FISH THIEVES CAUGHT.
 Pursued by Men With Guns and Captured.
 Fishermen down the river have been bothered a good deal lately by poachers stealing their fish and either stealing the nets or destroying them—and they determined to discover the persons whose wantonness should cause them to commit such acts.
 Messrs. Broder, Robinson and Freeman fishermen, living near Dawson's Creek see the victims of the depredations and they laid for them on Sunday night. The men succeeded themselves until they caught the thieves red handed stealing the fish and destroying the nets. As they advanced on the thieves they pulled off and attempted to escape, but when they saw that they were in the range of two or three good guns they surrendered and submitted to arrest.
 The prisoners were three negroes and a white man. After reaching the land, two of the negroes and the white man gave them the slip but the other prisoner is in jail in Pauline, and is said to have made full confession, implicating his pals. It is believed the others will soon be caught.
 The looking and destroying of fish nets has been practiced by pirates for a long time and there needs to be the exercise of the law in these matters. Fishermen should unite in their efforts to bring these offenders to justice.

Fine Performance Promised.
 Chas. W. Chase's dramatic version of "Wormwood, or The Absinthe Drinkers of Paris," the master work of Marie Corelli, the English romanticist, which will be produced at the Opera House on next Monday night must rank as one of the most important productions of the season. The wonderful popularity of the book, the strength of the cast which is to enact the play, the promise of a splendid setting for the actors to play in and the general interest in the dramatization of a novel which has excited so much comment, all tend to make this an event. Manager Aiden Benedict has spared no expense in putting the drama on the stage and one of the best performances seen here in years is promised.

A HANDSOME BOAT.
 The Yawl "Fanny" Now Anchored in New Bern Waters.
 One of the prettiest boats that have ever come to New Bern is the yawl "Fanny" which is anchored at the foot of Middle street. It is suitable for social sailing parties, hunting parties or a long ocean cruise may be taken in it with ease and safety.
 The JOURNAL reporter made the boat a visit yesterday and was met by Capt. McNett the owner, he is a gentleman who is a thorough sailor and a safe conductor on all water journeys.
 The boat is a beauty. It is built upon slightly lines which do not interfere with its speed. It was built as a yacht and has been victor in several races which the silver trophies on board attest. Her speed is from 10 to 14 knots an hour.
 The furnishings of the boat are complete and one can but admire it as he goes through it to see the admirable appointments.
 The boat measures 76 feet long or 80 feet over all, 35 feet beam; a centre board 21 feet long, 9 feet wide and weighs a ton. She has two masts.
 In the cabin are six staterooms with all necessary appointments, the kitchen is a model for culinary purposes, a good larder and a pantry stocked with fine china. An ice box and repository for liquid refreshments altogether make it a splendid boat to secure for a season of pleasure.
 Capt. McNett has always at his command the best of crews to assist him and he can assure any person an enjoyable time who ships with him. The boat can accommodate a large party of voyagers.
 Capt. McNett is at liberty to take any party on a sail. His terms are moderate, his service most excellent.

