

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Beats the Unconquered. Dr. F. W. Reitz, former state secretary of the Transvaal, who is soon to visit this country, is as bitterly opposed to English rule in South Africa as he was during the war. Some months ago he said, "When I return to South Africa, it will be with a gun on his shoulder." The other day in Paris he said: "I will never take the oath of allegiance to Great Britain. I would not swear allegiance to the British flag to save my wife and children from starvation." Speaking of his proposed visit to the United States, he said, "I am going to America to tell the American people of the inhuman treatment which our women and children received at the hands of the English."

DR. F. W. REITZ

Told of Justice Gray.

The retirement of Justice Gray of the United States supreme court has furnished a text for many reminiscences of his earlier days. While he was a member of the supreme court of Massachusetts he had an amusing experience with a certain Boston lawyer, an exceedingly pious man with a taste for evangelization, who had his letter-headers printed with a verse from Scripture in large type following the name and address. On one occasion, having to make an ex parte preliminary argument before Justice Gray in chambers in which it would be necessary to disclose certain parts of his client's case which he desired not to make generally public until the trial, he wrote the judge a note, asking that he be allowed an opportunity to speak to him in private. He was somewhat chagrined when his note came back to him with a scrawl across the bottom, "Request denied, with a suggestion from the court that counsel base future petitions on a more appropriate citation."

For a moment he could not make out the meaning of this, as he was not aware that he had quoted any law; but, glancing up the page, he discovered that he had written his note on a letterhead bearing this text: "Ye are bought with a price."

Quay and the Postmistress.

Mrs. Lizzie Baldwin of Canton, Miss., owes her position as postmistress of that town to Senator Quay of Pennsylvania, who secured her appointment from President McKinley four years ago and induced President Roosevelt to reappoint her a short time since. It is not generally known, however, that Senator Quay's interest in this particular Mississippi postoffice dates back a great many years. It seems that the senator upon completing his school life bought a magic lantern and started south, giving exhibitions in the hope that he would build the foundation of a large fortune. Arriving at Canton, Miss., he was taken ill, and his "show" was stranded. The family of Mrs. Baldwin, with true southern hospitality, looked after young Quay, and Senator Quay never forgot this act of kindness. The failure of his magic lantern exhibition resulted in the first appointment of Mrs. Baldwin as postmistress and is likely to continue her in the position as long as the Pennsylvania senator has any influence at the White House.

She Abandons Hatched Plan.

sylvia, and at Stroudsburg the other evening she said: "I'm not smashing saloons now; I'm smashing the cause. I used to think that it was the right thing to smash the saloons. I know better now. All the saloon men are not bad. There are some worse men in the churches."

Mrs. Nation attempted to speak at the fair in Stroudsburg, but she was so annoyed by young men who threw pennies at her that she gave up making a speech.

is made from the newest cut in bishop sleeves. Covert cloth, homespun, broadcloth, serge or silk, trimmed with fancy gimp, braid frogs and stitching, would develop a handsome jacket.—New York Evening Journal.

Satin and Brocades.

Next to the sumptuous yellow satins, moires and brocades that rank prominently among the evening textiles to be worn for two seasons to come the beautiful rose tints stand supreme. In dancing toilets of silk or satin draped with lace and trimmed with satin ribbons a soft pink glow imparts an exquisite glow to the complexion. Many of the French toilets in cameo, orchid or seashell pink and pink alone are of chiffon or mousseline de soie over tulle or penna de cygne of a deeper shade. Other toilets are mixed or delicately toned with reseda or sea green, palest mauve or honey-suckle yellow and also a certain very beautiful faint shade of fawn color.—New York Post.

Skirts of Simple Cut.

The most graceful skirt is still the one severely simple in cut. The lines are long and flowing, a judicious shaping of the bottom producing the requisite foot flare. Sometimes the flare is made by the deep flounce seen this long while, but the newer method achieves it with the skirt cut alone. A concession to novelty, for fair woman must have some change, is to outline a hip yoke with several rows of stitching which extend down the almost straight apron zone. With this decoration a graduated flounce is often simulated by the stitching, which if it is in the color of the gown and well done is very handsome.

