RUSSIA'S BALTIC PROVINCES.
Local Authorities Resuming Control After Revolutionists are Crushed.
St. Petersburg, Jan. 5.—The Associated Press has been permitted to inspect a report prepared for the emperor regarding the situation in the Baltic provinces. The report declares that though open revolt has been crushed in many parts of the provinces and though the local authorities who were deposed by the revolutionists are resuming the reins of government under the protection of the troops, the situation is still a very serious one.
The advice received by the government report the capture of an important arsenal of the revolutionists at Temernik in southern Russia in which were found not only rifles, bombs and explosives but also a small field piece. Another arsenal near Nakhichevan caught fire and an explosion followed, resulting in the killing of twelve persons and the wounding of nine others.

The National Magazine for January.
Ben Franklin, whose 200th birth anniversary falls in this month, is limned in the January National Magazine as "The American Confucius." The author of this ingenious conception of "our one world's man" also sketches briefly and brilliantly the character and works of Thomas Paine, the "Horace Greeley of the American Revolution" and the immortal author of "The Age of Reason." These character studies are from the pen of John McGeever of Chicago, one of our most scholarly and poetic historians.
Kate Sanborn reviews the "Autobiography" of Dr. Andrew Dickson White, a really great living American, and Charles Warren Stoddard depicts delicately, sympathetically, yet intimately, the inner life of one of the best known women in our history—"Kate Field, Cosmopolite."
W. F. Melton writes, and M. L. Blumenthal illustrates, a quizical but shrewdly sensible account of what happens "when Jill goes to boarding school" in another tone is Stephen J. Coym's epitome of the new ideas put into practice at the University of Illinois, under the explanatory caption "A University That Means Business."
Other features of the number are "Woman as the Female," by Michael A. Lane, a scientific study of certain sex-phenomena commonly misunderstood by persons who discuss them loosely; "The Mulatto Negro; The Yellow Peril of the North," by Annie Riley Hale—a paper that will open the eyes of northern readers to social changes taking place very quietly and which are of the highest importance to all Americans; "Cowboy Life in the far Southwest," a series of seven typical ranch scenes reported photographically; "Doing Three Great Works—Capitals in Three Weeks," by Joe Mitchell Chaplin, and "Beauties of the American Stage," by Helen Arthur.
Success is stamped on every package. It is the most successful remedy known. It makes you well and keeps you well. That's what Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea does. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Sold by F. S. Duffy.

BANK INSOLVENT
Corporation Commission Orders Bank Examiner Haywood
To Take Charge at Rutherfordton Until Receiver is Appointed. Shows Assets $31,518. Business Conducted Unsafe Manner. Survey For R. & P. S. Railway into Raleigh. Bankruptcy Petition at Washington, N. C.
Special to Journal.

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—The corporation commission upon report of bank examiner F. J. Haywood, Jr., that the Bank of Rutherfordton has conducted business in an unsafe and unauthorized manner, jeopardizing the interests of depositors, and is now insolvent, orders that the examiner take charge, until the commission has a receiver appointed to wind up its business. D. F. Morrow of Rutherfordton is president of the bank, which at its last statement showed assets of $31,518. Its capital stock is $10,000, and it is credited with deposits of $18,996.
The city engineer is making survey for the entry of Raleigh and Pamlico Sound Railway into this city. The depot will be within few yards of the power house of the Raleigh Electric Co. Work on the road is now to be pushed very rapidly.
C. M. Willis and Co., Washington, N. C., filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities $1,948, assets $970.

Ducked to Escape Arrest.
Belhaven Bugle:
Quite a racket was raised at the N. & S. wharf last Monday night. As near as the Bugle man could ascertain the facts are as follows: Walter Grice, colored is wanted in Craven county for murder. It being supposed that he was in this vicinity, Mr. C. Lupton, a detective of New Bern, accompanied by a Mr. Brooks, for identification saw a colored man on the steamer which was about to leave for New Bern, and supposing him to be Grice, the man wanted, Brooks accosted him as Walter to which name the negro assumed, Brooks then attempted to draw his gun and called for help. As he did so the negro bolted across the wharf and jumped down on the railroad and secreted himself under the wharf in the water, and though diligent search was made he could not be found. Tuesday morning he gave himself up and proved not to be the man wanted. He said he remained in the water until 3 o'clock when he slipped out and went to a negro's house to warm. He stated that he lost his overcoat, hat, fifteen dollars in money and ticket to New Bern.—Send over another detective.