JERRY THE FOOL
 Redmond O'Hanlon, the highwayman, was especially fond of leying on landlords who were hard on their tenants. There was one of this class whom Redmond never lost an opportunity of taxing. Every quarter day this gentleman or one of his servants—sometimes more than one—used to take a journey of six or seven miles to collect his rents, and as regular as clockwork there was Redmond O'Hanlon, with some stout companion, if necessary, to wait at the collector as he returned home. So one quarter day, when the gentleman's servants asked him about going for the rents, he swore at O'Hanlon and said he didn't see the use of collecting money to hand it over to him.
 Now, this gentleman had on his estate a boy called "Jerry the Fool," who had the run of the house and made fun for the family. He had a great conceit for himself, and when he heard what the master said he immediately asked to be allowed to go after the rents for the once and declared he would know the way to bring them home. Of course he was only laughed at, but when he represented that no harm would come from trying, as he couldn't do worse than all who had gone before him, the master agreed to humor him. Upon that Jerry made such preparations as he thought suitable, chose the worst horse in the stable, an old hack-half blind and three-quarters lame, and started on his enterprise. Nothing, of course, on the way. He collected a considerable amount of money, carefully disposed of it about his person and started homeward.
 Toward evening, as he was quietly jogging along on the old hack and was just entering a long lane with high hedges on each side, a tall, fine looking man rode up to him on a handsome roan mare.
 "God save you, my man," says the gentleman.
 "God save your honor," replies Jerry.
 "What's your name, my man?" asks the gentleman.
 "Jerry the Fool, and I ain't ashamed of it. What's yours?"
 The gentleman took no notice of the question. After awhile he says, "That is a fine animal you're riding, Jerry."
 "Faith, I'm glad your honor likes it," said Jerry. "But it isn't myself that'd care to take a lease of his life. But he'd serve my turn anyway, for it's not in a hurry I'm traveling. I've only been to the village beyond to collect the master's rents for him."
 "Surely he's not such a fool as to trust you with that job?"
 "Arrah, why not?" asks Jerry in great surprise.
 "Why, don't you know that Redmond O'Hanlon is on this road?"
 "Redmond O'Hanlon, is it?" says Jerry. "I don't know that Redmond O'Hanlon," says he, snapping his finger. "Faix, Jerry the Fool is a match for half a dozen of the likes of him any day in the week and Sunday into the bargain."
 The stranger laughed and then rode on in silence till they came to a very lonely part of the road, when he drew a brace of pistols and told Jerry to hand over all the money he had about him or he'd try if he had any brains by sending a couple of bullets through his head.
 "Meals, murder!" roars Jerry in surprise and fright. "You don't mean to say your honor's Redmond O'Hanlon?"
 "I do indeed. So hand over, my man, and look sharp about it."
 "But, faith, it's kilt entirely by the master I'll be when I get home without the rent."
 "What's that to me?" said O'Hanlon.
 "Anyhow," said Jerry, "I must show them that I made a murdering fight for it. Perhaps your honor wouldn't mind firing a shot through my old beaver."
 O'Hanlon did so, laughing at the trick.
 "And now another through the breast of my coat, and heaven's blessing you." This was done. "Now, just one in the skirt of it, and good luck to your honor."
 "But I've discharged both my pistols and don't want the trouble of loading them again for you."
 "Faix, I should dearly like a shot through the skirts. It would show your honor hasn't another pistol in your pocket that you wouldn't mind firing for a poor boy's sake?"
 "Contented you'll be to see I haven't. Hand over the money or I'll beat you to jelly with my horsewhip."
 "Well," said Jerry after a good deal of fumbling, "I suppose, considering the trouble I've had in collecting these rents, your honor won't mind the little bother of going over the hedge after them."
 And he threw over a sack, apparently well filled with coin. Half laughing, half angry, the highwayman, first aiming at Jerry with his whip, which he avoided by ducking, dismounted and climbed over the hedge, and no sooner had he done so than Jerry slipped off the old hack and mounted O'Hanlon's horse.
 "Bad scan to you, Redmond O'Hanlon!" he bawled. "Didn't I tell you Jerry the Fool was a match for a dozen of you? It's a sack of brass buttons you've gone over the hedge after, you thief of the world!" And, touching the fine mare with the spur, he galloped off, singing the old melody, "Go to the mischief and shake yourself."

Rheumatism
 The liniment bottle and fannel strip are familiar objects in nearly every household. They are the weapons that have been used for generations to fight old Rheumatism; and are about as effective in the battle with this giant disease as the blunderbuss of our forefathers would be in modern warfare.
 Rheumatism is caused by an acid, sour condition of the blood. It is filled with acid, irritating matter that settles in the joints, muscles and nerves, and liniments and oils do nothing else applied externally can dislodge these gritty, corroding particles. They were deposited there by the blood and can be reached only through the blood. Rubbing with liniments sometimes relieves temporarily the aches and pains, but these are only symptoms which are liable to return with every change of the weather; the real disease lies deeper, the blood and system are infected. Rheumatism cannot be radically and permanently cured until the blood has been purified, and no remedy does this so thoroughly and promptly as S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and sends a stream of rich, strong blood to the affected parts, which dissolves and washes out all foreign materials, and the sufferer obtains happy relief from the torturing pains.
 S. S. S. contains no potash or other mineral, but is a perfect vegetable blood purifier and most exhilarating tonic. Our physicians will advise, without charge, all who write about their case, and we will send free our special book on Rheumatism and its treatment.

