KIDNEY TROUBLE CURED.

General Health Greatly Improved by Per-una.

MRS. M. J. DANLEY.

Mrs. M. J. Danley, Treasurer of the Rebecca Lodge, I. O. O. F., writes from 124 First street, N. Minneapolis, Minn.: "I was afflicted for several years with kidney trouble which became quite serious and caused me considerable anxiety. I spent hundreds of dollars trying to be cured, but nothing gave me any permanent relief until I tried Per-una. It took less than three months and only ten bottles to effect a permanent cure, but they were worth more than many hundred dollars to me. I am fully restored to health, know neither ache nor pain and enjoy life."—Mrs. M. J. Danley.

This experience has been repeated many times. We hear of such cases nearly every day.

Mrs. Danley had catarrh of the kidneys. As soon as she took the right remedy she made a quick recovery.

A Prominent Southern Lady's Letter.

Miss Laura Hopkins, of Washington, D. C., niece of Hon. E. O. Hopkins, one of the largest iron manufacturers of Birmingham, Ala., writes the following letter commending Per-una. She says: "I can cheerfully recommend Per-una for indigestion and stomach trouble and as a good tonic."—Laura Hopkins.

Per-una cures catarrh wherever located. Per-una is a specific for the catarrhal derangements of women. Address The Per-una Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio, for free book on catarrh written by Dr. B. B. Hartman.

FAMINE AND HUNGER.

The Lot of The Inhabitants of The Cape Verde Islands.

A pitiful story comes from New Bedford, Mass. where the Portuguese immigrants went from this city last spring, afflicted with suffering among the inhabitants of the Cape Verde islands even worse than the passengers of the unfortunate boat Vera Cruz VII endured. The people in New Bedford have heard from their relatives and friends in that island and all reports tell of suffering and death.

The chief means of information is the Cape Verde news paper which says that despite the efforts of the Military Governor to relieve the situation, the famine is spreading. It appears that for the past three months the Government has totally stopped all operations on the public highways and Government works and the hundreds of laborers usually dependent on such work have been thrown out of employment and are destitute. The heavy emigration from that island last spring robbed the farming districts of skilled labor and the crops utterly failed for lack of help.

The situation on the island of St. Thago is particularly distressing. Old and decrepit people drop dead in the street and babies die of starvation. A death rate as high as fifty per day is reported, and so pressed are the burial authorities that it is necessary to pile the dead in common graves in the cemeteries without coffins.

Successful Bear Round-up.

In the neighborhood of Prescott's post office, Beaufort county, the bears have been annoying the farmers by frequent attacks on their hogs.

Sunday evening, a bear family raided the herd of Mr Irving Bonner, and carried off what they wanted. Monday morning Mr Bonner aroused a number of his neighbors and they started in pursuit of the marauders.

After beating the brush for some time three bears were discovered, two had taken to trees, while the other one, the mother bear had crouched near by to protect her offspring. Then the fun began. After practicing their marksmanship on the head of brain, a fatal shot was fired by one of the crowd of hunters and the hog eater stretched herself out in a last struggle. One cub was killed, the other one was captured alive. The she-bear was quite a large specimen and the cubs were well on towards grown.

Weather For Northwest.

Chicago, August 3rd.—The weather map shows heavy rains in Nebraska, Iowa, and Minnesota. Generally clear in the southwest, and temperatures are higher. The conditions are generally very favorable for corn. There is a possibility of too much rain in the Northwest where harvest operations are beginning.

No Pic-Nic.

On account of the prevalence of fever in the neighborhood, the pic nic to be given at Mr Peely's, near Zorah, August 15th, has been indefinitely postponed.

WHY NEGLECT THE ROADS?

During the Good Weather it Should be Seen to That the Approaches to New Bern are Repaired.

People who come to town over the county roads are complaining about the bad condition of them.

If the roads are bad now during the comparatively dry weather, what can be expected of them later on when the fall rains set in?

The weather is now favorable for road working, the crops are about cultivated, the country people are less busy, and nothing but carelessness and neglect is to hinder the roads from receiving the proper attention. The people who have produce to haul to market should be the ones to interest themselves in the repair of roads, but as a rule they dislike to spare the hands of the farm for road work, until the crops are laid by, then labor is so demoralized and scattered until cotton picking time that it is next to impossible to get it together for road work.

This matter of good or bad roads is of vital importance not only to the planter who perhaps strains his animals to death drawing loads of produce over bad roads to market, but to the market town that expects to handle the produce. No careful intelligent farmer cares to unnecessarily injure his horses, and will decline to market his produce at a town whose approaches are well nigh impassable and will travel further to reach a town across good roads.

Last fall it will be remembered that the roads leading out from New Bern for several miles were in a miserable condition, it being impossible to draw an average load across them. This bad condition existed even in the season for marketing tobacco, and it is also known that some planters who intended to sell their tobacco here were obliged on account of bad roads to carry their stuff elsewhere. It was the same with the cotton crop last year.

The bad roads leading to New Bern are costing the merchants here thousands of dollars in trade that is being carried to other towns; is costing the farmers who are of business necessity obliged to bring their produce here, thousands of dollars, in the wear and tear of their beasts and vehicles.

