Contributions to The Library.

The public library is now at home in its own quarters, 183 Middle St., but ar- of an elective officer, rangements are not complete so subscribers can get books.

Some of the books lately purcha have come, and after being numbered will go on the shelves.

A very serviceable and fine lamp has been contributed by Dr. Geo. Slover. A number of books, by Mr. Walter Barrington. Some good chairs, by Mr. John Suter, a small table, by Mr. T. W. Dewey, and a large reading table by Dr. Primrose and Mr. Dewey, all of which are greatly valued and appreciated.

The location of the library is an excellent one, and its rooms are bright and pleasant.

Fablo Romani.

Those who witnessed the presentation of the above play last night at the opera house, and there was a full house, every seat being taken, cannot but congratulate themselves.

Fabio Romani, founded upon Marie Corelli's Vendetta, is a play calling for strong acting throughout, and each successive act becomes more vivid in its presentation of those human passions love and vengeance, ending in the climax when Nina loses her reason, and is citizens from South Carolina today when ting up of not a little "bluff" to securkilled during the carthquake, while they called upon him at the White an option on ten acres of oil land from Fabio escapes from the scene and coun-try, his vengeance completed in the idea of visiting their fair and their. It was a fine play, and Beatty held deaths of Nina and Ferrari.

Alden Benedict's company which played here last night, is excellent in the acting of its every member, Walter Lawrence as Fablo Romani, and Martha Beauford, as Nina, in the leading roles being especially fine:

Nothing more could be asked in the acting, but with the small stage here, the company labored under great difficulty, and could not give the spectacular effects of the play, as they would otherwise have done.

The Oaks Market had on exhibition yesterday, a fine dressed beeve which weighed 1112 pounds.

Beatty's Luck.

Some of the stories told concerning the sudden fortunes acquired down in the new olifields of Texas make like tales of old California and the new gold diggings in the Klondike tamand weak in comparison. Neither of these so called El Dorados, for example, has ever furnished an individual who grew up from a poor man to a multimillionaire in the astonishing fashion of Mr. D. R. Beatty, formerly of Galveston.

Beatty happened to be in the Galves ton News office on the day that the news of the great Lucas gusher came in over the wires. The story made him jump. His total cash assets at the time amounted to $20, and he had nothing beyond that. But he started for Beau mont on the next train, determined to try his luck anyway, come what would. When he had planted his feet in the oil district, he had half of his original capital left-$10. With this he man aged by shrewd dickering and the put he winning card. The land proved to be loaded up with the richest kind of oil veins, and before many weeks Beatty had a well in operation which h sold for $1,250,000. Other finds and investments added to the pile, and now Mr. Beatty's possessions are rated at a valuation of $20,000,000, and the end is

Clark, who was on the stand just before Admiral Schley himself gave testimony. Captain Clark came prominently before the country at the time the Oregon made her famous trip around Cape Horn. He was commander of the great battleship on that trip and was also her commander during the battle of Santiago, where she played an important part. As

CAPTAIN CHARLES E. CLARK. might have been expected when the captain of the Oregon appeared at the inquiry, all those present at once be-came deeply interested on account of the personality of the witness regardless of the testimony he was to give. Mr. Cleveland has a archistic dogmas. Mr. Cleveland has a temperament so intensely reserved that he is rarely seen, heard of or quoted except by the university students of Princeton, to whom his paper on an-archists was directed. Since his re-tirement from the presidency Mr. Cleveland's efforts have been mainly as an educator, and so be lives a most retired and placed life in the peaceful New Jersey university town.

Rarely Seen on Persian Rugs. Prayer Rugs of the Mohammedans and Their Use-The Rugs of Sivas.

The designs of eastern rugs are often the spontaneous outcome of the fancy of the weaver. Sometimes they are anded down from one generation another, In some cases young girls are taught the design by an adult, who the affairs of his employer as if they marks it in the sand. At other times a were his own and will stay fifteen mindrawing of the rug is made on paper, the instructor showing her pupils the arrangement of every thread; and the rest of the men have quit color to be used. When all this has work. He will be able to write a business of the men have quit to be used. rug without looking at the drawing. Persian rugs excel those of other sountries in artistic design as well as in harmonious coloring. The Pursians seem to have a natural intuition in the use and blending of different shades, and in the designs that contain these certain colors they achieve the happlest results. It is really wonderful what exquisite fabrics these people, born and reared in ignorance and poverty, The designs in Persian rugs are generally floral, and in some districts, especially Fars, the women weavers in vent the designs, varying them every two or three years. The Mohamm religion does not allow any direct representation of animal forms, conse quently rugs woven under its influence take floral, geometric and vegetable forms. The Shiah sect of Moslems, however, numbering about 15,000,000 of whom 8,000,000 are Persians, do not regard representations of animals as unlawful. By the industry of this sect and that of infidels and of all who disregard the law of the Koran animal forms are seen on some Persian rugs.

