OLD MAYAN SCULPTORS.

How They Carved the Great Monuments of Prehistoric America.

Many persons have wondered at the excellence of the carving which ornaments the prehistoric monuments that lie scattered and in ruins over a large part of Mexico and Central America, especially since it is known that the ancient peoples who erected them were unacquainted with the use of iron and had only roughly shaped tools of obdian to work with. Mr. George B. Gordon of the Peabody museum at Harvard, however, who has spent a large part of the last ten years in studying the remarkable ruins of the prehistoric Maya city of Copan, in Honduras, and who has given particular attention to the methods of the ancient sculptors, has brought forward a number of facts which seem to throw light upon a question that has long interested the archaeologist.

In his recent report on the great hieroglyphic stairway, which is one of the chief features of Copan, Mr. Gordon points out that, contrary to the methods of our modern work, it is probable that the elaborate carving of the stairway was done not before, but after the various blocks of stone had been set in place. In illustration Mr. Gordon cites the careful copying two or more blocks of stone is fitted together, often with a skill which would do credit to the most up to date stonecutters.

The hieroglyphic stairway takes its name from a series of "glyphs," or picture writings, which run all the way along the face of the steps. Here, Mr. Gordon notes, the carvings are very perfect and regular until one reaches the ends of the stairs, where the balustrades apparently interfered with the freedom of the workmen, and the carving, therefore, is distinctly inferior, a fact which apparently proves Mr. Gordon's contention conclusively, since if the glyphs had been cut before the steps were laid no such irregularity would be noticeable.

The stone used at Copan is a variety of trachyte and was brought from the hills surrounding the valley in which the city of Copan was built. It is a rather soft material and correspondingly easy to carve, but weathers easily. The Mayan sculptor, however, got over this difficulty by covering his carvings with a layer of stucco, which could be more perfectly modeled when soft and which soon hardened into a surface which was afterward richly colored in accordance with the character of the design.

SCROFULA

I bequeath to my children Scrofula with all its attendant horrors, humiliation and suffering. This is a strange legacy to leave to posterity; a heavy burden to place upon the shoulders of the young.

This treacherous disease dwarfs the body and hinders the growth and development of the faculties, and the child born of blood poison, or scrofula-tainted parentage, is poorly equipped for life's duties.

Scrofula is a disease with numerous and varied symptoms; enlarged glands or tumors about the neck and armpits, catarrh of the head, weak eyes and dreadful skin eruptions upon different parts of the body show the presence of tubercular or scrofulous matter in the blood. This dangerous and stealthy disease entrenches itself securely in the system and attacks the bones and tissues, destroys the red corpuscles of the blood, resulting in white swelling, a pallid, waxy appearance of the skin, loss of strength and a gradual wasting away of the body.

S. S. S. combines both purifying and tonic properties, and is guaranteed entirely vegetable, making it the ideal remedy in all scrofulous affections. It purifies the deteriorated blood, makes it rich and strong and a complete and permanent cure is soon effected. S. S. S. improves the digestion and assimilation of food, restores the lost properties to the blood and quickens the circulation, bringing a healthy color to the skin and vigor to the weak and emaciated body.

Write us about your case and our physicians will cheerfully advise and help you in every possible way to regain your health. Book on blood and skin diseases free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

A Good Cough Medicine.

It speaks well for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy when druggists use it in their own families in preference to any other. "I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for the past five years with complete satisfaction to myself and customers," says Druggist J. Goldsmith, Van Etten, N. Y. Death of Clark Whitford.

We are pained to learn of the death of an old New Bern citizen, Clark Whitford, son of Col. John D. Whitford, of this city, which occurred in Pine Valley, Miss., Monday, June 3. He was 42 years of age and though absent from New Bern for twenty years his boyhood and youth were spent here and he will doubtless be fondly remembered by his old school mates and friends for his cheerful and jovial disposition for which he was always deservedly popular.

We publish an extract from the Coffeeville, (Miss.) paper, concerning him: "The sudden death of Olcott Clark Whitford, which occurred Monday evening, comes as a painful surprise to the people throughout the county. He and his family were at Pine Valley with Dr. M. W. Jackson for a few days' rest. While Dr. Jackson was away from home Mr. Whitford became very sick, and was too near death's door when the doctor returned for medical aid to revive him. He told some of his friends that he believed his time was near, and had prepared himself to go."

The Water Valley (Miss.) Progress also contains the following complimentary notice: "Our people were much shocked Monday by a telephone message from Pine Valley announcing the death of Circuit Clerk Clark Whitford that afternoon at 4 o'clock."

Mr. Whitford had been in bad physical condition for several weeks, but his friends were not alarmed and his condition was not regarded as in any way serious. He was in the city Sunday, spent the morning with his friends down town, and in the afternoon drove out to Pine Valley. His sudden end was due to heart failure.

Clark Whitford was a genius in a way; an clever fellow as ever lived, a great reader and original thinker, possessing a keen sense of humor, bright in conversation and quick at repartee. He made friends easily, and was a man of strong affections and high prejudices.

The remains were brought to his home in this city Tuesday morning and interred the same afternoon at Oak Hill cemetery, Rev. Mr. Wortham officiating in the services.

He leaves a widow and several small children, who have the sympathies of a large circle of friends."

Wood's "Trade Mark Brand" German Millet

is the true large-headed sort, and produces from one-fourth to one-half more forage per acre than the ordinary Millet. The difference in yields from different grades of Millet is more marked than any crop we have ever grown, and it is a great deal the cheapest—crop results considered—to purchase the best quality of seed that you can obtain; this you can always be assured of doing when you order Wood's "Trade Mark Brand" of Southern-grown German Millet.

Write for prices and Descriptive Circular which also gives full information about all Seasonable Seeds, Cow Peas, Soya and Velvet Beans, Potatoes, Sorghums, Buckwheat, Late Seed Potatoes, etc.
