BUILDS UP—WEALTH MAKERS.

The local interest taken in the State Good Roads Convention, which is to be held at Raleigh, on February 12th and 13th, has resulted in the appointment of men from this section who have its best interests at heart.

These men will no doubt attend the convention, and feel how important good roads are, and how it is possible to have such roads in Craven county.

The JOURNAL has often and repeatedly shown the necessity for improved highways in and around New Bern, so that the country and city both may be built up into a natural and healthy state of business, which will bring prosperity to each and every interest, farmer, merchant and citizen.

The natural wealth of this section can never be even fairly developed unless there shall be good public roads, and these roads must not be in sections of one or two miles, but must be continuous from remote towns leading through farming lands into New Bern.

Visitors to the Good Roads Convention on February 12th and 13th will have every opportunity of seeing the best methods to be employed in road building, hence the real need that every delegate appointed in New Bern and Craven county shall attend the convention, so that each and every one may come back with renewed spirit for the Good Roads work, applied to their own section.

OUR FOREIGN PRESERVERS.

The telegraphic dispatches tell of a controversy now going on abroad, as to which European nation was the friend of the United States during the late war with Spain.

Declarations are now flying swift and often between Germany and England on this matter, with denials of each other's stories in language that threatens to go beyond the diplomatic.

This country's armed intervention in Cuba, so one story goes, was to be declared unjustifiable by the Powers, including England, but the note which was to express this sentiment, fell through on account of Germany's flat refusal to sign.

The English version is that that country was most friendly to the United States throughout the Spanish troubles.

Through French sources the story comes that English social circles were hostile towards America, and Spanish proposals would have been heard favorably. But more than all the real power of all was Russia, that nation's position quickly changing France and Germany, in their ideas of siding with Spain.

While all this controversy may be of interest in foreign diplomatic circles, it is rather amusing and entertaining reading in this country.

In time of need is when a friend is wanted, and whether this country received such moral support as these foreign countries now claim was given the United States in 1898, is a question.

That there was no foreign interference at the time is a matter of congratulation all around, not that the results of the war would have been materially different, or that this country would have changed its attitude or course from the one pursued.

PROSPERITY AND RELIGIOUS PROGRESS.

The closing of the year 1901, with its record of religion, its advancement or decline, seems to prove the truth of the saying, that prosperity is bad for religion.

Some of the reports of the different religious organizations are of interest in this connection of the effect of a prosperous year upon the people.

The three larger Baptist benevolent societies report a decline in contributions. The Congregationalists have held their own, but can report no great forward movement. The Episcopal missionary board faces a deficit of $50,000, all the more embarrassing because it is expanding its missionary effort. The Methodists have done well in raising $15,000,000 as a twentieth century fund, but there are indications that it has been done at the expense of some of its other interests. The Presbyterians and Roman Catholics appear to have done well.

While there has been an increase in membership in these denominations, the church papers all claim it to be too small.

In benefactions to religion there seems to have been no large ones in 1901, church members giving largely to educational interests in preference to their own denominational wants.

The following from an exchange gives some of the most important events of the past year, affecting religion.

"One of the most important events of the year affecting religion was the passage of the associations law by France and the resulting expulsion of about 11,000 members of religious orders, a few of whom came to this country. The Presbyterian church decided to put forth a statement explaining, but not superseding, its creed. The Baptist societies held meetings largely devoted to the discussion of ways and means. The Episcopal general convention appointed bishops for Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands, but otherwise took no action on burning questions submitted to it. The Methodist conferences appear to have acted favorably on the proposition to admit women as delegates to the general conference, and the question will now go to that body. The Roman Catholics have effected a federation of their lay societies; but the year has witnessed a notable increase of Protestant missionary activity in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines at the expense of that body. All the larger Protestant bodies report the erection of churches and school-houses and many accessions to their membership. The fact has just been announced that the Roman church in this country is alive to the need of holding its own in these new possessions, and with that end in view will train American priests to take the place of native priests. At a recent conference all the sects of the Quakers met and declared for arbitration instead of war. The tendency toward liturgical worship and ceremonial has been developed in the non-liturgical churches. Lent and holy week are looming up larger than the week of prayer, and vested choirs have increased among the Methodists. On the other hand, extreme ritualism in the Anglican and Episcopal churches has received a distinct setback, and it is believed that it will soon cease to be a vital issue in these churches."

He says: "Many people, even in England, think that our male sex dress in kilts, but they are quite wrong, for there is hardly a man in Edinburgh or anywhere in the middle and south of Scotland who wears kilts. ## SAVED BY PLUCK.

Captain Huston Worked His Schooner Off Diamond Shoals.

Captain Huston, who is well known in this port, where he has visited for years, had the misfortune to run his new four-masted schooner, the Orlando V. Wootton, ashore on the Inner Diamond Shoals, near Cape Hatteras on last Tuesday.

This was only the second voyage of the Wootton, and to this meet with disaster was very hard luck for Capt. Huston.

But while the wrecking company which sent a tug, to release the schooner gave up the job as a hopeless one, not so Capt. Huston, as the following from the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, 7th will show.

"The Orlando V. Wootton, the four-masted schooner which was abandoned Wednesday by the Merritt-Chapman Wrecking Company's tug Coley, had ground on the Inner Diamond Shoals, near Cape Hatteras, waterlogged and given up for lost by the tug crew, is again afloat. She is now riding at anchor off Cape Hatteras, awaiting the Coley, which returned to her immediately on arrival at her dock here at noon yesterday, when the news of the floating of the Wootton was communicated to her. The wrecking tug Edward Luckenbach also left yesterday afternoon to help bring the Wootton to port. They will race for the salvage neck and neck.

The floating of the Wootton was due to the pluck and perseverance of her owner and skipper, Captain Huston, who refused to give up hope when the wrecking company's people declared the case hopeless. Captain Huston and his crew, who have been cared for by the life savers at Cape Hatteras since the schooner went ashore Tuesday, boarded her after the Coley left and hoisted all sail. Yesterday morning at high tide, with the aid of a favorable wind, the Wootton was floated. On account of the buoyant nature of the cargo, pine lumber, the schooner cannot sink, it is said. The feat of floating the schooner is considered remarkable by the marine experts here, who consider the Inner Diamond Shoals where the schooner went ashore, a regular grave yard for ships. The schooner will be towed to Norfolk."

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and best to remain Very truly yours,
