Gattis-Kilgo Trial Looks Long Lasting.

Death of Senator Ellington. Prospective increase State Revenues. Applicants Seek Admission to Hospital. Enlargement of Female Ward.

Raleigh, June 14.—Many persons appear to have an idea that the notable case of Gattis against Kilgo, now on trial here for the fourth time will be disposed of finally, but one of the leading attorneys when asked about the matter said: "No indeed, the case is not nearly as much ended as it was five years ago. At this trial it has entered upon a new and untried line. Whichever way it goes there will be an appeal. I can see no end in sight."

Adjutant General Robertson and Quartermaster General Macon have arranged all the details of the encampments of the National Guard and these are to be on a more complete plan than any heretofore held.

Today the directors of the hospital for the insane here met and arranged for the beginning of work on the new female ward which will be a wing extending westward from the old south wing and will be built on exactly the same plan as the main building, which Superintendent McKee says is one of the best constructed buildings in North Carolina, only two excellent it, these being the State Capitol and George Vanderbilt's house. The cost of the plan had to be reduced, as labor has greatly increased in cost as compared with last November when the plans were made. Superintendent McKee says that while masons then received $1.75 per day they now get $3.00 and carpenters wages have advanced from $1.50 to $2.50.

There are now 112 applications for admission to the hospital on file, 92 for females alone. The building is now crowded. The wing will give quarters for 156 women, by assigning two to a room. The health of the hospital patients has been remarkable, only one death having occurred this year, that of a man, of consumption.

State Auditor Dixon when asked if he thought there would be an increase of the State revenue this year said that he believed there would be as property is increasing in value, and the new law has placed in the hands of the corporation commission the collection of the income tax; with very much better machinery for listing and collecting. The striking out of what was known as the merchants' purchase tax will reduce the tax increase of course, this purchase tax having yielded last year $26,000. Dr. Dixon says it was never a just tax and ought not to have been imposed. There are no new subjects of taxation, the list having been very closely looked after. Taxes in this State are lower than elsewhere, as was shown by a case in which a Vance county man found that in settling an estate he had to pay on a thousand dollars worth of property in Mecklenburg, Va., $51 while in Vance county, this State, the amount would have been only $8.50.

Last night State Senator J. C. Ellington died very suddenly of heart disease at his home here. His health has been poor for a year or more, but his death unexpected. He is a native of Johnston and his father was a Baptist Minister at Clayton. He served gallantly throughout the Civil War and served several terms as State Librarian. He had a severe attack of pneumonia during the last session of the legislature. He was a devoted member of the Baptist church, at which the funeral was held this afternoon, Rev. Dr. W. C. Tyree, and Rev. Dr. R. T. Vann officiating. The remains were taken to Clayton for burial.

A HUMAN ARSENAL.

Alvin Adams Was Evidently Going To Fight For Japan or Russia.

Policeman Sam Howard arrested a man last evening who, if he had been sober and disposed to resist, might have given the officer the time of his life. The prisoner was Alvin Adams, white, an industrious man ordinarily but too fond of booze. He is on intimate acquaintance with the police on account of this habit and his offense has generally been leniently dealt with but while he was arrested for drunkenness a more serious charge may be made against him.

Adams was very drunk and was riding around the city in a transfer when Mr. Howard's attention was called to him. He directed the driver to take the man to the city hall where he was escorted to the cell.

Like all other prisoners put into the cell he was searched and therein lay the seed of this story. The first thing the police pulled out was a knife, another pull and another knife came out then a third knife. A hunt around the belt disclosed a pistol, a little more of a hunt revealed another pistol. "Great Scott" exclaimed Bill Bryan who was going through Adams' pockets, "what have we got here anyway, a traveling gun shop." He kept on digging and soon brought out another knife and then another and still more until eight knives of more or less value. Lastly came another revolver. Making a total of three pistols—two of them loaded, and eight knives.

Adams made no effort to conceal the possession of them and only passing conjecture was made as to how he came by them but it is dreadful to think what might have happened if the man had run amuck.

Adams is a state's witness in the case of the State vs. Chris Roach under arrest for the illegal sale of liquor. And if he will divulge the information, the authorities would be interested to know where he got his liquor yesterday.

RALEIGH

Parties To Buy Public Lands Eastern Carolina.

