

Stomach Troubles cured by KODOL

Under all curable conditions

DISPEPSIA CURE

Mr. D. Kauble of Mrs. W. W. Lay-
Nevada, Co., was cured of chronic dyspepsia by the use of KODOL.

A large shipment of potatoes was made on the steamer Orocraco last night.

The tobacco sale yesterday was quite good and the prices were a little better.

A new rapid fire gun mounted on a truck was received yesterday by the Naval Reserve of this city. It was lent by the U. S. Government.

An old citizen was heard to say that house flies had been fewer this year in New Bern than he had seen here in ten years. He couldn't account for it, for he didn't think the town was cleanly enough to cause the difference.

The fire ladders returned from the tournament yesterday. Unlike their return on former occasions, they came not as conquerors. Even though they had won the second prize for quick steaming they were saddened. Hereafter they were winners in nearly everything.

There are a few street mail boxes that are placed on substantial iron posts but most of them are still on decrepit telephone poles, guy posts or any old post that is stuck in the ground. It is to be hoped that Uncle Sam will appreciate the march of improvements in our city and supply this town with suitable support for his boxes.

The condition of South Front street between Middle and Hancock streets is very bad. After every hard rain the water flows down in a large stream and makes an unlighted and unhealthy mud hole near the hydrant recently placed by the city authorities and it should receive immediate attention.

Hundreds of watermelons arrive here now every day, both by land and water. Three large boat loads by water yesterday, by land, cart and wagon loads galore. The sizes range from "knobs" to fifty pounds. Prices, wholesale, slide from one and a half cents to seven cents. They are still high by retail. A good melon will cost twenty cents.

People should be very careful to whom they trust their children. A nurse was seen yesterday evening with a child in a go-cart down on the market. She was conversing with other women of her color and caste and the conversation was anything but edifying to the youngster in the cart, although he was taking it all in. The child's mother would have been horrified to find her little boy in such a foul smelling place, listening to the obscene words that were falling from the woman's lips.

TIME TO ACT.
The Good Roads Question Must be Agitated.

Mayor Ellis is anxious for his administration to go on record as the good roads administration. What has been done already is enough to prove his sincerity in the matter. Doubtless before his term expires he will see the development of plans which he long has cherished.

The Mayor is no dreamer and his ideas are about correct on making permanent good roads. There is material within a few miles that will be sufficient to properly macadamize all the streets of New Bern.

The expense of this venture lies in items, viz: the purchase of the material, the crushing of the shell rock, the preparing of the same for the road and the labor.

The streets most in need of this improvement are Middle street from Graves street to the river and Pollock street from East Front to George street.

What is most necessary in the public spirit to encourage the Mayor in this very worthy enterprise. It's up to the people.

Diamond Shoals' Search Light
Fixed.

Norfolk-Vigilant Pilot, 13th

The lighthouse board yesterday announced that the electric searchlight on Diamond Shoal light-vessel, No. 71, on the North Carolina coast, which was reported disabled on July 15th was repaired on August 6, and the light re-established.

During the early part of this summer, after having made numerous successful tests with the electrical instrument on the Pacific coast and in the Orient the government installed an apparatus on the Diamond Shoal light-ship. The instrument throws a vertical white light toward the zenith, which light can be seen, it is said, at a distance of more than fifty miles.

Save the Children.
Ninety-nine of every one hundred diseases that children have are due to disorders of the stomach, and these disorders are all caused by indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is just as good for children as it is for adults. Children thrive on it. It keeps their little stomachs sweet and encourages their growth and development. Mrs. Henry Carter, 708 Central St., Nashville, Tenn., says: "My little boy is now three years old and has been suffering from indigestion ever since he was born. I have had the best doctors in Nashville, but failed to do him any good. After using one bottle of Kodol he is a well baby. I recommend it to all sufferers." Kodol digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by F. S. Duffy.

Opening of the A. & M. College.
The State Agricultural and Mechanical College will open Thursday, September 3, Entrance examinations will be held at the College the day before. The capacity of the College has been recently increased; and the demand for admission is still very large. Students desiring rooms will have to be present promptly the first day, and a dollar extra is charged all who are late. The college is usually full by night of the first day, and the program of work is carried on with the precision and punctuality of clock work. Young men who are training for industrial careers are thus taught that system and promptness are the first requisites of business. If a boy is late in entering the A. & M. College, you may know he is a new student. Many of the old students return even a week in advance to review their studies and get a good start.

The Judgment of Years.
A significant bit of wisdom, to be pondered over by the very young, whose grins and disappointment seem so tragic, was that uttered by Mrs. Dolly Madison when she was over eighty years old and near her death. Her husband had been so long and so hard on her, that she said, "I can't say I am sorry that I am dead, for I have lived long enough to see my husband die."

Buttons.
The Elizabethan era gave origin to the buttons, and the buttons, are in vogue and in fashion, they are considered as important, since they are much to revolutions. The original buttons were made of wood, and were used to fasten the gowns and dresses of the nobles.

