SCHOOL FOR TEACHING JOUR-NALISM.

The Joseph Pulitzer gift of two million dollars to endow a school for Journalism in Columbia University, is a notable and worthy gift, and given by trial. so renowned a journalist as Mr. Pulitzer, the gift is specially significant.

The fatuous thought so often expressed, that the real journalist is born, and money to attempt to create him, therefore make no move to found schools thing of the past with intelligent and thinking people.

It is not that a school for journalism enter may graduate with every knowledge of the craft, theoretical and practical, any more than the student who enters college can graduate and at once commercial career.

But like the college training may be for any of life's professions, so can such a training in the journalistic school prove most advantageous, and make more secure, sound and practical the seeker after a career in journalism.

The self made journalist, like the self made man in any line of business, may pride himself on his individualism, which has had the strength to win against the world's odds, yet there might have been greater success had the same self made man had the early school or college training which could have developed en greater elements of success, and

The bill defines the vagrancy against which its provisions are directed thus: Persons wandering or strolling about in idlences, who are able to work and have no property to support them. Persons leading an idle, immoral life, who have no property to support them, and who are able to work and do not

All persons able to work, having no property to support them, and who have no visible or known means of a fair, honest and reputable livelihood. The terms "visible and known means of a fair, honest and reputable livelihood," as used in this section, shall be construed reasonably continuous employment at some law ful occupation for reasonable compensa tion or a fixed and regular income from property or other investment, the insupport and maintenance of such va-

All able-bodied persons who are found begging for a living or who quit their houses and leave their wives and children without means of subsistence. All persons able to work and who do not work, but hire out their minor children and live on their wages. The person who can remain idle or do any loafing under such a State law as the above, will have to do it in secret, specially as the law makes it the duty of every county officer, the police and like officials, to give any officer empowered to issue a criminal warrant, information concerning all vagrants or suspects, with the idea of giving them a quick

The fact that the school of journalism is to be established by a journalist, and one eminently successful, proves that Mr Pulitzer sees greater opportunities for American journalism, through a school which shall develop technical, intellectual and moral standards in seekers in the journalistic field, and thus elevate journalism to a higher plane than it now to buy a box of Chamberlain's Stomach occupies.

THE SIGN OF RETURNING BUSINESS.

Nothing is more significant at this season of the year, than the general increase of advertising in periodicals of all kinds, but more especially in the newspapers.

The season of the "dodger" and the dead wall "poster" have passed, for now these cheap make shifts possess no attractions for even the moderate advertiser, who during the summer months (magines that his "dodgers" lying along the sidewalks and in the gutters, are ad vertising his goods,-he must now give it up, for no fancy can see good advertising in the "dodger" which is now being blown along the public highways, by the September winds.

Nor is the dead wall any longer attractive, for the people, the few who usually lounge during the summer months, and fix their lazy attention upon dead wall advertisements, must now be otherwise occupied.

But it is the newspaper, with its new advertising business, and its old regular advortisers with their larger and greater display of "new goods," which best indicates the sign of better and greater business conditions.

The season of business is now the country, vacation time is past, and the hustling season is here,

The newspaper proves this first, and people accept the sign and join the proa which now eagerly seeks trade

Nature and Plants. Dr. Andrew Wilson writes: "If we assumed that flowers were merely Duffy, evolved to gratify human senses we should be entertaining a woefully limited view of nature. The botanist will tell you that everything about a flower is meant to favor one end. That end is the production of seeds and the propagation of the species. The colors of flowers-nay, even the little spinshes of a hue or tint seen on a petal-are inended to attract insects that they may carry off the fertilizing dust, or pollen, Sun.

to other flowers of the same or near species and thus insure a sturdier race as the result of cross fertilization. It is to this end also that your flowers are many of them sweet scented. The perfume is another kind of invitation to the insect world. The honey they secrete forms a third attraction most practical of all, perhaps. Then the arrangement of the flowers on the stalk, the times of opening and shutting of the flowers and the position of the stamens and pistils are all so many features whereby nature is giving each plant a help on the way."
