Again, it is shown that, while it is hoped to ultimately reclaim a great tract of western land, the process must under the most favorable conditions to the west be very slow. Again, it is shown that the surplus products of irrigation will go in the fu-ture, as they do now, to the orient instead of coming east to compete with eastern farmers.—Guy E. Mitchell in ennessee Farmer.

The Beetle and the Scale.

We are not so sanguine as some of our contemporaries that the recent imported lady beetles from China, which are said to have cost the government about $2,000 apiece, will clean out from our orchards the notorious San Jose scale. At the same time we are hopeful that this little natural enemy may be a factor in reducing the ravages of the pest. Fruit growers should not place too much confidence in the cannabalistic propensities of this animal and should leave nothing undone from the practical standpoint to protect their orchards. At the same time, wherever it is possible this sort of experimenta-tion should be encouraged by fruit growers and others. It is a well known fact that in many cases natural agencies are responsible for the reduction and suppression of many outbreaks of destructive insects and other animals. If the Chinese beetle will live and thrive in orchards scattered over our diversified country under the varying climatic conditions and tend to keep San Jose scale in check, the price paid for its introduction will be insignificant as compared with the great benefits derived later.—American Agricul-

Saving Middlemen's Tolls.

The success of the farmers' elevator movement in the west is thoroughly established. In Kansas alone son eighty are in operation, and grain growers as a rule are highly pleased with the saving in tolls. This is usually 1 to 2 cents per bushel and not infrequently 3 to 4 cents, forming a snug sum in the aggregate to be turned back into the pockets of the farmers instead of going to city middlemen and their country agents. The chief drawback in enlarging the scope of the farmers' elevator is the lack of co-op erative spirit among farmers. In work ing together much can be accomplished in marketing grain or other farm produce to best advantage and also in purchasing supplies. In the eastern states truck farmers in various sections group themselves into local organizations and buy fertilizers, tools, nachinery, etc., in large quantities at considerable saving.-Farm and Home.

CRAVEN'S REPRESENTATIVE.

Withdrawal of Wm. B. Lanc In Favor Owen H. Guion. Their Public Cards.

To the Democrats of Craven county.

Having been reliably informed that Mr. Owen H. Guion has publicly declared that under no circumstance would he offer himself for the Legislature as the candidate of any particular interest, but that he would accept the comination if it was tendered him by the whole party and run as the unbiased andidate of the Democratic party of Craven county, and that he would set in harmony with the county executive committee, I have, after mature consideration and consultation with those of my many friends who have been most active in urging me to offer myself for the suffrages of the good people of Craven county as their representative n the next General Assembly, concluded that a cessation of factional differences can't be irrigated. This would not be with their attendant heart burnings, mis trusts and unkindly feelings, succeeded by harmonious and friendly action in all matters political would be of vastly more importance to every material interest of Craven county and her people than the wishes and ambitions of any one man, and believing therefore, that the declaration of Mr Guion, as stated above are those of an honorable man, and that they will not only be faithfully observed but that they offer what seems to be an opportunity to heal the differences which for years have worked great deriment to the interests of our people, I hereby withdraw as a candidate in favor of Mr. Guion and tender him not only my own, but bespeak for him the loyal support of my good friends whose assurances of my successful candidacy I had not the slightest reason to doubt To my friends and especially to those whose advice I have not had the opportunity to obtain in arriving at the conclusion stated above, I return my sincere thanks and beg to assure them of my lasting appreciation of their kindness and consideration in proposing to honor me with their suffrages for a seat in the next General Assembly. August 12, 1902.

I have read the card of withdrawal of Mr. Lane and highly appreciate his patriotism, and cordially endorse his sentiments and also am grateful for his kind words in reference to myself. I hope my course in the House of Repre-

UNCOOKED FOOD.

Human Sickness Said to Be Largely Due to the Kitchen The advocates of uncooked food say that, however well the cooking is done. ft ought not to be done at all. They claim that the minute cells which go to make up the organization of the texture to be eaten should not be broken up by culinary processes, that they should go into the stomach as natur intended them-raw and ready for di-

They notice that animals, which seldom ent cooked food, are a hundred times less likely to be sick than men and women, that an invalid brute is rarity, while more or less ailing human beings are in every neighborhood.

One physician who has adopted this method of eating altogether and is advising and teaching others to do so claims to have learned a lesson from his horses. "While I was growing more and more sickly," he avers, "and 'running down' rapidly my horses were sleek, fat and as healthy as ever. I at iast made up my mind to eat the same kind of things that they did and have since been as healthy as they."

There can be no doubt that a great deal of disease is caused by eating the wrong thing and often too much even of the right thing. The product of nature's laboratory are probably as nearly right as she can make them, but when "civilization" gets its hand in they run at least a risk of being spoiled ever pleasant to the palate.

In the first place, they are often adulterated, even before they get to the cook. In order to preserve them or to make them more attractive in appear ance or pleasing to the taste and at any rate more profitable to the money till the dealer is tempted to "doctor" them with various products of the drugstore and by other means of which the consumer has no idea.

The advocates of this plan of eating claim that undue stimulus does not lurk in liquids alone and that cooking often makes food so stimulating to the human system as to produce a bad state of the nerves. They abjure the free use of salt, pepper and other substances used as "relishes," claiming that the same are little better than poson. They designate all sorts of mental and physical aliments as having been produced by cooked food .- "Uncooked Food Movement" in Will Carlon's Magazine.
