected. There is no Victoria of Albany, the sole exception. —London Sun.

The Right Remedy

The disastrous effect of potash and mercury, which the doctors always prescribe for Contagious Blood Poison, should convince anyone that there are not the proper remedy for this disease. Instead of forcing the poison from the system, and getting rid of it forever, potash and mercury only bottle it up, and by driving in the outward appearance of the disease, induce the patient to think he is being cured. But he sees his mistake before long, when his joints become stiff and his bones ache—often his hair will fall out by the handful and if he follows the doctor's advice and continues to take his medicine, his finger nails will drop off.

There is a cure for this distressing disease, though no doctor has ever set cured it. Doctors, they may pronounce a patient cured, but the disease has never failed to return, with increased severity. S. S. S. (Swiss Specific) is a permanent cure, and is the only remedy free from harmful ingredients. It is the only blood remedy which is guaranteed purely vegetable, and for twenty years its proprietors have offered one thousand dollars reward for proof that it contains a particle of potash, mercury or other mineral ingredient.

Mr. W. R. Newman, a well-known young man residing at Staunton, Va., tried various other treatments, but found no relief until he took S. S. S. He writes: "I was afflicted with blood poison and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their treatment faithfully. In fact I seemed to get worse all the while. I took almost every so-called blood remedy, but they did not seem to reach the disease and had no effect whatever. I was disheartened for it seemed that I would never be cured. At the advice of a friend I then took S. S. S. and began to improve. I continued the medicine and it cured me completely, building up my health and increasing my appetite. Although this was ten years ago, I have never yet had a sign of the disease to return."

Mr. E. L. Hite, also of Staunton, had the same disease and his experience was similar to the above. He says: "S. S. S. is certainly far ahead of all other blood remedies, for it cures cases they cannot touch. I was treated by several good doctors and took various blood remedies, but they did me no good. I then took S. S. S. and was cured completely and permanently. I have never been troubled with the disease since. I have recommended S. S. S. to others similarly afflicted, and have never known it to fail."

S. S. S. is the right remedy for Contagious Blood Poison, because it goes direct to the seat of the disease and forces it from the system. It will cure any case of Cancer, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Eczema, Catarrh or other blood disease of the most obstinate nature. Remember it is guaranteed.
