DISPENSARY IS FOR MONEY, NOT MORALS.

The differences of opinion between the two Raleigh papers, the Post and Times, as to the dispensary in their city, also the reported wrangling among the aldermen in council, indicates that the dispensary is likely to become a source of contention, if not worse in the capitol city of North Carolina.

Liquor selling has always been a most profitable pursuit. From a financial standpoint it is a rapid money winner to him who engages in its traffic, and the dispensary, as sort of a half way station between the saloon and teetotalism, is found when given enough time, to become a grant in its abuses as ever was the saloon.

The attempt to hold up the dispensary as something in the moral line, is absurd. It deceives some good people because it is not open at night and does not offer a retreat for the person who treats. It propitiates the tax payer because of its revenue, in taking the place of the saloon as a tax payer.

But as its business increases it is certain to corrupt. It makes the "good citizen" who accepts a position to regulate its workings, and make it "moral," forgetful of his first promises, and he becomes sordid in the desire for gain. The citizens where the dispensary is established look upon its ever increasing sales with satisfaction. It is a splendid revenue producer, even exceeds the licensed saloon, and so the profit is considered, while the misery it gives is not thought of.

And as the dispensary grows and prospers, it gains in its influence. It is helpful in city affairs, it is good for the politician through its influence. It may diminish drinking in one quarter, while it increases it in another. But above all it does not sound so obnoxious to say dispensary, as it does, saloon.

In South Carolina the dispensary is known through its long association, and the following from the Charleston News and Courier shows how this institution is considered by the leading State news paper:

In an article headed "Local Option or Dispensary," it says that this law in South Carolina "will not be settled until it is settled right. The system ought to be destroyed, root and branch. It has brought great reproach upon the State and it has not cultivated or promoted the spirit of temperance in our people. On the contrary, the success of the establishment is judged, not by its prohibitory effects, but by the volume of its sales and the revenues of the State from the business."

So in South Carolina, the dispensary is an established institution, desired because of its revenues, while from its moral side—it has nothing to offer.

AN UNANSWERABLE ENDORSEMENT.

Tuesday's National Presidential election must go upon record as the most extraordinary in the history of this country.

From a Democratic standpoint there is no argument to present against the tremendous laudation. There is evident something faulty in Democratic politics when such a vote is cast against them, for certainly no such majorities can be set down to Trust money.

Perhaps the New York vote may be set down to the feeling that Hillman was behind Judge Parker, hence the distrust. As for the rest of the States, the intervention has only two solutions, that the American voter endorses strenuously and that there is too much property in the country for any change of its administrative affairs.

been local democratic victories, but these are not apparent, nor do they count as of any prominence in the National result, which is so overwhelming, that what were considered doubtful States were swept into the Republican column as if they belonged there.

The possible future effect of this Republican victory is that it again restores William Jennings Bryan as a most prominent figure in democratic circles, and it will also likely cause the Hearst following to assume greater political strength, and give it an important bearing in Democratic councils.

The Republican landslide is so great that its effects are certain to be felt in the South in coming elections. With the elimination of the objectionable feature of President Roosevelt's attitude towards the negro, there is certain to be two white parties with possible discussion of State and National issues which will make changes at the polls in the big majorities, and create greater interests among the voters, causing votes to be cast in some proportion to the number of citizens eligible to vote, and removing all possible spathy.

As to President Roosevelt it is hardly possible for him to more strenuously enact the vote of the Rough Rider during his next term in office. The chances are that he will be less strenuous, as he is now the choice of the people, hence more is expected of him, so that by his public conduct of affairs he may fully merit the most convincing vote cast for him on Tuesday November 8th, 1904.

SOUTHERN DEMOCRACY HENCEFORTH MUST BE FREE.

The result of Tuesday's election must convince every self-respecting Southern Democrat that his emancipation in National Democratic politics has arrived. In other words, it is time for the Southern Democracy to be free to assert itself in naming a representative on the National Democratic Presidential ticket and unless this and other prerogatives be granted, the once solid Southern Democracy shall refuse to any longer support purely sectional nominations.

In every National campaign the South, politically, has no status. That is it is left out of the political count. To be sure it is at once placed as "Solid" for whatever may be labeled "democrat," be it a Greeley, or any one else. It has representation in National conventions, and casts its vote for candidates, and hurrah over the nominees, but that ends it on both sides. The Republicans simply turn their attention to other sections, while the democrats do about the same, while the Southern Democrat rushes into the campaign, exerts his own energy, spends his own time and money, and returns the South, solid for the National ticket, and these electoral votes are received without even a word of thanks, while northern States secure the benefits which hard fought over political territory must always give, even to the losers.

The principles of democracy in North and South, are shown by the election of November eighth, to be quite divergent. The National platform declared for certain issues, named a candidate who was said to stand for principles which were sure to secure the voters, and the result is seen—the South stands alone, giving its electoral vote, while the northern democrats, who named the man and platform, failed to give a single vote. It makes the South appear ridiculous. It had little voice in naming the nominee and in determining the platform, but gives a unanimous vote to assist the section which had all the say, but which gives no vote.

