THE CASTORIA COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

ST. MARY'S GRADUATES.

Address by Rev. T. M. N. George, of New Bern.

The closing of the St. Mary's College at Raleigh was held Wednesday under most auspicious conditions. Three young ladies received diplomas on the occasion.

Rev. T. M. N. George, of this city, was honored by the institution in being invited to make the commencement address, which was given Wednesday evening. The Raleigh Times says of the reverend gentleman:

"Rev. Mr. George made a practical talk to the young ladies and addressed himself particularly to those just starting out into the world to fight their own battles. His address was very much enjoyed and highly complimented by all those who had the pleasure of hearing it."

A PLEASURABLE EVENING.

Enjoyed by the Class 1902 who Were Guests of the Pupils of 8th and 9th Grades.

It has been the happy custom of the students of the eighth and ninth grades to give the graduating class of the tenth grade a reception on the eve of their leaving school. A very delightful occasion of this nature was held in the Academy building last evening. There were about one hundred present and all had a very pleasant, sociable time. Games and innocent amusements were the features of the evening. Light refreshments were served in one of the upper rooms of the building.

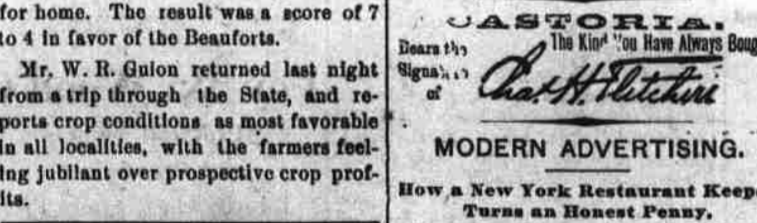

There was a general feeling of deep regret over the absence of Miss Mary Brown, who was teacher of the eighth, ninth and tenth grades and who last week went to Minnesota where she has a position as teacher of a school on an Indian reservation. She was a popular and efficient teacher. She has all the heart felt good wishes of her former associates and pupils.

A GENTLE HINT.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature,—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Bosche's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonias, Severe Coughs, Croup or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. MODERN ADVERTISING.

How a New York Restaurant Keeper Turns an Honest Penny.

An enterprising restaurant keeper in Herald square has evolved a new scheme to add to the no mean revenue he already derives from the sale of eatables and drinkables to hungry and thirsty patrons.

For some time past he has had his name stamped on the "china" in which food and drink are served, and this suggested to him the possibility of enlarging on the idea and not only have the stamping done for nothing, but increase his income as well.

He forthwith sought out a firm that advertises extensively and submitted his proposition, with the result that a contract was closed at once. Now, the names of different brands of goods are forced on patrons willy nilly.

Those who could turn their backs on an advertisement when it was displayed on a fence or avert their eyes when it is on a car or train are positively "stumped."

As they sip their cup of coffee or mug of milk the letters of the advertisement begin to appear until, when the utensil is nearly empty, their eyes are looking straight at the advertisement in all its attractiveness.

It is the same as the dishes are being emptied by the patrons. The only way to avoid seeing the advertisement is not to eat the food. The ads. are stamped on the inside of the cups and plates.

The restaurant man and the advertiser are both satisfied with the results, and they reckon little what the patrons think of the scheme to coerce them into reading the matter displayed in this fashion.—New York Telegram.

Under the Rose.

The rose is the emblem of secrecy in Greece, and accordingly this flower used to be hung over the table where guests were entertained in token that nothing heard there was to be repeated.

Graceful Women

The secret of the healthy, slender, and open air, as precious as the lovely flowers whose breath they are, and while the lives of flowers are brief and they can only enjoy them for a day, the beautiful woman gives the pleasure of her fragrance to us as a permanent blessing. The sweet, pure health of the baby is suggestive of innocence and health—the soft fragrance of a beautiful woman suggests to the guests party, health and elegance also is the possession of civilization she is indicative of a desire to please, an index of good taste, and an assurance of good ability.

CLASS DAY EXERCISES.

