Longworth—Roosevelt Nuptials.

Washington, D. C. Feb. 17.—The marriage of Miss Alice, the eldest daughter of President Roosevelt, and Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Ohio, took place at noon today and it was the principal event of the social life at the capital. For weeks it has been heralded far and wide and the energies of the family and friends to make the rare event of a wedding in the White House historical and memorable.

A few minutes before noon Bishop Satterlee of Washington and Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. Johns Episcopal church arrived in the east room and took their places within the ribbon bounded enclosure forming a barrier around the floral altar. Following soon after were the bridegroom and his best man Thomas Nelson Perkins. They awaited the arrival of the bride party who, as the great bell in the observatory sounded the hour of noon, entered the room, the marine band playing the Lohengrin wedding march. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, the President. The mother and brothers and sisters, and after them the relatives of the contracting parties occupied places of advantage around the altar.

During the solemn and impressive ceremony the boys' choir from St. John's church sang an aria from "Elijah", "Be Thou Faithful Unto Death," and a selection from the Canticles "My Beloved Cometh."

The bride's dress was made of silk specially woven for the occasion in the silk mills at Paterson, N. J. It was made in the princess style and became the young woman handsomely. The gown was trimmed with rare old lace heirlooms of the family.

After a reception in which both bride and groom mingled freely with the guests, the wedding luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Longworth were taken to the Pennsylvania depot where a private car was waiting on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Their destination is not known but it is rumored that they have gone to Florida for a fortnight's sojourn.

Printer Killed.

Special to Journal:
Raleigh, Feb. 17.—John W. Clark, a young unmarried compositor associated until yesterday with the State Printing office in Raleigh was found this morning in a dying condition near the Seaboard Air Line railroad tracks south of Hamlet. It is supposed that a fall from the train caused injuries, which resulted in death today. He was identified by a union card carried in his pocket. Friends in Raleigh were telegraphed and the remains were brought here tonight. He was a native of Lynchburg, Va.

THE SURVEY BOARD

Its Work to Interest Outside Capital

To Stake Out Shad and Other Fish Boundaries. Oldest Citizen of Wake County Dead. George Upchurch. Prisoner For Pen.

Raleigh, N. C., February 17.—Deputy Sheriff Nolan of Haywood county brought to the penitentiary Jno. Smiley, a white man who was sentenced to two years for manslaughter, having on Christmas day killed a white man by the name of Caldwell. Governor Glenn is in receipt of a letter requesting his good offices with the prison authorities in behalf of road improvement in Duplin county. This movement is starting up all over the eastern part of the State and the people are awakened to the fact that good roads are one of the chief essentials of a sections growth and progress.

Mr. George C. Upchurch, the oldest citizen of Wake county, and during his lifetime a resident of Raleigh, passed his ninety-fourth birthday day Wednesday last and is dead at his old home on Wilmington street. He is survived by a large family of children and grand children.

A meeting will be held at Mantoe, February 21, at which occasion representatives from the national government and members of the North Carolina Board of Geological Survey will co-operate in staking of the boundaries of the open way for the shad and other fish coming from the Atlantic Ocean into and through Albemarle Sound to their spawning grounds. This co-operation also means that the department at Washington will assist the State in maintenance and protection. By this means the industries so named will be very materially increased.

Acting State Geologist recently attended a meeting of the citizens of Chapel Hill township to discuss the question of better public roads in the township. A number of calls have been made recently upon members of the geological staff to meet county commissioners in different parts of the State, and it is the wish of the department to assist such people as to give information regarding macadamized roads and as to how best to raise bonds for such construction.

The report on Building and Ornamental Stones for the State is now ready to be sent to the State printers. This report discusses the various deposits and their economic importance. It shows the State is well stored with stones of the granitic type, and it is probably better supplied than any other Appalachian State south of New England. Attention is also called to undeveloped deposits that are so well worth quarrying, and reference is made to the beautiful samples displayed at the St. Louis Exposition.

