

KODOL
 Weak Hearts
 Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol
 Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: "After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured."

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammelled action.

Bottles only, $1.00 Size holding 2 1/2 times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.
 Colored Man Answers Apparently Kindly Hall at His Door and Is Met by a Bullet.

Monday night, somewhere about two o'clock, a call and knock was made at the house of one Susie Evans, a colored woman who lives up on Stansly street. Susie keeps a sort of lodging house and among her guests is a man named Fletcher.

On the night in question the woman who occupies a room on the ground floor answered the call by enquiring who it was who was there. It was asked if Fletcher was at home and being informed that he was, the party on the outside requested that the former be told that a friend wished to speak to him.

Fletcher responded at once, and on opening the door was confronted by two men, one having a pistol which was immediately discharged almost in Fletcher's face. After firing one shot the men jumped over the rail of the stoop and fled.

The shot took effect in the left shoulder of the victim, just below the collar bone. Dr. Lassiter was called and probed for the ball, but did not succeed in extracting it. The wound is not considered serious, but in the event of complications setting in it may become dangerous.

Fletcher is a negro about 45 years old and came to this city a year or more ago from somewhere in Virginia, and claims to have no family.

He has been abiding at the Evans woman's house quite a while, and is said to have been fairly an orderly, kind of negro, but recently his associates, who by the way, were perhaps her admirers also, have suspected him of an intimacy with the woman. It is thought that the shooting resulted from a spirit of jealousy, the man being almost a stranger here, besides.

The wounded man stoutly affirms that his assailants were negroes and it is believed that he can locate them.

TRICKS WITH CARDS.
 SKILFULLY DONE, THEY WILL AMUSE
 AND ENTERTAIN YOUR GUESTS.

There is no more interesting and profitable pastime than that of playing cards. The thirty-one trick—a clever way to tell Dracula Cards.

This undoubtedly is one of the best things performed with cards, and it is not only a legitimate, but a highly profitable, and a highly entertaining, pastime. By this trick you are able to tell the whole pack of cards, with the backs toward you; also more than a dozen things. Any number of things can be done in a row. It is performed thus:

Thirty-one cards being distributed on the table, with their faces uppermost, the cards are picked up one by one in the following order: 3, 1, 7, 5, King, 8, 10, Jack, A, Queen. Repeat the same sequence with the other cards. Four times over the course, complete the pack.

When the cards are ordered may be remembered by the following words: as used as a mnemonic device, and they are: King, 3, 1, 7, 5, King, 8, 10, Jack, A, Queen.

When the trick is said to be done by a man in a military uniform, he is said to be a "king" or "knave" or "queen".

San Jose Scale on Shrubs.

Those who fear the coming of San Jose scale among their fruit trees should bear in mind that this pest does not confine itself to fruit trees. Those who may have a collection of flowering shrubs on their grounds may find it on some of those bushes. Many shrubs belong to the same natural order as the greater number of fruits do, and these take the scale just as quickly. The Pyrus japonica, or fire bush, as many call it because of its flame-colored flowers, is the delight of the scale. On many private grounds where it had been in use as an ornamental hedge, it has been necessary to root it out and burn it to get rid of the scale. Orange hedges have met the same fate. These two plants are but a small portion of those liable to become infested. Every shrub should be examined at stated times. The Russian olive, the bladder nut, the flowering almonds and many other nice shrubs have carried the pest. The scale can be controlled on fruit trees and on all bushes if spraying is not neglected.—Practical Farmer.

Farmers Then and Now.

It is difficult for a progressive farmer of the present day to realize how farmers of forty years ago could live when every farm operation was done by hand or by use of the crudest contrivances. Grain was cut with a cradle, hay with a scythe. Plowing was done with a metal pointed mold board hooked at home, and a tree fork and wooden pegs made the harrow. Grain was trodden out by horses or thrashed on rail pens with flails. Then there were no many toothed cultivators, weedeaters or disk plows or harrows. Then an acre a day was good work in cultivation or preparation. Now we do much better work at the rate of five to ten acres per day. Now one man can do the work that formerly occupied five or more men the same number of hours. The inventive genius of man has been gradually eliminating every form of drudgery from farm life.—Exchange.

Potatoes and Apples Short.

With rot in the potato crop, scab on the apples and Jack Frost on the beets, the lazy corn crop, farmers have their troubles at home, and a tree fork and wooden pegs made the harrow. Grain was trodden out by horses or thrashed on rail pens with flails. Then there were no many toothed cultivators, weedeaters or disk plows or harrows. Then an acre a day was good work in cultivation or preparation. Now we do much better work at the rate of five to ten acres per day. Now one man can do the work that formerly occupied five or more men the same number of hours. The inventive genius of man has been gradually eliminating every form of drudgery from farm life.—Exchange.

HINTS FOR FARMERS
 Stick to Known Breeds.

