SCHOOL ADVERTISING AND PROS-PERITY.

A commercial periodical calls attention to the great amount of advertising being done just now in the two Kansas this city. City newspapers, the Star and Times, by the higher schools and colleges, and notes this as indicating the prosperity now prevailing in the west.

By the same sign, increased school and college advertising, to look over the daily newspapers of North Carolina, there must be a notable absence of pros pe i y in North Carolina, just at pre ent, as an examination of the leading daily newspapers will show, for looking over three of the Sunday newspers, in three of the largest cities, in one there is one advertisement, the second has less than two columns, and the third about four columns, nearly one half being of educational institutions outside of North Carolina.

It would seem as if there was something lacking in the educational advance ment in North Carolina if the failure of the educational institutions to more fully present their claims for patronage and so let the world know and understand that education may be found at lieve him perfectly honorable in all home for the North Carolina boy and business transactions and financially girl, instead of going to some other able to carry out any obligations made where the colleges and schools are not slow to present their educational claims

AUTOMOBILES AND GOOD ROADS.

The local disposition in this city to ac cept new methods and new things, in other words to be up-to-date, is illustrated in the way of automobiles, this city being among the first, if not the first in North Carolina, to run these ma chines on its streets.

But with no effort in road improve ments in this city and county, rather a serious falling off, automobiles were not kept prominent here as means for rapid and convenient transit, and until a few months ago, when there was every indication that the local feeling was towards good roads, there has developed an interest in the automobile and a number of these road machines are now to be seen on the streets of New Bern, with orders for a number more of these rapid transit vehicles to be brought

A tax for any specific public improve ment cannot be considered a burden much less can a good roads tax be held as something to be opposed, for with good roads, all property values increase as does the business of a town to which good roads lead, over which the farmer may the more easily bring his products thus increasing the commercial prosperity. Good roads mean higher civilization, and therefore a higher moral tone in the communities where they are to be found.

TRANSPORTATION NEFDED TO FACILITATE GROWTH,

An agency which is very much need ed, in order that this city may develop and grow, is some modern means of transportation, by which residents at one or two miles distance from the business portion of New Bern, may have easy and quick access to their homes, to their business, or any part of

Good roadways are a public necessity, and equally so are lines of transportation, which place every secion of a city in close connection, and eading from a city, give the residential portion the chance to expand, and opens up sub-divisions near a city. where every working man may have and own his own house and lot.

And as has often been shown in these columns, New Bern's resident portion is crowded, houses are being erected in too close proximity for comfort or safety, and even with this crowding, the demand for houses is beyond the supply.

This means not only that this city i growing in population, but also that And yet there are no signs of hard the portion for residence building is and to prove the necessity that trans portation lines, electric or one equally as good, must be constructed and rur to meet the city's increasing demands, necessity in presenting their claims for that its people may be quickly and recognition and patronage, or do they cheaply transported from all sections
