Being met by their several hosts, the Daughters were greeted with most genuine hospitality, and upon arriving were presented with invitations to a reception at the home of the New Bern Chapter resident, Miss Mary T. Oliver. The house was a veritable bower most beautiful. Bamboo gracefully adorned the walls. On the stairways and everywhere were exquisite red and white roses, carnations and fetately chrysanthemums, mingled with which in tasteful draping were the large and beautiful chapter fing and hosts of tiny ones. After meeting the State: president and] her staff, we were ushered into the dining room, there our colors-the historic, red, white and red, were in evidence, even in the delicious cream and cake. This reception was only the foretaste of a perfect round of galety, for the next aight the the camp of New Bern tendered the Daughters a reception and dation which were each remarkable for the whole souledness of its efforts for the enjoyment of the guests. It was a touching spectacle to see the delight with which those aid soldiers tripped through the figures of the Virginia Roel, and indeed, a few even ventured to walts in a stately and dignified manner, The hall was tastefully decorated in the Confederate colors, fand a delightful repast spread for us. One man is largely responsible for the requirements of house decoration today. Years ago William Micrris bemore comfortable, and a gan it, when by proxy he threw from our mothers' windows the white cotton tidies with which they were wont to decorate their homes and opened the eyes of a few to the fact that elaborate gingerbread decoration and cheap wood brilliantly varnished were not art. Then began the introduction of a few good pieces, survivals of an artistic decoration ended so suddenly after Sheraton's day a century before or copies made by the occasional farsighted manufacturer. Yet at best these pieces were rare and used without any regard to their surroundings, although through them we learned a little about the furnishings of the dif ferent periods and could talk under standingly of colonial and Heppelwhite and Sheraton and Flemish and mission furniture and pointed with pride to our various possessions, never realizing that the hopeless medley of our furnishings was only a shade less inartistic than the gaudy varnished pieces that preceded them.

Now all is changing. In the first place, the shops no longer offer any except pleces definitely copied from some famous worker's designs or else adapted and modernized, retaining all the decided characteristics. No longer must you buy a chair or a table because you like it. You must buy it for a certain place in your house, because it is now out of the question to have a Chippendale chair, mission table, colonial wall paper and a Heppelwhite bed all in the same room. Your furniture and wall paper and draperles and carpet must all be selected with definite knowledge of what is what, and fortunate indeed for most of us it is that the salesman knows and can tide us over the difficulty.

America now supports several concert bands that are probably unrivaled in the world. Those of Innes and Sousa are of course among the most renowned of these. Innes was world-famed as the greatest of all trombonists during the time of Gilmore. Afterwards he dropped solo playing for the larger career of a popular bandmaster. His organization has toured the country year after year, steadily gaining popularity and renown until now the mere announcement of a forthcoming tour, results in requests and demands for festivals. The tour this year which opens November 1st, is a long one. The band will travel to the coast and return, closing the season with they are all registering just the same, a ten day festival in St. Louis, opening guess we can all vote whether we registhere on Dedication Day. THE WAITRESS COMPLETE.

en Magazine, is a very convenient labor saver, combining the convenience of the serving table with the utility of the dinner wagon (a small folding table on casters used largely in restaurants as a temporary receptacle for supplies).

The "waitress" in question is made from a firm box 20 inches long, 17 inches wide and 12 inches deep. Four pleces of smooth 2 by 2 lumber, each fourteen inches long, are required to form the legs. The top of the box, supported by sints, forms one shelf. The board that is to be the base of the serving table must then be taken off and the four corners sawed out to admit the legs. After the holes are sawed out the board must be replaced, the legs set up in the box two or three inches, or high enough to allow the shelf to rest upon them, and the whole fastened together firmly. It is a good plan to nall a board about two inches wide across the front to hold in the numerous dishes which will be placed there later. A railing or boarding is put on three sides of the top, and four casters complete the structure. At meal times the "waitress" stands by the hostess, with dessert or any other additional dish on its shelves. Plates and dishes removed during the meal broidery at the shoulders to the stock, are placed in it and the extra course put on the table.