A Dozen Young Ladies and Gentlemen Bid Farewell to School Duties.

The closing exercises of the Graded school which were held in the opera house yesterday morning were very interesting and were witnessed by a large number of people. The decorations on the stage consisted of plants which were prettily arranged. Beside the graduates, Rev. Dr. Barron, and Revs. R. F. Bumpas, H. S. Bradshaw and H. C. Moore, and the Board of Education were seated on the platform.

The exercises opened with a chorus by the class, Rev. R. F. Bumpas offered prayer and Miss Janie Stewart, president of the class made a salutatory address. The class roll was called by the secretary, Miss Hilma Davenport, to which all responded. Miss Sarah Louise Meadows gave an interesting historical review of the class. The class poet, Miss Lillian Fordham, read a very pretty original poem, and the class prophecy by Herbert Lupton was a clever forecast of each member's future.

The class song, a very pretty composition by Miss Cora Eagles was sung by the class.

Miss Myrtle Louise Disoway read an interesting essay on "The Battle of Alamance," a terrific engagement which took place in Alamance county, during the war of the Revolution. Miss Cora Eagles read an essay on the subject "Let There Be Light," which was an able plea for the proper discussion of all subjects. Miss Ruth Beverly Berry read the Valedictory essay on the truly worthy sentiment "Live for Something." The young lady gave good advice on this important theme and handled it well.

Dr. Geo. Slover, president of the Board of Education presented the diplomas and made a brief speech in which he urged them to not cease their studies but increase them and to hold the teachings of the one great text book—the Bible, above everything else.

The award of medals and prizes was then made. The medal offered by Mr. T. A. Green for distinction in the 8th grade Latin was awarded to Miss Margaret Young and presented by Mr. S. M. Branson. The prize for excellence in the ninth grade was a gold pen, offered by Mr. A. E. Hibbard was awarded to Miss Ruth Beverly Berry, and presented by Dr. A. C. Barron, of Charlotte.

A University of North Carolina scholar ship was conferred upon Herbert Lupton and an A. & M. scholarship on Garrison Farrow. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. H. S. Bradshaw.

Following are the names of the graduates: Ruth Beverly Berry, Cora Washington Eagles, Hilma Davenport, Janie Flacied Stewart, Myrtle Louise Disoway, Ada Lillian Fordham, Annie Bertie Williams, Sarah Louise Meadows, Garrison Anglo Farrow, and certificates were given to the following: Jessie Pauline Bumpas, Herbert Wardsworth Lupton and Elmer Basnight.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says Dr. Scott Curran of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs, &c.

An Out-of-Doors Number.

The issue of The Outlook for June 7th is the Thirteenth Annual Recreation Number. The leading features are "Hunting Big Game with the Camera," by A. G. Wallihan; "When You Meet a Bear," by W. J. Long; "Mountain Climbing," by Charles E. Fay; "Camping for Women," by Martha Goman; "Lost in the Woods," by George Kennan; "Behind the Guns," by James Barnes; "The Salmon Leap," (a beautiful picture illustrating a passage from Isaac Walton); and "Winning a H," by Walter Camp. There are also Dr. Hale's "Memories," an illustrated article on Jane Austen's Home, a good story, and interesting, timely portraits. The number is richly illustrated with drawings by Charles S. Chapman, Phillip R. Goodwin, Henry Sandham, J. Conacher, and F. C. Gordon; and photographs by A. G. Wallihan, S. Horace McFarland, and others.

Seed Corn Tests.

The Illinois Agricultural college is testing seed corn free for the farmers of the state. Every institution of the kind in the corn belt, including Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, ought to do this. It gives the student some practical work to do and will result in better crops. Enterprise in college work is always commendable.

For Rainy Days.

Every farm should have a woodshop that may be profitably occupied on rainy days. It is better also to have a blacksmith's outfit. Then, if the farmer or any one of his boys has enough mechanical talent to make a hoe handle, he can soon learn to do all the plain repairing required on a farm.

