Mrs. Hanna and the Union.

Mrs. Hanna, wife of the senator, settled a labor dispute in a hurry the other day. A Cleveland house owned by the senator was being painted by a force of sixteen men who did not belong to the union. Officials of the Painters' union came to see the senator, who was not at home. Mrs. Hanna heard what they had to say, drove to the house at once and ordered the men to quit work. They obeyed her promptly, and that night every one of them joined the union. Employees of another firm followed suit next day, and the painters are considering the advisability of electing Mrs. Hanna an honorary business agent.

> The Depth of Sleep. When a person slumbers so soundly that he can with difficulty be awals ened, we are accustomed to say he in a "deep sleep." An attempt to meas ure the depth of sleep in this sense has recently been made by Dr., Sante de Sanctis in Rome, with the alfi of a specially designed instrument which pr the sleeper with a more or less sharp point. The doctor has drawn curves showing the relative depth of sleep in different subjects and in the same sub ject after being allowed to sleep for different lengths of time. It appears that there are certain times during sleep when waking becomes casler, and a practical application of this re-sult of the experiments is suggested in the adjustment of the time of morning rising to a natural period of minimum in the depth of each sleeper's sleep.