 BROWN EYES.

A YOUTHFUL THIEF.
 Policeman Lupton Does Some Good Detective Work.
 Credit is due police officer Lupton for a clever piece of detective work which brought to light the disappearance of a pocket-book containing twenty dollars. About two weeks ago a lady bought some vegetables from a small colored boy and shortly thereafter missed her pocket-book which contained the money and which had been lying within easy range of the boy's vision and reach.
 Not knowing the money for some time nor missing the boy, the lady described her loss as best she could to the police, and when they have kept up a search, but not until yesterday morning was the thief discovered when Mr. Lupton saw a boy cutting collars on Sugar Hill.
 It happened that the boy was selling collars at the time of the theft and as there are but few of these vegetables grown or sold and as the boy answered to the description given, Mr. Lupton suspected he was the culprit. He got the boy and after some talk the boy confessed all, surrendering the pocket-book containing four dollars.
 The boy was arrested but as his parents agreed to make good the loss the lady did not wish to prosecute. The boy is not more than ten years of age. He was bound over to the November term of Criminal court, but leniency will be used in his case on account of his youth and the fact that he confessed and the money was made good.

The Small Pox Situation.
 Last night the local small pox situation, in New Bern, could be summed up, so far as actual known cases of the disease, as one case, which on account of the patient's condition, previous to having the small pox, made it impossible to remove the woman.
 The county board of sanitations have added Dr. Charles Duffy and Dr. F. W. Hughes to the Sanitary committee, with full authority to act in any and every way which they may deem proper to protect this community.
 Every suspected case is given immediate attention, and every actual case is as soon removed to a place beyond the city.
 Compulsory vaccination continues and will be continued until every one is vaccinated.
 Since October 1st five actual cases of small pox have been found and cared for in this city, the cases being on the borders of the city, and all except one, colored.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.
 Colored Meetings Should Close.
 EDITOR JOURNAL.—While the white citizens are doing every thing that money and intelligence can dictate for the relief of those colored people who have small pox, and for the preservation of those who might get the disease, it seems to me that the colored people should assist in this matter themselves as much as possible.
 One thing I suggest is that there be no public gatherings of colored people, not even on Sunday's in their churches, until those in charge of the City's sanitation, Dr. Chas. Duffy and Dr. Frank Hughes, shall make declaration that such gatherings are not dangerous.
 It is the ounce of precaution that is most needed at present.

This is positively the largest and best show which has ever appeared here. This season Mr. Main presents only feature acts and the performances are ahead of anything given by a tented institution.
 The Main Show is now on a triumphal tour of the Southern States and wherever it has appeared the tents were not large enough to accommodate the crowds.
 The newspapers throughout the country have been unanimous in their praise of the show and not one adverse criticism has been written.
 It is a moral, entertaining and instructive institution and all should make it a point to attend either the afternoon or night exhibition.

Don't Treat Symptoms
 Go after the cause. Stimulants and cathartics will never cure indigestion. They temporarily relieve the system but the next meal clogs it again. The food should be digested. The nourishment—health—strength it contains should be appropriated—absorbed by the system.
Children Thrive on Kodol
 Purifies, cleanses, strengthens and sweetens the stomach. This new discovery digests all classes of food and assists the stomach and digestive organs in assimilating and transforming it into the kind of nourishment that is taken up by the blood and fed to the tissues throughout the various organs of the body. Kodol cures indigestion and dyspepsia, thus removing the cause of all stomach troubles. Kodol gives such strength to the body that it is invaluable in all wasting diseases.
 "I wish to thank you for when Kodol has done for me," writes Clifford Grove, Collins, Ind. "It cured me of dyspepsia after everything else had failed. When I tried Kodol it helped me right away. I certainly recommend it."