Henceforth there will be no South to give all, and receive nothing. There must be a political recognition after this, or the South will not give its solid vote for nominee and platform of the section which suits itself in the final vote, to cast it or not, as local conditions may best profit the party leaders.

As a political section, the South henceforth should dictate, instead of being made the compliant and easy tool of the politicians, who are for their individual interests, first, last and all the time.

RALEIGH.

Increase Number Farmers Institutes Held. Tobacco Mooves Freely, Cattle Raising section.

Raleigh, Nov. 8.—In an interview with Dr. T. H. Butler, State veterinarian, some very interesting things were learned about the Farmers Institutes held in North Carolina this year. There were 90 of these which is more than twice as many as were ever held in one year before. On an average about 150 farmers attended these Institutes, making a total of some 9,000. This is a very gratifying showing. A great deal of valuable instruction was given. The October bulletin of the agricultural department will consist entirely of selected talks before these Institutes by the different gentlemen who made the addresses or lectures. This matter will be found to be of great practical value. Next year there will probably be an even greater extension of the institute system.

Dr. Butler was asked about the work in regard to quarantine inspection of the cattle raising section of the State and replied that it had been finished both by himself and by the Federal inspectors. He is now waiting to learn how much more free territory has been added, as the inspectors will find how much more has been freed from the deadly cattle ticks.

It is learned from tobacco buyers here that farmers are now bringing in leaf quite freely. Prices are high. The weather has not been favorable for hand leaf until very recently and thus the farmers have been very busy with other crops. Wrappers are bringing from $30 to $35, and common grades are high. About a third of the crop has been sold it is said. Not over an average crop was planted in this section or east of here, but west of here there is a full crop and a good one as to quality. It is said that the farmers in that section will be strictly in it this year.

Professor Wade R. Brown of the School of Music at the Baptist University for Women has done a great deal to promote the love of good music here and is an admirable director. He has arranged for an artists recital at the University Friday evening by Madame Charlotte Maconas, soprano, and Miss Marie Nichols, violinist, and John J. Blackmore, accompanist. He says second is the greatest artist who has ever appeared in Raleigh.

Henry W. Litchford and James J. Litchford will leave this week for Texas and Mexico to be absent a month. They go to St. Louis and from there make the tour with the railway commissioners of the United States.

A Card.

Editor Journal: I have been repeatedly asked concerning the trial which took place before S R Street on yesterday afternoon in which trial I was sued by A D Ward for $150 for professional services alleged to have been rendered me by him and others at his request and employment. Since it was not reported, I write this card for the general information of the public. As soon as I was sued I employed counsel who asked for a jury trial before the Magistrate. The following jurors were sworn and empaneled to try the case between Mr. Ward and myself: C T Watson, M L Hollowell, W H Hancock, Henry Gaskins and J F Ives.

The jury decided in my favor and Mr. Ward was taxed with the costs of the action. Mr. Ward was represented by Messrs D L Ward, Mr. Mark Stevenson, Mr. R A Nunn, Mr. Geison appearing as a witness for them to show that the amount charged was a reasonable fee if Mr. Ward's statement was true.

My lawyers were W W Clark and R B Nixon. Nov. 8th B. B. DAVENPORT.

After Election Remark Expecting Roosevelt's Election.

Republicans Get 2,000 in Wilkes. Other Political Features of Election and Prophecies.

Leave For Trip to Mexico. Pas tor Returns.

Raleigh, Nov. 10.—Everybody took the election very quietly here. As one prominent man remarked there were no headaches or heartaches last night or this morning. Governor Aycock returned from Goldsboro this morning. He said that while he expected Roosevelt to be elected he expected Parker to carry New York State and certainly did not expect a slump like this one. When asked what he thought of North Carolina he replied: "She's all right. There is nothing the matter with North Carolina. You can always count on her to turn out all right."

One prominent man said he expected the next president to be a socialist, and a few minutes after this was said a telegram came to your correspondent from a Chicago paper, ordering the vote given Eugene Debs, socialist, for president, in North Carolina.

One of the happiest men was deputy U S Marshal Sharp of Wilson county who came in this morning, all smiles, and said: "My town, Elm City, gave 100 votes for Roosevelt, the first time such a thing ever happened. All were cast by white men. No negro attempted to register and not one was around the polls."

Glenn, nominee for Governor, will run away ahead of Parker in the voting, while Roosevelt will run away ahead of Harris, the Republican nominee for Governor. Some Democrats voted for Roosevelt, and he got a lot of the independent votes, mill operatives, etc.

The Republicans were quite jubilant at the 2,000 majority they got in Wilkes, and at the hundred majority they got in Stanley. Telegrams to State chairman, this morning said Dare had elected Etherage Democrat, to the House by about 50 majority, but that the county ticket was doubtful. The Republicans carried Sampson, of course aided by their friends the Populists by 800 majority. They claim it by 800. Gates county went Democratic by 900 and Columbus by 500 to 750.

Dr. and Mrs. D H Abbott left today for Mexico, to be absent a month, traveling through that country with the railway commissioners of the various States, who have left St. Louis on a special train for their tour. None of the corporation commissioners of this State make this trip, strange to say. They make a most delightful tour of a wonderful country. It is a pity for them to miss such an opportunity.