Women's Strength in Tears.
The weakest woman in all the world is armed with one weapon against which man's pride and strength are powerless. Her tears will win when everything else has failed. A woman's tears are her own tenderest shield as well as the stronger masculine brutes. Old and young yield to their potential spell, and when the woman happens to be pretty there is no telling what will follow when her bright eyes grow misty with these messengers from a wounded heart. It is folly to attempt to stand out against a woman's tears. They have caused revolutions. They have made and unmade many a great cause. They can be met in only one way—unconditional—surrender.—Exchange.

End of Bitter Fight.

RUSSIAN PILGRIMS.
HOW AGED PEASANTS ATTAIN CASTE IN THEIR VILLAGES.

They travel far away to pray at distant shrines and monasteries. The Holy Places They Visit and at Which They Are Fed and Lodged.

When the snows of winter melt in Russia and the woods are fragrant with violets and the ice in great masses floats down the rivers to the sea the peasant who is on the threshold of old age, tired of long inaction, comes forth from his lab and looks abroad. Strange thoughts have been stirring in him for several months, recollections of a vow that he once made that, if heaven would, he would one day worship in a certain monastery and there revere the relics of its saints. For many a long year it seemed as if this vow would never be fulfilled, for there was work to do in the village of which he could in no way rid himself, and still more pressing was the burden of a numerous family that could not be left. But now the children have grown up and can fend for themselves, and the father and mother are no longer of the same value to the community as laborers. Indeed were they to quit the village they would not be much missed. One day, however, remains for them to redeem their lost position and to enable themselves for the rest of their lives to the respect of all their neighbors. It is to go on a far distant pilgrimage.

Innumerable are the sacred places in Russia and out of Russia which the pilgrims visit. On the sterile tundras that end in the lonely strand where the waves of the White sea fling their foam upon the walls of the Solovetsky monastery; on the quays of Odessa, awaiting the steamer that will carry them to Jaffa, or on the monotonous straight roads that for vert upon vert lead by forests of white stemmed birch or somber pine to the resting place of St. Serge, near Moscow, or of the saints who sleep in the catacombs of Petchersk at Kiev, there may be seen bands of pilgrims, staff in hand, journeying on foot, through poverty or in accordance with a vow, to their far-off goal. The men often wear clumsy but comfortable shoes of plaited bark, stockings fastened round the leg with string, breeches reaching to the knees and wide, baggy, downy coats attached to the waist with a colored belt. The women have a colored undershirt, a short dress and bodice all in one and a bright blue handkerchief wrapped round the head, a knapsack on the back and a gourd or kettle fastened to a girl. But the costumes are very various, and it would be impossible to describe them all.

The pilgrims beg for money comparatively rarely. They have the self respect and independence which best people presumably have. Perhaps they have saved for this pilgrimage for many years; they are hardy up to the last degree. At night they sleep where they can, in a monastery or perhaps in sheds that have been erected for them by the road, and when they wish to drink they stop and ask for water at a peasant's hut, where they are respectfully received. If they are short of bread the poor monk will give them some, if he has any, for the charitable instinct of the people in Russia is inexhaustible. And perhaps, too, they will render some service to the homes that they visit. Tolstoi has described a pilgrim to the Holy Land who found a whole family dying of starvation and set them up again. And when Saturday arrives, and all good people are bound by their religion to take a bath, then men and women will plunge into the river regardless of the want of bathing machines and careless of all bathing regulations.

Questions For Boys and Girls.
If you are good at guessing or answering here are a few questions you can wrestle with:
You can see any day a white horse, but did you ever see a white colt?
How many different kinds of trees grow in your neighborhood, and what are they good for?
Why does a horse eat grass backward and a cow forward?
Why does a dove vine wind one way and a bean vine the other?
Where should a chimney be the larger, at the top or bottom, and why?
Can you tell why a horse when tethered with a rope always unravels it while a cow always twists it into a kinky knot?
How old must a grapevine be before it begins to bear?
Can you tell why some leaves turn upside down just before a rain?
What wood will bear the greatest weight before breaking?—Exchange.

An Applied Biblical Story.
A little boy laid his stick of candy on the mantle while he buttoned his shoes. His sister, seeing it, waited around the room, reaching the candy as she passed, and hastily ate it. When her brother had finished buttoning his shoes and reached for it, lo, it was gone! "You have my candy, miss. Give it to me!" he cried. "Brother," she answered, "if you ever eat that candy you will have to be the whale, and I'll have to be Jonah."

SOME REASONS
Why New Bern People Should Follow This Valuable Advice.
Because the proof is in New Bern. You can easily investigate it. Not necessary to experiment. With some untired remedy. Profit by the experience of a citizen.
S. B. Parker, whose sheet metal business is at Craven and South Front Sts., place of residence 41 Craven street, says: "I believe Don's Kidney Pills to be a good remedy. In fact, I know it. I have been quite a sufferer from backache. At times it was so bad I could scarcely endure it, but since using Don's Kidney Pills which I got at the Bradham Pharmacy my back has not troubled me at all. Should there ever be a recurrence I shall certainly resort to Don's Kidney Pills, and intend to keep them on hand in case of need."
