

AN OLD SORE

Will sour the sweetest disposition and transform the most even tempered, lovable nature into a cross-grained and irritable individual.

If impatience or fault-finding are ever excusable it is when the body is tortured by an eating and painful sore. It is truly discouraging to find after remains of diligent and faithful use of external remedies that the place remains as defiant, angry and offensive as ever. Every chronic sore, no matter on what part of the body it comes, is an evidence of some previous constitutional or organic trouble, and that the drugs of these diseases remain in the system; or, it may be that some long hidden poison—perhaps Cancer—has come to the surface and begun its destructive work.

The blood must be purified before the sore will fill up with healthy flesh and the skin regain its natural color. It is through the circulation that the acid, corroding fluids are carried to the sore and kept irritated and inflamed. S. S. S. will purify and invigorate the stagnant blood when all sediment or other hurtful materials are washed out, fresh rich blood is carried to the diseased parts, new tissues form, and the decaying flesh begins to have a healthy and natural look; the discharge ceases and the sore heals.

S. S. S. is the only blood purifier that is guaranteed entirely vegetable. It builds up the blood and tones up the general system as no other medicine does. If you have a sore of any kind, write us and get the advice of experienced and skilled physicians for which no charge is made. Book on Blood and Skin Diseases free.

Several years ago, my wife had a severe sore leg and was treated by the best physicians but received no benefit. Our druggist advised her to try S. S. S., which she did. Fourteen bottles cured her and she has been well ever since.

Packard's Comedians.

The Dan Packard high class Vaudeville and Comedy Concert Co. is composed of all artists who are a credit to the profession and give an entertainment that is full of fun and frolic from vulgarity. The Darling Sisters in the latest songs make a good hit. Dick Barnett is a clever song and dance artist; the Carleton Sisters are sweet singers and Conley and Moore give a very laughable skit. Mr. Packard himself is a vocal title singer and comedian.

The company all through is as they advertise a high class Vaudeville and Comedy company.

The Swardfish.

The swordfish lives from five to ten hours after it is harpooned, and at any time in that period he is a dangerous customer for the fisherman. Indeed swordfishing is one of the most dangerous as well as most exciting of all the varieties of enterprises pursued by our fishermen.

Beauty Triumphs.

No woman objects to being beautiful. Beauty is woman's charm, joy, pride and strength. The woman who is beautiful is adored and loved. A pretty woman attracts naturally for love, honor, power and influence over men. What can be done to reproduce the face and keep woman beautiful? There is a skin preparation used by cultured and successful women in the world. It is called "Mother's Friend" and it is the only remedy in the world which will give you the most perfect skin with which you can be born and all beauty of form and figure retained.

Replanting the Seeds.

Nubbins (shouting across the garden fence to his next door neighbor)—Hi, there! What are you burying in that hole?

Neighbor—Oh, I'm just replanting some of my garden seeds.

Nubbins—Garden seeds, eh? Looks to me very much like one of my hens.

Neighbor—That's all right. The seeds are inside her.

A King's Miserable End.

Louis XI, after having by open murder or secret assassination rid himself of the most powerful nobility of France, died in miserable fear, begging his physician to do something for him. During his last days he sent for St. Francis of Paula and offered him untold riches to intercede with heaven for a further lease of life.

E. S. STREET, Chief Marshal.

OLIVE OIL AND ITS USES.

Children Should Be Taught to Like Its Food Value.

The olive as an article of food is becoming so thoroughly "naturalized" in the United States that successful efforts have been made to make it "native to the soil" by growing it in such places as are adapted to its culture. California and Arizona are thus far the only states where the possibility of raising olive trees in appreciable numbers has been demonstrated, but experiments are being made elsewhere.

A writer in the American Kitchen Magazine says:

Only a small part of the olive oil in the markets of the world is used for cooking. It is largely employed for soap-making (castle soap is made from olive oil), medicinally and in silk and woolen factories.

The increased use of oil for food should always be encouraged. If children are trained to eat it, there is little likelihood of their ever losing the appetite. Instead, the tendency is generally to an increasing use of oil not only with salads, but with almost all vegetables. Mayonnaise dressing and tartare sauce please many who do not care for plain oil.

Aside from custom, there is no reason why olive oil, more than good butter, should be regarded as a luxury by an ordinary family.

It is hard to draw a sharp line between the use of oil as a food and its use in therapeutics. The former makes the latter less likely to be required. If a small part of the money spent for patent medicines in the United States were employed to put a pure olive oil on our tables, there would be less call for the various powders, pills and liniments that are advertised on every side. Perhaps, too, we singular Americans should gain some of the grace native to Spaniards and Italians.

The body can be fed artificially with oil by baths, massage, etc., and physicians and nurses know of the wonderful gain made by patients for whom this is done. In typhoid fever, appendicitis and kindred diseases the use of oil results very successfully. It is also employed in the treatment of burns and as an antidote for poisons.

With All My Worldly Goods. A minister whose first parish was in the backwoods of the west some years ago says that he once married a very seedy-looking bridegroom to a buxom girl of perhaps twenty years. The ceremony was performed in the log cabin home of the bride's parents, and there were many guests present. When the bridegroom repeated the words, "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," a tall, lank fellow with a huge tobacco pipe in his bulging cheek drawled out nastily:

"That goes Hank's ball terrier, by gum!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Death Chair.

Doubt is often cast upon electrocution as a system by the fact that persons may survive an accidental shock of 2,000 volts. The Electrical World and Engineer points out that the conditions of a chance contact are entirely different from those provided in the chair. It says, "There can be no question that the subject dies by the effects of the electric shock and is found beyond all hope before the autopsy takes place."

