tains psychic manifestations. Sir Lauder Brunton in writing on "Il'ruths and Delusions" in the Univermal Review says: "When we hear that a man is able to discover water at a considerable distance below the ground on which he stands we are at first apt to scout the idea as ridiculous, while if we were told that a caravan was crossing the desert and that all at once the thinsty camels started off quickly and at a distance of a mile or more water was found we would look upon the oc-Press. currence as natural."

Regarding the divining rod as a subject for investigation, the council of the Society For Psychical Research carnestly requested Mr. W. F. Barrett, professor of experimental physics in the Royal College of Science For Ireland, to inquire into it. With "great reluctance and even repugnance," as he stated, he yielded to their wishes and begau his examination, "boping, however, in my ignorance that a few weeks' work would enable me to rele-gate it 'into the limbo large and broad. since called the paradise of fools." "

A report of his long and putient research concerning the divining rod was contributed by Professor Barrett in a paper called "The So Called Divining od, or Virgula Divina." The ontcome of his personal investigations, of rellable evidence and scientific knowledge, unay be summed up in his own words: "The movement of the rod is not due to trickery nor any conscious voluntary effort, but is a more or less violent aunomatic action that occurs under certain conditions in certain individuals."

Having said so much, science still beaves us in ignorance regarding a human faculty which is the inbarftance of some individuals and is undoubtedby the same power that, through a comchette, under the hands of certain persens writes coherent and sometimes imint messages outside the range of their conscious intelligence and is the