Coat For Schoolgirl.

The illustration shows the latest design for traveling or school wear. Although severe in its outlines, it is not only practical, but very becoming to a girlish figure. It is extremely easy of construction, being cut in sack shape and the only decoration needed being machine stitching. The sleeves are two piece, with stylish face cuffs. Broadcloth, cheviot, satin faced and box cloth in shades of dark, blue or black will make a serviceable garment, with lining of plain satin in a harmonious color or in black.

Beaver Hats This Winter.

The woolly beaver of last winter is with us once more, but it is now more shaped and less graceful than last year. Then its broad brim drooped at its own sweet will, forming becoming curves over the face. Now the crown is crushed in, dented, crumpled and otherwise tortured, and the brim is caught up in plaits or pushed up by bows of ribbon placed beneath it. White is the favorite beaver, as it was last winter, but deep creamy shades look well with ribbon and velvet of oriental colors.

Walking Skirts Are Short.

New walking skirts are made short enough for easy walking, but the flare about the bottom is much exaggerated. New coats to go with them are lined with figured silk of soft finish. Norfolk and tight fitting jackets are also mated with walking skirts.

IN MEMORIAM.

Ethel Carleton Rogers, daughter of J. P. Rogers and wife, Sallie A. Rogers, Swansboro N. C.

Nov. 6, 1900.

Sept. 27, 1902.

Our precious gift from heaven, so soon hath God called home; We know 'tis love's command, that sends the summons, "Come." We know the home in heaven is fairer than this earth,— There, deeper joy is given, and life hath higher worth, And yet, our hearts are sore; we bear our loss with pain; Our grief would fain implore to hold our loved again.

So pleasant was the light God lent us in his child, So peaceful, pure and bright, her spirit's sunshine smiled. We sadly miss its cheer, and shadow shrouds our way; We grieve with blinding tear, and yearn for happier day.

Yet, God, Our Father good, who marks the sparrow's fall— Our loss hath understood, He leads our sorrow's call. He speaks, with tender love, to comfort, bless, and cheer; We lift our hearts above, and feel that God is near.

For, life in earth and heaven are both in house of God. Love's ties are never riven, though forms lie 'neath the sod.

O, Comforter Eternal, on Thee our hearts shall rest,— Thou givest life immortal; thy will, not ours, is best.

Bless unto us our sorrow; make thou our lives more pure, More worthy thy tomorrow, that wait— eternal, sure. Grant us that sweet communion the spirit— life may know, That blends the life in heaven with life on earth below.

Nearer, O Heavenly Father, nearer my God, to Thee, Our chastened hearts shall gather, in life's dark mystery, Nearer to Thee, O Father, in thought, in word and deed, Nearer thy love, forever, our little child shall lead.

EMILY F. CARLETON, North Andover, Mass.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, It has pleased the Grand Master of the Universe to remove from our midst, our brother Joseph A. Paris, and while we bow in humble submission to His supreme will, and that we are thankful for the example left us by him, who has gone to membership in the Supreme Lodge above, we desire to express our heartfelt thanks for his example, and to express our appreciation for having enjoyed his sympathy, his love and his fraternal feeling. Therefore be it Resolved, By Eureka Lodge No. 7 that we extend to our beloved brother's deceased family, our sincerest and warmest sympathy in this their bereavement, and point them to the the glorious life which he left as the most precious heritage which he could bestow upon them.

Resolved that a page of our records be set aside as a memorial page to his memory, and that the usual badge of mourning be placed in our Lodge Rooms.

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to his widow, and published in the New Bern Journal.

The play is said to be intense, sensational and very interesting. It will be presented with special scenery and many electric novelties and effects.

The city electric light and fire alarm wires crossed somewhere and the result was a frenzied ringling of the fire bell about seven o'clock last night.

Registration in the city is progressing finely. Reports from the first and second wards give promise of a full vote. Every voter should see to it that he is registered.