Drought Predicted.

The St. Louis Journal of Agriculture advises farmers of the middle west to prepare for another drought and says that the weather up to date has been unfavorable to crops throughout that section. It is always wise to be prepared for drought or floods or any possible contingency.

Distressing Stomach Disease.

Permanently cured by the masterly power of "SOUTH AMERICAN NERVE TONIC." Invalids need suffer no longer, because this great remedy can cure them all. It is a cure for the whole world of stomach weakness and indigestion. The cure begins with the first dose. The relief it brings is marvelous and surprising. It makes no failure; never disappoints. No matter how long you have suffered, your cure is certain under the use of this great health-giving force. Pleasant and always safe. Sold by C. D. Bradham, Druggist.

Relief in Six Hours

Distressing Kidney and Bladder Disease relieved in six hours by "NEW GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." It is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in bladder, kidneys and back, in male or female. Relieves retention of water almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is the remedy. Sold by C. D. Bradham, Druggist.

WOMAN AND FASHION

A Spring Hat.

A hat of braided satin straw has a retromontane brim ornamented by a series of pale blue liberty satin bows held in place by cabochons of pearl and paste diamonds. Near the hair nestles a mass of pink and creamy button roses.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Separate the Hens.

Young birds as well as the old hens often contract diseases which they would escape if they were kept in a proper yard or allowed sometimes on a grass plot away from the barnyard; besides, they will be less liable to become overfat. In such a yard there should be two divisions, one for laying and sitting hens and one for the brood and young ones. Remove the hens as soon as they are hatched out. The hens should be confined in coops, so made as to protect them and their broods from the rain. The hens with chicks should be provided with an open shed in addition to these coops, facing the south, in which they might be placed during long continued rains. Fresh water should be supplied in shallow troughs twice a day to the inmates of both apartments of the yard, and there should be in each yard a small heap of ashes as a preventive of vermin. As the season for hatching arrives too much preparation cannot be made.—Home and Fireside.

The Fly That Attacks Peas.

The growing of peas for canning purposes has greatly increased since the invention of the viner, a machine for hulling peas. Now grown in many places by hundreds of acres, peas are cut with a mowing machine, raked up in windrows, loaded on wagons and run through the viner like wheat through a thrashing machine. One grower in Wisconsin last year had 2,400 acres. Before the advent of the machine it would have been impossible to have handled the product of so large an acreage for canning purposes. Individual growers having from 100 to 600 acres throughout the southern and central states are not uncommon. The appearance of the green fly, the insect which completely ruined 1,100 acres for one person two years ago, has been a serious factor recently. Various methods have been suggested for its control. The brush and pan method is quite extensively used in some places for catching and destroying the insects. Such an outfit was used on the farm of Salsbury Bros. of Maryland two years ago.

Ashes and Salt For Swine.

I have been in the hog business for the past thirty-three years, and it has always been my practice to try to keep salt and ashes where my hogs could help themselves, says L. L. Frost. I think one part salt to nine parts ashes about the right mixture. I have sometimes burned old rags, corn cobs, etc., until thoroughly charred, then salt it slightly and throw water on it and let the hogs eat the charcoal. I practice this only when feeding hogs for the market. I have never seen any bad results from feeding ashes to hogs, but think the best way is to keep them where the hogs can help themselves at all times.

Don't Lose Your Head.

In the matter of crop area, the tendency this season is to go beyond conservative limits, particularly in the specialties, such as field beans and onions in the east and flaxseed in the northwest. High prices sometimes cause the generally conservative farmer to lose his head. Don't expect to make a fortune out of a field of onions unless you follow up to date methods in cultivating and handling this crop. Little danger, however, of growing too much field corn.

The Three D's.

"Down in Greensboro," said a citizen at that North Carolina town, "I know three drummers." They seemed to be three drummers. The first one traveled for a large brewing company in Baltimore, and the second represented a wholesale drugstore in the west. These two men, while going through the south, fell in with a man who was selling cologne to undertakers in the country towns. When the trio reached Greensboro to spend Sunday—you know all the drummers come into Greensboro to spend Sunday—they had already been christened the Three D's—Drinks, Drugs and Death.—New York Press.

