SOME POLITICAL DEDUCTIONS.

The after election figures, and the conclusions drawn therefrom, are interesting, if not particularly instructive.

The political calculator can always make deductions, after the election, and show how it all came about, by his own peculiar deductions.

The Democratic defeat in New York, and the Democratic victory in North Carolina, have proven good fields since the election, for those who enjoy drawing deductions from election returns.

In New York, the Coler defeat is placed to the credit, or discredit, of D. B. Hill. Even Bird S. Coler, who before the election was shown to be the strongest candidate for the Democrats to run, since his defeat is set down as weaker than other men who might have been nominated.

In the first place, the Democratic vote indicates both good party work on the part of Mr. Hill, who managed the campaign, and also attests the popularity of Candidate Coler.

The fact that Governor Odell, through his official acts had made himself unusually popular, is not considered by those who argue for the sake of putting the Democratic loss upon Messrs. Hill and Coler.

In North Carolina, the election with its one sided vote, is shown by deductions, as proving the worthlessness of the Independent movement.

But it should not be forgotten the democratic majority was made public weeks before election day, and there was hardly an opponent of democracy, or a voting democrat, who did not feel sure that the State would go democratic by a large majority.

The big democratic majority in North Carolina, does not prove that the party is impregnable in its hold upon this State. It indicates a confidence that the party is to be trusted with power to work out its promise made to the people during the past two years.

The great affairs of State, which have developed during the past two years, are from the Democratic party. It is this party which has asked for the Amendment, for increased appropriations for State Institutions, and the party which has been given what it asked for.

The principal and only deduction that can be drawn from the North Carolina vote is that the people have given the Democratic party the full opportunity to make good its promises.

The Independent move was never a serious matter to be considered at this time, and only as the Democratic party shall fail to fulfill its promises, is there any danger of loss of power to be feared.

VALUE IN COMPULSORY VACCINATION.

Methods in the treatment of small pox, the prevention of the spread of this disease, all go to prove that cleanliness and quarantine are not enough, but that vaccination is needed, and where it is not sufficiently done by the people, voluntarily, it should be made compulsory.

The medical authorities and people of Charlotte, N. C., are now taking this latest means to curb the spread of small pox in that city.

Reports for weeks have shown the disease to be on the increase, each week becoming more dangerous in its spread than in the previous week.

On Monday, last, vaccination was made compulsory, and so doubt with this enforced, small pox will be checked in its spread and be gotten under control. Certainly the present serious state will be relieved in a short time.

In making vaccination compulsory, Charlotte is adopting the method found most efficacious in eradicating small pox.

A few years ago, Greensboro had an invasion of this disease, which succumbed to the energetic means of vaccination which was forced upon its citizens. Since that time there has been no trouble, only one or two cases in several years.

Compulsory vaccination was enforced in this city several weeks ago, is still in force, not so much on account of the white people, but in order to have a law which should reach the negroes, and eliminate the danger to the whites from that direction.

It can hardly be questioned, but that today this city is freer from the dangers of small pox contagion among its people, than any other seaport city in this country.

The ignorant and the wilful alarmist are ever ready to raise the cry against compulsory vaccination, but the community which once has enforced it will find in it the means to both check the disease and to prevent its future return as a menace to the health of its people.

ELIMINATION OF SOUTHERN WHITE REPUBLICANISM.

Following closely upon the news from Alabama, of the ousting from office of Internal Revenue Collector Bingham by the President, because of the Collector's participation in politics, which had for its purpose the keeping out of colored men from taking any part in Republican party affairs, comes the news from Washington that Senator Fritchard's political status is the same as the Alabama man, hence the North Carolina Senator is threatened with political extinction.

With this crushing of the Republican attempts to organize a white party in Alabama and North Carolina comes the report that Ex-Governor Russell of this State, is to again become the leader of the negro party.

So far as Senator Fritchard is concerned, while he is opposed by the majority political party in this State, there is no word against him, personally, and as a Senatorial representative from North Carolina, he is held in as high esteem by prominent Democrats as by those in his own party.

Assuming the correctness of this new position of President Roosevelt towards the colored man in the South, it means the political elimination of the White Republican party in this section of the country just so long as the colored man is to be forced into public office, regardless of the white people's wishes.

A few Federal offices in the Southern States may be given to colored men, but the colored race as a whole must suffer in every way, and lose the very opportunities which they are now securing in race advancement, because of their giving up politics as a trade and profession.

This action of acknowledging the importance of the colored man, politically, opens up again the opportunity for race disturbances, in such sections as the colored man may get Federal office.

The appointment of a colored man to Federal office by the President, is the surest means of exterminating Republicanism in the South.

It makes certain the establishment of a single political party in the South, with the colored man completely shut out, except as here and there one may get a Federal appointment, and even these offices will soon prove most undesirable to even the most eager colored office seeker.

If the President means to pursue this course of political action in the South, it means an end to the political freedom which the white voters have looked forward to, the creation of two white political parties, and the South's active participation in National affairs.

It means the elimination of the white Republican in the South. It means not a single degree of advancement in the negro's political, commercial or educational status. As for his social status, it must ever remain fixed, unaffected by other conditions, good or bad.

More Men Needed for the Navy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The most crying need of the navy, according to the annual report of Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, is more officers to man our warships. He declares that the preparations now going on for the mobilization of the fleet in winter manoeuvres, have brought the Department face to face with the critical condition as to be dangerous to the efficiency of the fleet. He submits a table showing that the present needs of the naval service requires 1,900 officers while the number on the navy list is only 1,028, or 872 short. He figures that the vessels now authorized by Congress but not completed will require 498 additional officers.

Liquid Air Power.

The result of tests of a liquid air plant made at Cornell university, reported at the Pittsburg meeting of the American Association For the Advancement of Science, indicates that the expenditure of one horsepower continuously for one hour results in the production of just enough liquid air to produce, if utilized in its turn as a source of power in a perfect machine, one horsepower for one minute. The experimenter adds that the most efficient method of obtaining liquid air as yet discovered would increase the time to only five minutes.

A cousin of the late Nathaniel Hawthorne, who lives in Salem, says there never was a House of the Seven Gables in that town. I was particular to ask him to point out, if he could, the famous House of the Seven Gables, because at that time the controversy existed in some degree.

"There never was any," was his immediate reply to me. "I never had any particular house in my mind when I wrote the story. It was just a fancy of my own."
