TEACH YOUR BOY A TRADE.

While specialties in professions being great results to those well versed in the the man who depends upon a salary. corporation or trades union, stands in a jury. precarious situation, especially when middle life has been passed.

This struggle of the salaried man has not ended. The tendency of large corporations to turn off men who may be fifty or sixty years of age, and take up men of twenty-five to forty years, is not likely to end, for there is no philanthrophp in this paying for labor, and the elderly man must exhibit the physical as well as the mental capacity, or be turned out upon a very chilly world, and unless skilled in some trade his fate is not an uncertain one, unless he may have been able to have saved a competency for his last days.

To the parent and guardian of today this ought to teach a lesson, that the boy of today should be taught a trade. Send the boy to a manual training school where a useful trade may be learned, so that no matter what he may death. He says: "Two years ago I follow in his life work, be it very different from any manual occupation, there will still be the trade ready to be taken up, should misfortune in some other business career overtake him.

No boy should be let grow up and go forth into the world without some trade well learned. There is not always a single means of livelihood which every man may follow successfully, therefore the value of being equipped through the science of a trade, so that the loss of a salaried position, though age or any peed not place the co from being dependents upon charity.

THIS SUMMER?

The above will not prove a hard New Bern, for perhaps with some, plans have already been made for visits or trips to the mountains, country, or sea shore, to the north or west, but to those who must remain here, and have some occupation which requires their presence at home, the matter of the summer, and what entertainment or amusement it may offer, is a subject of

For several summers, a few years ago: baseball offered the stay-at-homes plenty of fun. It was somewhat expensive amusement, when it came to games, for it has ever been found that the New Bern public is an amusement loving one, and give it an opportunity, manent cures by its use. Why suffer it will liberally patronize whatever is

THE PISTOL CARRYING DANGER.

The quarrel between two prominer itizens on the street at Goldsh last Monday night, followed by the other, places on record another instance of the dangers which must ever exist while men carry fire-arms, and especially such weapons that may be carried Funerai concealed in the pocket, or upon the

The man with the weapon can always feel a certain safety if not impudence in calling another a "liar", and quarrels are easily provoked into most serious affairs when the lie is passed.

"Shocking", "deplorable", "unfor unate", are some of the newspaper expressions regarding the Goldsboro shooting. Of course it is all these, not so much to the two men, perhaps as the wounded and murderer, but to those relatives and friends upon whom the burden of earing for the living and dead must fall, besides the odium of the disgrace which attaches to such an af-

But the danger is in the pistol carrying habit. It is too ready a means in this age to avenge a so called insult, for the armed man is usually prepared knowledge and skill of some one line, in every way to provoke an assault, and to settle the quarrel, so far as a man's and therefore upon the caprice of some life is concerned without judge or

> What North Carolina needs is the enforcement of the law against carrying concealed weapons, and making the penalty a severe one, so much so that nistal or any offensive weapon carrying will go out of use.

> It is not that men will not have quarrels, but it ought to be recognized in this civilization that personal and individual quarrels are not to be regularly adjusted by the pistol, which is to be carried concealed in order to be employed when the quarrel reaches its climax, for no quarrel has ever been settled by a murder, nor will the hasty taking of a human life ever prove that honor has received a just vindication.