The Supreme court today took up the docket of appeals from the 11th district Among the attorneys present are O B Watson, Clement Manly, R F Taylor, Oxford, William B Rodman of Charlotte. Now that the election is over people will settle down to business and there will be some news at the Capitol. A lot of people don't want to talk much about politics. One man was asked if Cleveland had been nominated would he have been elected and said yes, with a whoop while another, a very prominent man, said in reply to the same question that Cleveland would have shared the fate of Parker, and intimated that Bryan was the only man who could be a winner. One man said the real trouble was that the Democratic National managers were second class men, and that Gorman was the only first class man among them, while the Republicans are putting in the very ablest men they can possibly find.

An elephant is without doubt the most difficult passenger to load of any in the world. It is rarely that the head of them can be induced to walk aboard a ship as did the traditional pair of elephants who boarded the ark. To overcome their objection they are usually first coaxed or forced to enter great wooden boxes, when they are securely fastened and the entire outfit is hoisted with a derrick to the level of the deck and swung aboard.

AFTER THE CYCLONE.

The Post Mortem and Inquest of the Great Political Killing.

Again the people have spoken and the Powers that were continue to be the Powers that are. In the words of the immortal Nelson, "we have met the enemy and we are theirs." The election was quiet, but the effect it produced was not conducive to the most pleasurable thoughts among those who represented the minority party. It was a signal rout the like of which has not occurred since U S Grant defeated Horace Greeley over 95 years ago.

Every Northern State gave Roosevelt an enormous majority; even the States which were thought to be doubtful and consequently to have a Democratic leaning came out bold and flatfooted for the opposing party. There was an increase in the Republican Congressional representation in almost every State.

The result in New York was the most surprising. With many things to favor Democracy in that State especially the election of the State ticket, it was a rude jolt to have it give Roosevelt the phenomenal majority of 155,000. It had been the fear among many leading politicians of the Republican party of that State that their candidate, Higgins would lose even if the State did carry for Roosevelt. And although he did run he had his ticket he was elected by the magnificent majority of 85,000. So it was in other States where it seemed that Democracy had a clench in view of disastations among the Republicans. Those States in every case either held their own or gave increased majorities.

Notable among those States were Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana. They not only gave a very large vote to Roosevelt but elected their State ticket by handsome majorities.

In North Carolina the result shows the apathy that has existed all through the campaign. In some districts the vote suffered very materially by the stay at home element. In others the fair sale of property had considerable influence as was seen in increased votes of the Republican party. The latter cause and the White Hill incident are attributed to be the causes of the defection in the usually large Democratic majorities given in this State.

Coming down to the more local part of the campaign, we must say that the Democratic party did splendidly in the support of their ticket. The third congressional district pursued Hon. Z. E. Thomas to the National House of Representatives by the very substantial majority of 6000 votes over his opponent, Judge W S O B Robinson. He is to be congratulated for his splendid campaign. He ran ahead of 150,000 in all the counties of the district.

Messrs Ward and Ansell, candidates for the State Senate also made a brilliant campaign and carried practically the unanimous vote of their party in Orange

TWO GREATEST MENAGERIES UNITED.

Rarest Wild Beasts With Interesting Histories.

No one competent to express an opinion of the subject ever questioned the claim that Adam Forepaugh's menagerie contained the biggest and rarest collection of wild beasts ever moved by rail or on foot. It is a collection such as a close second in cost and magnitude as to make the rivalry between them highly interesting. From Madison Square Garden, New York, to Melbourne, Australia, the surpassing result of combining these two travelling zoological gardens is well known. It is incidentally mentioned that in the last named city value and interest were added to the living aggregation by the purchase there of the enormous tigers forming a notable feature of its public zoological garden. One of these terrible creatures was shot seven times with a Winchester, at close range, in Mayville, Ky, in the effort to rescue a four-year-old keeper from its massive jaws. Some idea of its strength and vitality may be gathered from the fact that it still lives, with four balls in its body, three others having passed entirely through it. Among the recent additions are to be seen the extra ordinary and unprecedented number of fourteen-living, full grown Polar Bears, a single specimen of which was heretofore regarded as an exceptionally rare feature.

THE STATE ELECTIONS.

Returns on Congressmen and Majority Vote Conflicting.

The Journal had special from the western section of the State yesterday, mostly on the Congressional results.

In the tenth district Gudgeon received a majority over Ewart of 1160, against a majority of 187 in 1903.

In the fifth, W W Kitcher's majority over Reynolds was given at 2,000 to 4,000, against 8,500 in 1903.

In the ninth Webb's majority is estimated at over 2,000, in 1903 it was 5,500.

In the eighth, the latest list night from Charlotte was that democrats claimed Newland's election by 288 majority. Blackburn's friends claim that these figures are not correct, and that Blackburn is elected. The vote is very close but official count is expected to give it to Newland. In 1903 the district was democratic by 1,433.

Chairman Simmons claims Democratic majority in North Carolina is 60,000.