Tobacco keeps coming in large quantities to the New Bern market. There was as large a quantity bought here last week as at any previous week and the prices were good.

Oysters on the North Carolina Coast are scarce and of a very poor quality. Dealers are alarmed over the prospect of a failure in the supply. The firm of G. N. Ives and Son say that the quality has not been so poor for years.

Col. P. M. Pearsall who has been in city for several days on private business also on the matter of registering his name to vote, said to the Journal, that New Bern had a prosperous look that buildings were going up and that the streets looked alive with people. This is decidedly encouraging coming from Col. Pearsall, even though he is a New Bernian.

Foot Ball.

Those interested in the organization of a foot ball team are requested to meet at the Armory tomorrow (Wednesday) night at 8 o'clock.

There is excellent material for a team in this city and there is no reason why the city should not support a good winning team.

Modern Life in Paris.

Much success has greeted Chas W. Chase's adaptation of Marie Corelli's famous novel "Wormwood, or The Absinthe Drinkers of Paris" which will be presented at the Masonic Opera House on Monday, October 20th. It is everywhere described as a wonderful production, finely staged and magnificently acted. Concerning the drama, Marie Corelli, writing from Lake Lemano, Switzerland, says, "Wormwood is a true phase of modern life in Paris, one scene out of the countless tragedies that take place every day and everywhere in these, our present times. There is no necessity to invent fables nowadays—the fictionist need never torture his brain for stories either of adventure or spectral horror. Life itself is so amazing, swift, varied, terrible and withal, so wildly inconsistent and changeful that all I have had to do for plot and character in "Wormwood" has been to closely and patiently observe men and women as they are, not as they seem in Paris, and then take a pen in hand and write the truth.

Certain it is that of all her popular novels "Wormwood" is by far the most intensely dramatic and the adaptor is said out of this material to have constructed a play which has few equals on the stage today.

Closing Remarks.

The Carnival had a quiet day yesterday. Some wind and some rain made it unpleasant and the visitors did not appear till late.

A brisk trade was worked up in the middle of the afternoon and the merry go round, bicycle race and plantation scene were well patronized.

The merry go rounds were popular even some of the old children seemed to enjoy a ride on them.

The Elks desire to thank every body for their kind assistance in making the Carnival a success.

REPORT ON COTTON.

A New Feature To Secure Quickly Accurate Statistics of the Cotton Crop.

Mr. J. E. Latham of New Bern has been appointed a local special agent of the Census Office to collect cotton-ginning statistics for this county, and we join the Government in urging the ginners to give Mr. Latham their hearty support and cooperation, thus enabling him to make prompt and accurate returns. We would impress upon the ginners the fact that this agent is a sworn officer of the Government, and that their reports, are forwarded as given to him directly to the Census Office, at Washington, without passing through the hands of any middlemen. The information given is held as strictly confidential, and the operations of individual ginners are not divulged. Upon the joint cooperation of the cotton growers, ginners, and local agents must depend the success of the Census Office in this inquiry, and its ability to render this great service to the Southern people and to all interested in the cotton staple.

The Census Office has demonstrated in three annual reports, the fact that the ginners are the only reliable source of information as to the volume of the annual cotton crop. This is very complementary to the ginners, who, no doubt, will feel a pride in sustaining the reputation earned.

In recognition of this interest shown by the ginners, and of a general demand for more frequent reports through this source, Congress, in the act creating a permanent census office, provided for the collection and publication of these statistics at intervals during the ginning season. For the crop of 1902 the office will issue three reports: the first two will cover the quantity of cotton ginned up to and including October 18 and December 15, respectively; and the final report will cover the total quantity ginned from the growth of 1902.

Realizing that the collection of the data for these reports is made at a season when the ginners' time is greatly taxed, and appreciating the necessity for prompt returns, the Census Office has located, in each county containing ten or more ginners, an agent, who will visit each ginney in the county and secure a report of the quantity of cotton ginned up to certain dates. In undertaking the frequent and hurried reports now sought, it is of vital importance that the returns be made with absolute uniformity, and that all be received at Washington at one time.
