Not Much More Legislation.

WASHINGTON, April 30 Little more inportant legislation, outside of the regular appropriation bills, need be expected from this session of Congress. This has been plainly indicated on the floor of the Senate, where the power of the minority is not a tradition, but an unsurmountable fact. This is Presidential year and the minority scent politics in every measure of importance. In other averages much lower than at Cape Presidential years, the majority has fought for measures, not to pass them but to emphasize political Issues; but this year, the majority seems to regard lighting unnecessary for that purpose and to be anxious to harry the necessary business through and actourn. That is the situation today. A single speech on either side may upset all calculations and precipitate a political tight, which may lengthen the session beyond the

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarch. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk. I was seed any and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My miscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My hisband god me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I boucht another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health.
