President of Senate Explains The Reasons For Not Passing The Bill For The Appointment of Judges.

It is reported that the Senate will not pass the bill for the appointment of judges until after the adjournment of the session. The bill was introduced by Senator W. D. Turner, and has been the subject of much discussion. The Senate is expected to adjourn on Friday, May 18th.

The bill for the appointment of judges is one of the most important bills introduced in the Senate. It provides for the appointment of judges by the Governor, subject to the approval of the Senate. The bill has been the subject of much discussion, and it is expected that it will be passed by the Senate in the near future.