The March Designer.
With the March Designer begins an exceedingly interesting continued story "A By-Path in Atruria," by Mrs. Susie Bouchelle Wight, whose clever short stories are well known to magazine readers. It is charmingly and appropriately illustrated by J. A. Williams, and will run through several numbers. Craig S. Thoms contributes one of his characteristic articles, "The Seeds of Treason," accompanied by reproductions of photographs made by the author, and Anne O'Hagen supplies a most laughable little comedy, "A Question of Etiquette," for three performers. A short story, "The Revolt of Margaret Heywood," by the popular writer, Isabel Gordon Curtis, carries with it a hint to overambitious fathers of families, while "The Story of Billy," by Gabrielle E. Jackson goes far in encouraging humanity toward dumb creatures. "Our American Daughter" is told what she should read by Bertha Gaus, and Mary Kilguth gives information on "Tables and How to Buy Them." Miss Bertha Hasbrook tells how to make a living by being "The Babies' Haberdasher;" "Point on Dreammaking" instructs on the "Making of a Shirt-Waist Costume," and the Millinery Lesson shows "How to Make a Reception or Theatre-Hat." The two special fashion articles this month, aside from the regular showing of new standard designs, comprise "Confirmation Costumes" and "Lingerie Blouses and Shirt-Waist Costumes," both particularly seasonable.
How to Avoid Pneumonia.
We have never heard of a single instance of a cold resulting in pneumonia or other lung trouble when Foley's Honey and Tar has been taken. It not only stops the cough, but heals and strengthens the lungs. Ask for Foley's Honey and Tar and refuse any substitute offered. Dr. C. J. Bishop of Agnew, Mich., writes: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia with good results in every case." For sale by David Pharmacy.

Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers
If you want to see dollars grow, feed your soil with Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. They will "increase your yields per acre" and thus bring down the cost of production, even if you use fewer teams and less labor.
We have thousands of strong testimonials from farmers who have tried other makes of fertilizers and assert that are by far the best. They will give you crops that will make more money for you. Buy no other, even if some dealer endeavors to get you to buy some "cheap" brand just because he may make a little more profit on that. Of course, that would be to his interest—not yours.

SAD TRAGEDY
Suicide of Man and Woman at Raleigh.
Infatuation of Man For Woman. Could Not Leave Her. Another Dark Chapter in History of Capital City.
Raleigh, Jan. 8.—Jane Beasley, a colored woman residing at 532 South Martin street, Saturday night, rented a room to William H. Hood, of this city, who afterward returned accompanied by a woman by the name of Violet Page, an unfortunate in the "red light district," and the pair committed suicide in each other's arms in the bed which they had occupied in apparent good and usual health. More than the everyday touch of tragedy attaches to the affair, for the reason that the man was popular and esteemed among a wide circle of friends here in Raleigh as well as elsewhere, having married in this city, and leaving a wife and two small children as well as a mother and three sister and two brothers, all of whom reside here. The remains were removed last night from Brown's undertaking parlors to his late home and the interment will be made today. The expenses for the burial of the Page woman will be borne by the women who had been her associates.
Hood went to the home of Jane Beasley where he insisted on accommodation for the night for himself. The old woman at first refused (according to her own statement) then yielded and gave him the keys to the room. Somewhat later, between the hours of eleven and twelve Hood returned with Violet Page, and the two entered the room. The negro woman built a fire in the room on account of the complaints of the couple as to being cold, after which she went to her room near by and retired. There was, according to her statement no unusual sound, or anything to cause any alarm, until far up into the morning yesterday, when she heard heavy breathing. She was also alarmed when, no response was made to a continued and repeated knocking at the doors and window of the room. The room is a small one and has three doors, one of which opens into the piazza, another into the hall of the house, and the third into the room occupied by the keeper of the house. Failing after so many calls to arouse the occupants of the room the negro woman called relatives of the dead man and an officer of the police force. Policeman Buck responded and found the unfortunate pair locked in embrace. The woman was dead but some signs of life still were apparent in the man. A physician was instantly summoned, as was the county coroner, but Hood was beyond skill and all human aid. An inquest was held. The verdict was all there could be—death by means of laudanum. Hard by the bed whereupon rested the inanimate forms there rested nine empty bottles, of the two ounce size, drained of their contents and bearing the label of a Greensboro druggist. This view greeted the gaze of relatives and the officer who was forced to break in the door behind which so great tragedy was lurking.
Violet Page, if she was professionally called, was one of the younger set of women who Rev. Dr. Massees, of the Baptist Tabernacle had tried to recall, whom he had rescued and sent from the city some months ago. She had for long possessed an influence over Hood that was at times irresistible, and it was only a short time ago, possibly within the scope of ten days, that he was taken from her and sobered after a drinking spell that had covered several days. Again and again he had returned to her and they had made several trips together over the railroads in this vicinity. The woman at first applied to Bertha Brown, with whom she had lived for a room Saturday night, but was refused, and it is supposed that other places were tried, with equal fruitlessness, until the room of the negro Jane Beasley was secured. It seems there was some feeling between the dead woman and those with whom she had lived, and it was not until she had been, went to spend her later days.

