

RALEIGH.Democratic Primaries in Wake County and Raleigh.*Contract Let For Railroad From Rutherfordton to Asheville, Federal Prisoners Want a Holiday July 4, Interesting Story of Henry Wilton.

RALEIGH, June 21.—Last Monday your correspondent gave the first news of the building of a railway from Rutherfordton to Asheville and also to Columbus, Polk county. George F. Canis, formerly of New York, now of Baltimore, will build this road. His wife is a North Carolinian and he becomes a resident of this State. This road will traverse the noted Hickory Nut Gap, at an average elevation of 200 feet above Broad River. There will be very friendly relations with the Seaboard Air-Line. The motive power through Hickory Nut Gap may be electricity. There is ample water-power to generate this.

The Democratic primaries for the higher offices were held in this city and county today. One of the most interesting features was the contest between H. G. Conner and judge G. H. Brown for the judicial nomination. This rather over-shadowed all the other issues.

Rev. A. McQuillen arrived here today to preach the annual sermon tomorrow before the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal church in North Carolina.

The State Dental Society today closed its three days session, and elected officers.

The six federal prisoners in jail at Whiteville petition Judge Parnell to give them a holiday July 4. They say they want to celebrate the day.

Henry Wilton, who during President Andrew Jackson's administration was a mail carrier here, was buried today by the Masons. He was for many years a master car decorator in the Seaboard Air-Line shops here. For years he had lived alone. He had $470 in gold hidden in his house. Two months ago it was stolen. Gov. Aycock appoints 20 delegates, all from the western part of the State, to the annual convention of the International Miners Association at Butte, Montana.

As well as everybody else, need some good liver medicine occasionally. BRADHAM'S ANTIBILIOUS LIVER PILLS "cleanse the liver, cool the blood and ease the head," without gripping or danger of salivation—note this—these pills are purely vegetable and serve their purpose as well as if they contained some injurious mineral drug. Box of 20 for 25c—135 doses. Mfg. and sold at Bradham's Pharmacy.

THOSE BRIGHT TOTS.

A Batch of Funny Things Said by the Little Ones.

"I think the man in the moon must be sick," said little Fred one dark night.

"Why, dear?" asked his mother.

"Cause," replied the youthful observer, "he didn't light up tonight."

"How would you like to be president of the United States, Johnnie?" asked the visitor of a bright five-year-old.

"Well," replied the little fellow, "I might take the job after I get too old to be a baseball pitcher."

Small Tommie (at dinner)—Mamma, check me a piece of bread, will you? Mamma (shooked)—Why, Tommie, is that the way to ask for it?

Small Tommie—Well, then, please check me a piece of bread.

Little Nellie—Uncle Will said the other day that he was as happy as a lark. Do you suppose a lark is very happy?

Little Robert—I should say not. Why, I read in a book that a lark gets up before sunrise every morning.—Chicago News.

The Unimportant Quantity.

"You have been with that firm a long time," said the old school friend.

"Yes," answered the man with the patient expression of countenance.

"What's your position?"

"I'm an employe."

"But haven't any official title?"

"I haven't any official title. It's like this: When the proprietor wants something done he tells the cashier, and the cashier tells the bookkeeper, and the bookkeeper tells the assistant bookkeeper, and the assistant bookkeeper tells the chief clerk, and the chief clerk tells me."

"And what then?"

"Well, I haven't anybody to tell, so I have to go and do it."—Washington Star.

Quite Satisfactory.

"What do you think of my new shirt waist, Clarence?" asked Anabella.

"There's something in it I like very much," replied Clarence, after a critical inspection.

"Oh, I'm so glad! What is it?"

"You."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Two thousand Democrats gathered at the Tilden Club in New York city and listened to speeches by Hon. Grover Cleveland and David B. Hill. The meeting was enthusiastic and harmonious.

The electric power company which owns the Buckhorn falls, on the Cape Fear river, southwest of Raleigh, is building its canal. As yet only the earth work is being done.

The new memorial library at Trinity College is completed. A number of Raleigh men have been at work there and say it is the finest building in the State.

The Inter-State shoot at clay pigeons will take place here Wednesday and Thursday. Many States will be represented. Some of the best shots in North Carolina will participate. There will be 10 regular events each day. Much money is up in the way of purses.

The State Liquor Dealers Association meets here tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. Its sessions will be of course not open to the public. It is said there are now over 2500 members, though no figures are given out. In 1894 it had 850 and since then bartenders, clerks distillers and wine makers have been taken in. There will be 2 or 3 delegates from each local association. All the cities, towns and counties are represented, even if they are under "prohibition" or "dispensary" laws. The association will be in politics support those who are friendly to its interests.

The trustees of the Oxford Orphan Asylum met at Durham this evening and tomorrow go to Oxford. It will be St. John's Day and the General Lodge of Masons meets there. Superintendent W. J. Hicks, who has been quite sick, is now better. Addition will be made as to the sale of property in Minneapolis, bequeathed to the orphanage. For this property an offer is made.

It is in a casket of cedar and glass, so that out of it can be seen from the top and sides. This casket was made by Matthews son-in-law. A vault will be built for it. Until then it will be at the undertakers to which place it was taken after the services at the church.

FACTS FROM FRANCE.

The automobile maitre has "caught on" in France and is gradually to oust the horse driven vehicle.

The city of Rouen, France, has 210 establishments where washing and ironing are done by hand and not a single steam laundry.

In France neither medical men nor pharmaceutical chemists have any legal right to receive a legacy from their patients or customers.

The French legislature recently voted a law prohibiting the use of saccharine and all other artificial sweetening, with the exception of such kindred substances as are used in pharmacies.

No more second hand corsets may be sold in Paris, as the public health committee has discovered that such articles are being collected from all sorts of undesirable places by ragpickers who after a more or less perfunctory cleansing dispose of them to the dealers.

An interesting bit of old Paris is doomed to disappear to make way for a huge building to be let out in flats. No. 17 Rue Beaufreuil, with its garden, covered a portion of the former cemetery of St. Paul, where Rabelais, Mollere's wife and the Man With the Iron Mask were buried.