The prayer rug was evidently invented for the purpose of providing the worshipers with one absolutely clean place on which to offer prayers. It is not lawful for a Moslem to pray on any place not perfectly clean, and unless each one has his own special rug he is not certain that the spot has not been polluted. With regard to the purity of the place of prayer Mohammedans are specially careful when making their pilgrimages, the rugs which they take with them having been preserved from pollution by being rolled up until the journey is begun or until the hour for prayer arrives. It does not matter to these followers of Mohammed how unclean a rug that is on the floor may be, because over it they place the pray-or rug when their devotions begin. The Turkish rugs made at Sivas are always woven of wool, and almost every hamlet carries on the industry of weaving in the homes. There are no factories, the young girls and women doing the work here as in other parts of Turkey. Sivas rugs are in most cases small, measuring about eight by four feet, but to these years larger and more attractive rugs are being made. Even the poorest families have fine rugs, for they regard them as valuable property, to be sold only under the pressure of great extremity. The weavliving that their daily earning of 15 to 19 cents is sufficient to supply their wants. Their food consists usually of rice and crushed wheat, with occasionally a small piece of mutton.

Smyrna is only a mart for the sale of comparatively inferior rugs that are made in the interior from the coarse hair of the Angora goat. These are woven in irregular designs and, although not artistle, are largely sought as coverings for the bare floors and to add warmth. The weaving of these rugs is crudely done by girls and wo men. Sometimes the loom is primitive ly constructed from the trunks of trees The designs are very simple and have elther been handed down from earlier generations or are supplied from the Yuruk rugs are so called from a band of nomads who dwell among the moun tains of Anatolia. They have large flocks of fine sheep and weave rugs of firm, even texture. The colors are very good, the field often of dark brown, or namented with large designs.

About 200 years ago small embroider ed rugs were largely made in Persia chiefly at Ispahan. These were prayer rugs, and on each of them, near one end, was a small embroidered mark to show where the bit of sacred earth from Mecca was to be placed. In obe lience to a law of the Koran that the head must be bowed to the ground in prayer this was touched by the fore-head when the presentation was made, and so the letter of the law was carried out. The custom prevails. The Persian women who weave the finest prayer rugs seldom weave any other kind of rug.-"Rugs, Oriental and Occidental."

The Kind of a Boy the World Wants Boys are always in demand because they are the material out of which men are made, and as first class material Why Animal Pigures Are is always at a premium in every line of trade so the boys who give promise of making first class men are most cagerly sought after. The boy the world wants today is the one who can be trusted to handle money without any of it sticking to his fingers or finding its way into his pockets. He will take as much interest in utes without being asked to finish a piece of work after the whistle blows been done, the pupils must make the ness letter and spell the words correctly and to add up a column of figures promptly and accurately. He will lift his cap as readily to his sister when he meets her on the street as he would were she the sister of some other boy, and he will not be ashamed to walk to church with his mother, show her into her own pew and sit beside her during the service. He will be careful in making a promise and just as careful about keeping it. He will have sufficient moral backbone to say "No" to those who would lead him astray, and he will have enough courage to own that he is striving to make a man of himself.

This is the kind of boy so many are on the lookout for.-Selected.

Story of the Toy Cats. It was night in the nursery. Jack lay in his crib, rosy and sweet, all ready

On Jack's toy table stood Mother Spot, the china cat, and her two kittens, Speck and Dot. They had real cat natures hidden under their hard exteriors, and no one but Jack had ever found it out.

"Speck and Dot," said Mother Spot. "Jack had an awful scare today. His uncle brought him a tin mouse." "Meow!" cried Speck and Dot, and i sounded exactly as if they were cracking "mouse, meow!" "I know where that mouse is!" said

They fell upon him, those three china cats. They tore him to pieces, and then, covered with glory and brown paint, they crept back to Jack's table and waited.

In the morning nurse found the remnants of the mouse under the bed, and she said sadly: "Jack, it was naughty of you to

The New Workbox Plays Many Paris The American husband is not the only man in the country who is striving to make life as casy as possible for my lady of many whims. The manufacturers strain every nerve to add to her comfort and lessen her cares, as one may see dally in a thousand directions. Take the newest workbox, for instance. It contains not only the means of making and repairing anything from glaves to stockings, but a set of manicure implements as well. What a comfort and satisfaction in this well made and well looking box when the journey comes to a halt or an end.

Another ingenious and attractive rerkbox has a jewel case attachment. The top tray divides into two triangular trays, swinging open and out sep arately upon a pivot. The box under neath is the jewel case. It is the very thing for a short journey and answer in size for putting into a traveling bag or a trunk. It contains a capital vari ety of glove silks and other spools, as well as many generous fittings, all for the price of $3.

Plants In the House See that your plants get fresh at whenever it can be given them safely This means that cold air should be so admitted that it is mixed with the air of the room before it reaches the plants themselves. Give your plants the benefit of light and sunshine if you wish them to do well. Water only when the surface of the soil looks dry. This rule cannot be deviated from with safety by the amateur. The experienced gardener will frequently discover conditions which make it safe for him to vary or modify it, but these the amateur will not discover, and it is not possible to lay down any instruc tions by which they may be discovered, says a writer in Ladies' Home Journal. Overwatering does untold harm, as it causes souring of the soil and brings on decay of the roots. Apply fertilizers only when a plant is growing, for then, and then only, can it make use of them. Begin with a small quantity of whatever fertilizer you use and increase the amount as the plant increases in growth, being careful not to overdo the matter.