A Royal Tragedy.

Frederick I. of Prussia was killed by fear. His wife was insane, and one day she escaped from her keepers and, dabbling her clothes in blood, rushed upon her husband while he was dozing in his chair. King Frederick imagined her to be the white lady whose ghost was believed to appear whenever the death of a member of the royal family was to occur, and he was thrown into a fever and died in six weeks.

Very Likely.

Sister Sue—In my new play, Mr. Daniels, the hero and the villain are to fight a duel.

Daniels—And who will get the worst of it?

Brother Tom—The audience.—New York Times.

Entirely Different.

"It's all very well before a girl's married for her to get a flower in her hair," remarked the observer of events and things, "but it's an entirely different matter if, after she's married, she sets her hair in the hair."

CANCEROUS ULCERS

Are in many respects like other ulcers or sores, and this resemblance often proves fatal. Valuable time is lost in fruitless efforts to heal the sore with washes and salves, because the germ of Cancer that is multiplying in the blood and the new Cancer cells which are constantly developing keep up the irritation and discharge, and at last sharp shooting pains announce the approach of the eating and sloughing stage, and a hideous, sickening cancerous sore begins its destructive work.

No ulcer or sore can exist without some predisposing internal cause that has poisoned the blood, and the open discharging ulcer, or the festering sore on the lip, cheek or other part of the body will continue to spread and eat deeper into the flesh unless the blood is purified and the Cancer germs or morbid matter eliminated from the circulation.

S. S. S. cleanses the blood of all decaying effete matter. It has great antitoxic and purifying properties that soon destroy the germs and poisons and restore the blood to its natural condition. And when pure blood is begun, the discharge ceases and the place heals over and new skin forms. S. S. S. is a strictly vegetable blood purifier containing no mercury or minerals of any description.

● If you have an ulcer or chronic sore of any kind, write us about it, medical advice will cost you nothing. Books on Cancer and all diseases of the blood will be sent free.

Diminutive Armies.

In the heart of the Pyrenees there is a microscopic state, known as the Andorra republic, which maintains its independence among the formidable giants of Europe that surround it on all sides. Its normal suzerain is a bishop, and it has an army of 600 stalwart mountaineers, ready at any moment to die for their national dignity and independence. There is something quite pathetic in the spectacle of this handful of men drilling and strutting in their mountain fastnesses, while on one side is Spain, which can produce 1,000 soldiers against one of the republic, and on the other the army of France, which outnumber them by nearly 6,000 to one.

A still more diminutive army is that which nominally protects the dominion of the Prince of Monaco. As the principality is little more than a dozen times the size of Hyde park, it is not surprising that the soldiers who guard it only number 126 or that their duties are chiefly confined to making a brave show in their uniform and having a good time generally.

Popular Weathers Notions.

How often do we hear the remark, "We shall have rain, the atmosphere is so heavy." The reverse is true. When one sees smoke hanging from a chimney, with a tendency to sink to the ground, it indicates that the atmosphere is light—in fact, too light to float the smoke. When the smoke rises from the chimney, it indicates a heavy atmosphere. A column of smoke is not a bad barometer, for a barometer simply records the pressure of the atmosphere. When the atmosphere is light and the smoke settles, the pressure on the mercury is light, and the column falls, indicating storm. When the atmosphere is heavy and the smoke rises, the pressure is greater and the column rises, indicating fair weather. Pleasure seekers and others before starting out should therefore watch the smoke.

About Your Health.

Do not wait any longer to put in Window Screens and Screen Doors. Your house will be infested with insects and flies, carrying germs of disease which may cost you your health and heavy doctors bills, and perhaps your life.

It will not only be a comfort but is an absolute necessity that you screen yourself against these enemies of health.

We can fit windows and doors of any size and at prices within the reach of all.
