This could be applied as a guide in ascertaining the value of timber, which was real estate, and the value of the soil, if owned by one or two, each could be assessed separately. Even with timber bought off land it was the assessors duty to find its ualue, and all land must be valued.

There are counties where land has disappeared from the tax books, the owners failing to list it, but there is no excuse why land should escape in this way, and assessors should take precautions so that all land may be listed on the tax books.

School houses, churches, grave yards, county property, Government buildings and grounds must all be listed even if exempt. Township lines are binding and it is the duty of assessors to assess property to the line and no further. As to Corporations, assessors and list takers duties are to fix the tax value on all real and tangible property, this does not include the stock of the companies. Banks, Southern Express Co., factories and their raw material. Telephone companies, are to be assessed. Franchises are not to be considered whether valuable or not.

In the matter of Personal property, the law gives great power. Inquiry can be made into the private business aff airs They appear to be perfectly satisfied of citizens, and power may be used to get all information which assessors may think necessary. Yet assessors with all their power should not abuse their authority but respect the rights of citizens, and not divulge business secrets which they may learn in the course of their tion. work. In assessing open accounts, it is not necessary to know each account. The sge of an account was important in determining its tax value. Insolvent not, to be judged by the list taker. For not listing property, the penalty, double taxes, should be enforced. There ple at Riverdale. should be no privileged tax payers, every tax payer should be treated alike, be made to go before the list taker and reg-ularly give in taxes The penalty for failure should be enforced regardless of Picnic.

There will be a picnic on Saturday, June 13 at A P Simpson's new house, formerly known as Jim Ernul farm near Kit Swamp church. There will be music and dancing, also plenty of lemonade and other refreshments. Everybody is cordially invited to come and bring full baskets.

JASPER.

May 24.-Crops are looking well here considering the dry weather. There were heavy thunder clouds Friday and Saturday nights, but not enough rain to do much good. The farmers are still complaining about the scarcity of labor. If it is a rainy summer the crops will suffer much for want of work. The laboring men are mostly employed in timber, and wages being good, their wives and families are not compelled to work.

Mr Ed Wetherington is pushing the work on his tram road during the dry weather.