In order to effectually distribute the publications of the Board of Geological Survey they will be placed in the hands of those looking for investments, there will be active co-operation with boards of trade, chambers of commerce and other like organizations, by whom they will be filed for immediate reference and information. To this end extra copies will be available to those who may desire them. The board also desires to come into and keep in a closer touch with all such bodies throughout the State for their mutual furtherance. This will apply to the varied resources of the State and will take up any line correspondence with inquirers as to mineral deposits, water power, etc. It is expected that in this way the great stores of information collected by the board can be disseminated as a fund of general assistance to the people of North Carolina. This will also have special bearing as to inducing people from other places or States to consider the undeveloped powers that are bound up with the State.

Killed in Railway Accident.

Special to Journal:
Raleigh, Feb. 17.—Carey G. Thompson, a passenger conductor on the Cape Fear and Northern railroad, and prominently connected in Raleigh was killed this noon at Holly Springs, a station in Wake county, by the overturning of an engine. He is survived by a wife and two small children, and his mother Mrs. J. M. White, who lives at Apex, a few miles distant from Raleigh. Thompson had made his run and went back on an engine to take up some other cars, when the accident to the engine occurred.

Death of Miss Lucy Rishon.

Miss Lucy Rishon died at the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore Sunday night where she went for treatment last week. She had been a great sufferer for many years but she bore her complaints with most remarkable Christian fortitude. The remains will arrive in New Bern on the train from the North, and will be transported to the Methodist church, where the funeral service will be held at half past three this afternoon. Friends desiring to view the remains may do so any time prior to the funeral.

All members of the Epworth League are requested to meet in their room promptly at 3 o'clock today to attend the funeral of Miss Lucy Rishon. T. W. CROWDER, Pres. MISS BESSIE PARSONS, Secy.

W. & N. C. LEASE

Effect of Annullment on Stock.

What Might Happen. Will Take Cashiership Excursions to Pleasure Social Features. Briggs Candidate for Raleigh Postmastership.

Raleigh, Feb. 19.—A deep-spirited interest pervades all mention here of the suit of stockholder Hill to annul the lease of the Atlantic & North Carolina railroad, which was heard by Judge B. F. Long without jury, and will be decided by him, with an early announcement. A man in Raleigh, prominent in the affairs of the State, though not a State officer, in speaking to your correspondent said: "The material point is, the stockholders are uneasy, because the annullment of the lease to R. S. Howland, of Asheville, and as made in September 1904 for a term of ninety one years, would mean or not mean so much to them. This lease was as you will recall, on a graded rental from three per cent reaching up to seven per cent, while the lessees were to pay off the floating debt immediately, and also buy the supplies on hand. In addition to this there was also to be expended in improvements the sum of $250,000, within a period of three years. So far the floating debt has been paid, the supplies were bought according to contract and about $200,000 has been expended in permanent improvements. Then in addition to all this about $300,000 is being and will be spent in bridging and extending the road into Beaufort. Mr. Hill owned one share of the stock of the road before the lease, and later bought another share. Another thing, too, lies in the fact that Craven county has joined in suit, through a vote of the county commissioners. As it is an annullment means the repayment of all the improvement money besides any damages sustained by the lessee, and it is feared the result will be a sale of the road. It is already mortgaged and the stock was worth about twenty-five cents before the lease question was brought up, while now it is worth sixty five cents on the dollar. Of course the foreclosure sale is bound to mean a great drop in the price or worth of the stock. There is now for sale quite a little of the stock, which can be had for less than the price recently paid."

From many years association with the insurance interests of the State and of the City of Raleigh Mr. Charles Root of this city, secretary and treasurer of the North Carolina Insurance Co. of Raleigh, will step into the cashier's place at the Raleigh Savings Bank which place was made vacant by the death of James O. Litchford. He will assume the duties of his new post March 1. Mr. Charles Root carries with him all the essentials that go to the fitting of a literal banker.

A new feature in the life of the younger social set of Raleigh was yesterday instituted when a party of about twenty men and women went to Pinehurst, where they will spend the day. It is the intention of the people here to make many journeys to this favorite resort.