The road law provides for the keeping of them up, but the law is not enforced. The supervisors appoint an overseer, he qualifies and that is the last ever heard of him. The law requires that where it is needed, the overseer shall have six days work done each year on his section. Many of them don't have one day's work done.

Let the law be enforced, and if, as it is argued, there are not hands enough to keep up the roads, make a different law or let the ones most interested, supplement the force by voluntary contributions.

Now is the time to begin work, and if the time is wasted until the rains set in, the same conditions that were present last fall will be again.

Squaring the Circle.

The origin of the problem squaring the circle is almost lost in the mists of antiquity, but there is a record of an attempted quadrature in Egypt 500 years before the exodus of the Jews. There is also a claim, according to Hone, that the problem was solved by a discovery of Hippocrates, the geometer of Chios—not the physician—about 450 B. C. Now, the efforts of Hippocrates were devoted toward converting a circle into a crescent, because he had found that the area of a figure produced by drawing two perpendicular radii in a circle is exactly equal to the triangle formed by the line of junction. This is the famous theorem of the "lunes of Hippocrates" and is, like Glauber's salts out of the philosopher's stone, an example of the useful results which sometimes follow a search for the unattainable.

A LIGHT HEART.

Said to Be Offener Linked With Heaven Than With Brains.

Is it possible to cultivate a light heart? Probably not, but all sorts of shifts have been practiced at all times to retain one. There have always been men like Thoreau and St. Francis who believed that property brought with it a heavy heart and who have refused, as did the American philosopher, to be "harnessed to his possessions." St. Francis "cast aside every weight" that he might free himself from "idle sorrow." He and his first disciples "loved nothing earthly and feared nothing earthly. They were secure in all places, troubled by no fears, distracted by no cares; they lived without trouble of mind, waiting without solicitude for the coming day." St. Francis in the fastnesses of the Italian hills singing French hymns among the highway robbers in his whimsical lightness of heart makes a strange picture. He knew French badly, but it seems to him the language of gaiety. The founder of the Franciscans, though we are told that he possessed what was quaintly called the gift of tears when performing his devotions in his cell, was never seen abroad without a smile; neither would he tolerate any appearance of heaviness in his followers. He rebuked a brother to whom a dejected manner had become habitual, saying, "My brother, repent thy sins in private, and do not appear before the community thus downcast."

We are inclined to think that those who make their living—provided it is a fairly good one—in the sweat of their brow have lighter hearts than those who make it in the sweat of their brain. The high spirits which seem to be enjoyed by domestic servants, to judge by the sounds which come up stairs, are a case in point. Dusting, scrubbing and plate cleaning seem to weigh on the heart far less than doctoring, journalism or the study of law or theology. Too often spirits are broken by overwork or by disappointment in the wild struggle to succeed which goes on among professional people. Light hearts are generally lost early, yet the light hearted man of letters, though he is rare, is the most attractive of all light hearted men. He knows how to express the music that is in his mind and is like a composer who is also an executant.—London Spectator.

When He Did Better.

A celebrated bishop once sat through a long and atrocious sermon on a hot summer morning. With an immovable countenance he listened to metaphors that were mixed, pathos that was bathos and humor that was sad. The preacher was a youth just out of college—a very conceited youth. He belittled through his sermon at the top of his lungs. His gestures were violent enough to break his arms. At every climax he fixed the bishop with his eye to see if a suitable impression had been made.

And at the end of the service this young snip swaggered up to the bishop and said:

"If fancy I did rather well today, sir. Don't you think so?"

"Yes," returned the bishop; "but you did better last year."

"Last year!" said the young man. "Why, I didn't preach at all last year."

"That's the reason," said the bishop, with a pleasant smile.

Consult King David.

This amusing anecdote of Lamartine is related by the Baroness Bando in her volume of letters. Shortly after the revolution of February he wrote on the blank leaves of his pocketbook the names of his proteges and sent the list to be provided with places immediately. Previously, however, it seems, he had scribbled "David" on the page, and the head of the cabinet appointed the said David consul at Bremen; the postulant, however, never came forward, and, though the poet did not like being disturbed, M. Hatzel was obliged to ask who was the David on his list.

"He who danced before the ark," was the answer.

"Oh, dear! I have gazetted him to Bremen!"

"How very singular! I meant him for a subject for meditation, not for nomination. But you can cancel it!"

The minister registered the change, but few knew that the last consul appointed to Bremen was King David!

Wonderful Sense of Smell in Dogs.

It has often been proved that dogs are able to track their masters through crowded streets, where it would be impossible to attribute their accuracy to anything except the sense of smell alone. Mr. Romanes, the naturalist, once made some interesting experiments as to this wonderful power as exhibited in his own dog. In these tests the naturalist found that his dumb friend could easily follow in the tracks of his master, though he was far out of sight, and that, too, after no less than eleven persons had followed, stopping exactly in the tracks made by Mr. Romanes, it being the deliberate intention to confuse the senses of the poor dog if possible. Further experiment proved that the animal tracked the boots instead of the man, for when Mr. Romanes put on new footgear the dog failed entirely.