The history of live stock breeding is largely a history of variation and improvement. New breeds have come forward from time to time in all kinds of live stock. As a rule these have been the result of some locality's selection of animals adapted to its needs and their constant improvement. Aside from the poultry industry, which has been enriched by a number of "made" breeds, the new breeds have not sprung from any man's fancy, but from many men's needs. They were first found useful by many, then bred with such skill and to such uniformity that they became entitled to breed distinction. Every now and then we see men coming forward with some new idea in breeding, the product of which they attempt to establish as a separate breed. They are rarely successful. An individual fancy is not as a rule based on the broad foundation of usefulness to the many, which is an essential to popularity. New breeders are apt to be attracted by these so called breeds and usually to their sorrow. They waste time and money on something for which no general demand exists after they have it, when they might be raising and selling animals whose breed recommends them to a certain extent. There are now breeds enough to fulfill the needs of every land and climate and breeds that have a heritage of generations of selection for some purpose as assurance of excellence and uniformity. Better join hands with the breeders and improve these than to seek "some new thing" which is likely to show you more about the law of variation than anything else.—Farm and Ranch.

Breennahan's Batting Advice.

In an article recently written on the science of batting, Roger Breennahan, the New York Nationals' heavy hitting center fielder, gives some advice which should be valuable to amateur players. He says:

"The man who stands close to the plate while at bat and bears in mind that every pitcher, no matter who he is or what his reputation may be, must put the ball over the rubber, can, with practice, become a good and, I may say, a dangerous hitter even if he has not got the natural ability of some of the great batters of the past and present. One very bad fault many young players have is the habit of pulling away from the plate, as it is called, when a ball looks as though it might possibly hit the batter. How many times have you seen a man step back from a curved ball which a second after "cut the plate" and was called a strike, much to his discomfiture? The remedy for this, I think, is a simple one, which can be mastered by any young man possessing the necessary confidence. It is simply to step forward and meet the ball before it crosses the plate. In this way the ball is always in front of the batter, and he is, so to speak, on top of it before it breaks."

Popular Party D.

One of the most remarkable instances of the power of personal popularity is furnished by Manager Donovan of the St. Louis Nationals. With a weak club and holding seventh position in the league, the same place the American club holds, he draws more people than the Americans, and there is less abuse directed toward him.

It cost the Nationals $9,000 this season to retain Donovan, but it was a good investment. It is said that the popularity of the St. Louis Browns is due to the players' ugly disposition toward the fans. When they win at home and the fans give them praise they return insulting remarks, but when the Browns lose the rosters hand out sarcastic remarks in large chunks, with not an iota of sympathy for their misfortunes.

The Olympic Games.

The Olympic championship, the third arrival of the athletic games of ancient Greece, which will be held at the St. Louis exposition in August and September next year, promises to be the greatest athletic contest ever held. A programme embracing every branch of athletics is being arranged, and the best men in the world are expected to compete.

Secretary James E. Sullivan of the A. A. U., who will be in charge of the games, is busy completing the preliminary work. Secretary Sullivan and the executive committee decided to measure all track events by the metric system, which is sure to please the foreign representatives.

To Display Trophies.

It is the intention of the department of physical culture of the St. Louis exposition to have a national display of trophies. There has been constructed for the department an up to date gymnasium, and during the series of Olympic games there will be displayed in its trophy room trophies that have been won by colleges, athletic clubs and other athletic organizations, limiting the collection to one trophy from each.

THE SENSE OF SMELL.
 The Aborigines of Peru Have Developed it Wonderfully.

How infinitely minute must be the particles that emanate from the object which the dog is tracking, says the London Mail. Yet the matter is extremely divisible. The tenth part of a grain of musk will continue for years to fill a room with its odoriferous particles and at the end of that time will not be appreciably diminished in weight by the finest balance. A cubic inch of air rising from the flame of a Bunsen burner has been found to contain no fewer than 489,000,000 dust particles. A drop of blood which might be suspended from the point of a needle contains about a million of red flattened corpuscles. Still, though matter is so marvelously divisible, the olfactory nerves are infinitely more sensitive. How has this been accomplished? The particles of the sense of smell are so small that they may discriminate with such apparently miraculous accuracy. Yet even the results in the scent of dogs show how marvelously fine is their discriminating power. Our sense of smell, unless in the trained chemist, is not even so acute as that of the semisavage. The aborigines of Peru can in the darkest night and in the thickest woods distinguish respectively a white man, a negro and one of their own race by the smell. Much we have gained by civilization, but not without some loss to our bodily energies and senses. Man's recuperative power after an injury is in the inverse ratio to his social advancement. Similarly he seems to become less acute and delicate in the sense of smell as he favors better and lives more comfortably. The faithful dog puts him to shame.

Why Best is Necessary.

A beef liver strong in the hearts and minds of the majority of mankind, including persons of weak digestions, that a quick, brisk walk taken before a meal gets up an appetite and helps the stomach to digest the food. Now, this is exactly what it doesn't do. Exercise spreads the blood throughout the body. For the proper digestion of food the blood is needed in the stomach. Few realize this important fact. After a long, exhausting walk, bicycle spin or any severe physical or mental strain take a good half hour's rest in a comfortable armchair or lying on a sofa before you eat a substantial meal.

In some other city a story like the following might attract only passing attention, in New Bern, but coming as it does, from a prominent citizen, it cannot fail to interest a large number of people, who will profit by the narrator's experience.

L. A. Smith, Superintendent of Crystal Ice Co., 19 Griffith St., residing at 13 Griffith St., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills for my kidneys and back. The secretions from the kidneys was all out of sorts, and too frequent in action. My little boy was troubled with a kidney weakness and the secretions were highly colored and full of sediment. I gave him some of the pills and they cleared his secretions up to their natural color. I cannot but consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent kidney cure and do not hesitate to say so.