HINTS FOR FARMERS

Good Soil Needs Good Seed. If you are to attain success as a farmer, you must first become acquainted with the soil and be particular as to the kind and quality of seed you intend to sow, says P. J. McGlynn in Prairie Farmer. A large number of farmers spend much of their time and money buying and planting poor seed. Many plant poor seed because they are cheap, but which oftentimes prove most expensive. Experience has taught me that the better the seed the better the crop. Great care should be given to the soil as well as to the seed. One variety of seed might do extremely well in a soil, while another of a different nature would be a complete failure under similar conditions. The cultivation of a crop is only of secondary importance in comparison to either soil or seed. Therefore it should be obvious to every one that these two particular points are of paramount importance and are worthy of much thought from those interested in agricultural pursuits. It is essential that ever farmer be thoroughly acquainted with the soil, for upon this knowledge his success largely depends, and I can truthfully say that if this particular point is carefully considered a crop could be easily expected—that is, if the season be a favorable one—and not regarded as merely a matter of chance.

Approaching the Limit. It is often assumed that the possibilities of the expansion of the sheep industry on the ranges are almost boundless. This is not true. The limit has almost been reached without serious interference with other industries. And sheep are not going to supplant cattle and horses to a very large extent so long as prices for the latter are so favorable to the producer. Another feature of the business is worth noting, and that is the exhaustion of range pastures. The range will not support vast increased herds of stock. The land is pretty well occupied now in some localities it is overstocked, and in other range grasses have so deteriorated under hard usage that they will not keep many animals. It seems that the limit of range sheep production is being approached. The sheep industry will settle down, and finally, we trust, after a few years. It has been disturbed so frequently by new developments that people expect an upheaval every decade, but a more constant production is likely to prevail before long.—National Stockman and Farmer.

Corn Planting.

Many of the tests at experiment stations have shown better yields from planting moderately early rather than very early; from planting a larger number of kernels per acre than most good farmers think advisable; from planting small growing varieties in rows closer together than is best for large varieties; from giving shallow and level cultivation rather than deep and ridged cultivation; from planting rather shallow early and deeper in late planting. Other trials have seemed to show that very frequent cultivation does not repay its cost; that it is important to cultivate as soon as may be after rains; that deep cultivation while the stalks are small may be helpful if followed by shallow culture, says the agricultural column of the Hartford Times. It also advised that the farmer will be better satisfied if he tries some experiments of this kind himself and tries them more than one season that he may be sure that the change in method and not the season has changed results.

How to Use Foultry Manure.

Poultry manure is of such variable richness, owing to feed of poultry and the amount of dirt collected with it, that it is impossible to make a very definite prescription for use, but 500 to 1,000 pounds could be safely used per acre if care is taken not to mass the manure in close contact with seed. Professor E. J. Wickson of the California Experiment Station. The best way to apply where no showers can be depended upon after corn is planted is to broadcast before the spring plowing. The corn will grow roots to reach it. As for using the poultry manure in a drill, it will be very troublesome and expensive to dry and grind it to sufficient fineness to work well in a drill, as commercial fertilizers do.

Hogs and Corn.

Census figures reveal that of the 22,876,000 hogs in the country in 1900, 20,474,000 were in the north central division, represented by the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas. The south central division, composed of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, had 13,947,000 of the remainder. These two divisions contain 85 per cent of all the hogs in the country, and they contain all the states that can be classed in the corn belt. Corn and hogs still go together in this country.

Value of Farm Land.

"The question is raised whether land that sells for $100 per acre can be farmed at a profit," says the Kansas Farmer. That such land is farmed at a profit is the proper answer. The fact that good land is often farmed at a loss regardless of the selling price is not a fault of the land, but of the farmer. Many of the most profitable farms in Texas cannot be bought for less than $100 per acre, and the land is capable of earning a profit because it is worth that price.—Dallas Farm and Ranch.

Sunburned Potatoes.

Potatoes must be well covered. A potato greened from the sun may be just as good for seed, but it is not fit for the table.

Biliousness is a condition characterized by a disturbance of the digestive organs. The stomach is debilitated, the liver torpid, the bowels constipated. There is a loathing of food, pain in the bowels, dizziness, coated tongue and vomiting, first of the undigested or partially digested food and then of bile. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets allay the disturbances of the stomach and create a healthy appetite. They also regulate the liver to a healthy action and regulate the bowels. Try them and you are certain to be much pleased with the result. For sale by F. A. Duffy.

HUMOR OF THE HOUR

Was He Dead? Did black Kate had been absent from the Parker's kitchen for some days in attendance on her sick husband, a Herbert Spencer looking individual, whom she never called by any more familiar title than "Mr. Tilman."

"One evening Mr. Parker went to see how the sick man was getting along. The unexpected sight of streamers of wool on the bell handle so confused him that when Kate herself opened the door he blunderingly asked: "How is Mr. Tilman, Kate?"

Kate, always serious, was solemnly personified as she answered: "Mr. Tilman, sir, is laid out."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Not Eligible.

"So you are just married," said the chief of the railroad information bureau, who wanted a clerk. "Does your bride make pie?"

"She does," replied the applicant for the place. "But what has that to do with my securing employment in your office?"

"Oh, some," said the chief. "We are supposed to answer inquiries politely, and I'm not taking chances on the temper of a man with indigestion."—Baltimore News.