Return of the Favorites
The Peruchi-Gypzene Co., who appear in repertoires at the opera house this week, had for their opening play last night, "In The Devil's Web," a French comedy-drama. They were welcomed with a well filled house. The play is like hundreds of others and has a few redeeming things about it. The company all around are very capable, and give a good show.
The specialties are very clever and enjoyable. Miss Gypzene is a charming and graceful comedienne and her act was well received. Peruchi, the great speller, is as great as ever and his little specialty of making the announcements is "all cream."
The show tonight will be "The Romance Above the Clouds." Wednesday the mid-week matinee entitled "The Midnight" will be given.

The Big Troubles.
In arranging a piggy bank the trouble so placed that any food left over by the animals may be easily removed, and fix the troughs so that they may be emptied as soon as the swine have drunk all the pure water they need.—Farm Journal.
Plan a Silo.
Too late now to make corn silage, even though you possess a silo. But if not yet so equipped this is a favorable time to post up on its merits and begin planning to have one.
Comfort in the Stables.
As the cold increases, if you find that the stables are not warm enough, building paper liberally used and carefully put on will help the matter. It is cheaper than anything else.
The Onion Bed.
Cover the onion beds that were set last fall with a dressing of finely composted manure. They will need no tending in the spring and will be ready for use much earlier.
Salt For Hens.
One ounce of salt for 100 fowls is sufficient for each day. They will not be poisoned if salted regularly. An overdose, of course, is fatal.

life insurance policy of two thousand dollars ($2,000) to his wife. Then too, Hood had tried to give up hard drinking by treatment at Keeley and at other like places in the State. He had held several positions of responsibility, one of which was with the register of deeds, who had a high regard for his services and ability. Later he was connected with one of the drygoods stores here, where he worked until Christmas eve. It so turns out that he had been twice married, having obtained a divorce from his first wife.
The name of the dead woman is said to have been Bessie Pendley, and she had been an inmate of an orphanage, leaving which she went to Durham, where she worked in a cotton mill, and leaving which, she came to Raleigh with Bertha Brown, a notorious woman who has figured so frequently in the police courts of Raleigh and Durham. The dead woman was about 22 years of age, slender and graceful in full figure and with a not unpleasing face, crowned by auburn hair.
Large numbers of persons viewed the bodies in the undertaker's dead-room. It was not until after dusk that the body of Hood was taken to his late home. His father was a Confederate soldier and one of the first men in this county, and was for years a clerk in the office of register of deeds and later held that position. He had lost one arm in service. Yesterday's tragedy adds one more horror to Raleigh's list which has been quite marked in the past few years, and it will attract attention to Raleigh's tenderloin district, against which so much has recently been said, and the area of which was reduced some years ago by court proceedings instituted by indignant citizens.

Special to Farmers!
We would advise all who contemplate using lime on their land this season to try granulated oyster shells, the new and convenient way of preparing shells for quick results and lasting effects, to use with fertilizer distribution. This form preserves all the virtue of the original shells, which is known to be lime, ammonia, nitrogen, and salt, besides much animal matter, easier and safer to handle than quick lime, and costs less and lasts longer, packed in 200 lb bags. The output of this plant limited, so would advise your ordering a trial lot at once. The leading Farm Journals of the country are strongly urging the lime land certainly you can't go astray in buying this product of which every farmer in eastern N. Carolina knows the merits.
The Fertilizer, Shell and Bone Co. of New Bern, N. C. can furnish further information.

Chase and Sanborn,
Tea and Coffee Importers.
Boston, January 2nd, 1906.

Mr. E. B. Hackburn, New Bern, N. C.
Dear Sir:—Again we have the pleasure of reporting to you that our record for the year just closed shows a still greater increase in your coffee purchases than in the previous year. Your success during the years you have handled our lines commends our hearty congratulations. This accomplished increase in your trade, we believe, is aided alike by your energetic and satisfactory business methods, and the fact that our goods are uniformly of a superior quality.
As evidence of this constant increase, we beg to advise that in 1904 your shipments amounted to 6,340 pounds, while in 1905 they were 8,752 pounds, a gain of 2,212 pounds.
We earnestly express our full appreciation for your continued good will and support, and extending our best wishes for a happy and prosperous New Year, we beg to remain,
Yours very truly,