Consolidation Colored Normal Schools. Depot at Monroe. A Last Year's Sensation Considered Hard Case Against Powell.

Raleigh, June 15.—Next Monday the State Board of Agriculture will have an important meeting at which a number of persons will be present who desire to buy the public lands in the eastern part of the State known as swamp lands. The board will also decide as to the consolidation of the negro normal schools, of which there are now four. There is talk of having only two of these, the work of two of them being unsatisfactory.

General Manager Barr of the Seaboard Air Line notified the Corporation Commission that his road will build a substantial passenger station and also a freight depot at Monroe, these to cost about $60,000. This is done in response to a petition for such improvement, filed by the people of that town.

Among today's arrivals were E. A. Aiken, Brevard; J. A. Hinton, Wilmington; Stephen McIntyre, and J. G. McCormack, Lumberton; D. A. McDonald, Carthage.

One of the sensations last year was the discovery of a lot of very valuable diamonds in the ashes of a burned express car at Lucama, on the Atlantic Coast Line. It was long thought that those diamonds had been stolen, and an investigation has been in progress. This shows that the diamonds were going from Paris, France, to Havana, Cuba, by way of New York in registered mail; and that they were in bond, so to speak and were not stolen property.

In the trial today of J. B. Powell, the Norfolk man charged with swindling, he was again put on the witness stand today, in his own behalf. The district attorney cross questioned him in the very closest sort of a way. The government regards that it has made out a very strong case against Powell, and gave evidence that the latter had conducted similar fraudulent business at Norfolk, Smithfield, and a dozen or more other places; that he had killed a man in Kentucky, eloped with a girl from Smithfield, Va., and had been jailed for the latter offense.

The Spinning Mule.

Samuel Crompton, a boy of sixteen, copied the best features of the spinning machine invented by Hargreaves and Arkwright, added to them some of his own and, after three months of anxious and secret experimenting, produced the first spinning mule, so called because it was a kind of hybrid between Hargreaves' jenny and Arkwright's water frame. The raw apprentice lad was, however, no match in cunning for the cotton lords, who soon found out the secret of his new machine and shamelessly robbed him of the fruits of his ingenuity. Many years afterward, it is true, they used their influence to secure for him a parliament grant of £5,000, but he was then a broken hearted and disappointed man, to whom the money came too late to be of any real service.

A Woman's Tongue.

"Woman's tongue is her sword, which she never lets rust," wrote Mme. Necker. "The tongue is not steel, but it cuts," wrote Erasmus. "The tongue kills more than the Ottoman sword," wrote Vesik, the Ottoman statesman. Solomon, the embodiment of wisdom, wrote, "It is better to dwell in the corner of the house than with a brawling woman and in a wide house." Add St. James wrote, "The tongue is a little member and boasteth great things." However, the good King Arthur said, "Deny not to wanton the proper use of her tongue."

A Sure Cure.

"I don't care how severe a cold is," said the man who was not suffering from one, "I can get rid of it in one day."

"So can I," replied the man who was carrying three pocket handkerchiefs, "but suicide is repugnant to me."

Ending the Question.

Mrs. Otto Fitt—Now, professor, I want you to be perfectly frank with me and tell me exactly what you think of my rope. Professor Shoop—Ah, madame, how can you ask that of a member of a race that sees re-recognized for acts politeness—Cleveland Leader.

Just Her Idea.

"Have you seen my picture of Annas?" inquired the artist to a throng hanging on to his long ringlets. "No," replied a fair one; "I have not yet, but I have never thought Annas was quite as bad as he is painted."—Kansas City Independent.

The beloved of the Almighty are the rich, who have the humility of the poor and the poor, who have the magnanimity of the rich.—Senil.

Painless, Natural Childbirth.

Baby's coming into the world should be preceded by a certain preparation on the part of every woman who expects to become a mother. She owes it as a duty to her unborn babe, and to herself; her duty to her unborn babe is to use every means within her power to aid his entrance into the world. Baby cannot help himself in this ordeal, therefore mother must. He has a hard enough time after his arrival, so let us make his coming easy. His health in after life depends greatly upon the manner of his coming: would you have your child a cripple, or would you have him a tower of strength? Strong men are but grown-up children: a famous surgeon in Vienna, is devoting his life-work to the cure of little helpless cripples, deformed by birth; do not allow your child to become a cripple.
