AMERICANS EXTRAVAGANT BUT THRIFTY.

American extravagance is notorious at home and abroad, for it is the American traveler who is prodigal in all wants and wishes, and is really lavish in paying for what he desires.

American extravagance has a strong offset in American thrift. It is often seen that Americans who will not spare the cost when wanting any thing, will at other times be found economical, and display a thrift, that is surprising in contrast to their extravagance at other times.

It is because of this thrift, that the American can be seemingly extravagant at times, when he wants anything.

In the matter of savings banks for the year ending in 1900, American thrift makes a wonderful showing.

In 1899 there were only 108 savings banks in the United States, with 251,354 depositors and $14,431,130 on deposit, making an average of $129.76 for each depositor.

In 1900 there were 1,002 savings banks in the country, with 5,875,456 depositors and $2,284,779,849 on deposit, making an average of $405.80 for each depositor.

And this form of savings banks is only a source of thrift, for there are many kinds of investments, in which Americans are constantly putting away their money in dollars.

To the foreigner, the American seems to be extravagant in the food and his money. But while the American may appear to be throwing away dollars at one time, there are many occasions when his extravagance is more apparent than real, and in no way is indicative of true American character, which in the main is of the most thrifty nature.

EXPENSIVE MEMBERS OF COMMUNITY.

With the increased legislation by State and Nation, and the additional local ordinances made by every municipality, there is ever an increase of expense upon the taxpayers, for the purpose of employing persons to see that the laws are not violated, either through ignorance, or criminal intent.

The criminal is the most expensive member of a community, because he produces nothing, but either destroys the work of others, or has to be kept alive by a public tax.

In this cost of the criminals of this country, the following from the New York Herald is full of interest.

Criminals are very expensive members of the community. They cost the people of this country about $1,000,000,000 a year. If their increase could be prevented it would be a paying investment to give each of the 250,000 accepted criminals a monthly pension of $200, on the condition that they take a life vacation from the strenuous demands of their profession. But we accept the criminals as a part of our civilization, of barbarism—and pay the enormous cost of maintaining him.

The average annual income of professional criminals is estimated at about $1,600. This means that the community pays them a yearly salary of $400,000,000. After this is spent for their maintenance we pay annually $200,000,000 for their detection, conviction and support, under national, state, county and city auspices. The urban population has to pay the larger share of this, or 30,000,000 people in cities have to pay $106,000,000, $3.50 per capita, and the suburban population of 45,000,000 $1 each, or $45,000,000. In addition to this there is a federal and state expense of $50,000,000.

Add to this the loss by malicious destruction of property, the money value of human life lost through crime, the expenditure necessary in the attempt to guard against loss through law breakers, and we find that $1,000,000,000 is not a large estimate.

EMOTIONAL BUT DEALS JUSTLY.

The American is looked upon with a good deal of interest and curiosity by the people of other countries.

It is the emotional nature of the American, which bursts forth at all times, and on all occasions, that is so astonishing to foreigners.

It is the American people, alone, of all the world's nations, that have preserved their simplicity, and with it a strong human feeling.

It is this naturalness, which makes the American so eager and sincere in all that he enters into.

In love, war or business, it is the same. The American is emotional, and with it goes a natural strength and honesty, that carries him through to success.

An important news item is that which states that the American government has discovered that the indemnity of $20,000,000 demanded of China, for losses to American citizens, and to make good the government's expense of sending troops to China, to protect the country's interests during the boxer uprising, is thrice excessive, $75,000,000 being sufficient to cover actual losses.

And upon this discovery being made, the American government proposes to refund to China, the amount of excess awarded in the indemnity.

This which no doubt provokes a grim smile from Germany, Russia and France, whose Chinese claims amount to $20,000,000.

But it is this American has a feeling of fair dealing, along with the American impulsiveness, which is so constant a surprise to foreign nations.

And so long as the American people shall prove natural in character, how ever emotional they may be, it will be found that right and just dealing will be found among this people, and the world will be made the better for the emotion of the American. With his rugged sense of justice, and his administrative dealings with all peoples with whom he comes in contact.

ROOSEVELT'S IDEA UPHELD.

Fayne declares Federal Patronage Will Not be Used to Build up Administration Machine in Southern States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 26.—With Henry C. Payne as Postmaster General there will be no turning back by the Administration in its policy toward the South. Mr. Payne has a prejudice against that branch of practical politics known as the control of Southern delegates to Republican national conventions.

He has for years been opposed to the plan of using Federal patronage to build up an administration, the following of which could be used in the national convention as a solid body to take from the Republican constituencies the power to select the candidate who could command the greatest Republican support.

Mr. Payne has for some years sought to have the Republican National Committee recommend and the Republican national convention adopt a plan of representation that would destroy the old power of the Federal Administration to dictate to the convention and insure the re-nomination of a President without the majority support of his party, as shown in the representation from the States which must supply the votes to re-elect President Roosevelt also is opposed to the old Southern influence in national conventions.

One of the first things the President did was to appoint a Southern Democrat to office, at the same time giving notice that he proposed to fill the Federal offices in the South with the best men he could find without regard to their political affiliations. He has broken up the combination of members of the National Committee in the South which for years has boasted that it controlled the Federal patronage.

This condition in the South has been demoralizing. It has enabled a few men in control to use the Federal offices to dictate the selection of delegates and give instructions as to how they should vote in national conventions. It has also enabled these men to dictate nominations for the Federal offices. The operations of the plan has been to unite too closely Federal patronage and the Federal Machine devoted to the perpetuation of itself.

President Roosevelt will not use the Southern delegations in the national convention to obtain a nomination. If the Republican States will not give it to him in 1901 he will not try to obtain it by the use of Southern delegates who cannot add in the election of a Republican President. He will continue to appoint the best men to office without regard to recommendations of the Southern members of the National Committee.

The River Arno has overflowed its banks and the waters have caused considerable damage at Florence and at Pisa.

Among the ten of thousands who have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for colds and grippe during the past few years, to our knowledge, not a single case has resulted in pneumonia. Thos. Whitfield & Co., 240 Wabash avenue, Chicago, one of the most prominent retail druggists in that city, in speaking of this says: "We recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for grippe in many cases, as it not only gives prompt and complete recovery, but also counteracts any tendency of the grippe to result in pneumonia." For sale by F. S. Duffy & Co.

Month After Month a cold clings to you. The cough seems to tear holes in the delicate tissues of the throat and lungs. You lose weight and you wonder if you are threatened with a disease you scarcely dare to name. Are you aware that even a stubborn and long-neglected cold is cured with Allen's Lung Balm? Do not spend more of your life in coughing and worrying.

De Wet's Haul Important. LONDON, Dec. 27.—Boer resistance has already been very strong in that part of the Orange River Colony which was the scene of General De Wet's Christmas coup.

A great quadrangle of blockhouses is being built there, the four points of which are Vereeniging, Volksrust, Hartswater and Koonstad. At the southeast corner of this quadrangle is a long open space from Bethlehem to Lindley, where the square of blockhouses is still incomplete, and there De Wet made his attack. Colonel Fimman's force probably amounted to 400 men, and the disaster, especially the loss of the guns, the possession of which may enable De Wet successfully to attack the blockhouses, creates a disturbing impression.