It is announced that an additional man, in Raleigh, Willis G. Briggs, has entered the race for the Raleigh postmastership, along with John W. Harden. Mr. Briggs is one of the popular men in the city—of the younger set, and it is said will have some splendid backing if he makes the run in earnest. He was city editor of the Raleigh Morning Post, until that paper suspended publication, and since then has effectively served as city editor of the Raleigh Evening Times.

Many men give lavishly of gold, To build bridges and castles and towers of old; If you want everlasting fame, a benefactor be, Give the poor needy Rocky Mountain Tea.

Several days ago the Journal announced that Congressman Thomas had secured an appropriation for the deepening of Bogus Inlet. The success of the measure should, however, be largely attributed to the splendid efforts of Gen. W. H. Willis, a well known resident of Wards Mill. He has been impressed with the necessity of this matter and has worked energetically to obtain his object. He naturally is very much gratified to see it accomplished. The mariners and all others interested in the improvement will doubtless appreciate his efforts in their behalf.

STAND PAT

is Call Made To Cotton Farmers.

South Carolina Farmers Put up $10,000. President Moore Not Holding Office for Politics.

Raleigh, Feb. 19.—President Moore recently been quoted a number of times in "The Rural South", a paper published in Alabama, and by the cotton growers, and in a section where much good is being done by thorough organization and the co-operation of the merchants and parties to other enterprises. The wires from Atlanta asked the question: "Is pledged cotton being sold?" and then added: "Decline is unwarranted. Stand pat." Replies from responsible and prominent holders of spot cotton all over the South were to the effect that those pledged for 15 cents were holding on firmly, that cotton was not selling. From South Carolina president Moore has fine news as to progress and determination. In that State the farmers have paid in $10,000 on the basis of the levy of 10 cents per bale. Georgia has exceeded all other States in funds for the use of the association, but a great part of the money received has been contributed by the bankers, merchants and manufacturers, who were so desirous to see the farmers placed on a firm and sure footing. Mr. Moore says: "The truth and fact lies just here, that the business men are more than ready and willing to assist the farmers to launch their enterprise of a sustained market, but they want, at the same time, to be assured that the farmers are honestly and earnestly supporting their own organization, and are doing nothing at all to retard its force and advancement."

Mr. Moore spoke with enthusiasm of the Alabama association, which has seven organizers at work in the congressional districts, and of the development in Arkansas, Mississippi, and Texas. In the last named State E. D. Smith, the national organizer is at work in person. There have been those already who have sounded a note to the effect that Mr. Moore is in the association for "politics." Your correspondent is assured by cotton farmers and others from all over the State that such a thing is not even a passing thought with this chief officer of the State association. Mr. Moore, perhaps even better than all the others who are directly or indirectly associated with him in this splendid enterprise he has undertaken, realizes fully and also expresses his realization that political play can only result in the attuning of a prelude to the death march of the Southern Cotton Association, and Mr. Moore is not in politics.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Two Sides of Griffith Street.
Much has been said and written about the bad condition of Griffith street. The city has made temporary repairs from time to time and sunk money enough in the mud of that street to have paved it from Queen to Crescent with Belgian blocks, cobble stones, or any other paving material. The condition of the roadway has become a kind of moss covered joke, but it is no joke for the beasts who have to draw loads along it. That street is no doubt a perplexing question to the city administration because thoroughness is not a characteristic of New Bern's public work. Not at present. There is a moral as well as a financial question involved in letting Griffith street remain in its present condition. No one can deny that it is cruelty to animals to compel them to draw heavy loads day after day through the mud of Griffith street. The mills must have an outlet for their products therefore the road must be kept open. Then it is up to the city administration to see that it is kept in passable condition, and the citizens should demand that the administration do its duty, otherwise it may be that the "blood of the dumb beasts will cry against" the whole city. Again, have the owners of the animals who draw loads along Griffith street, ever paused to consider the enormous wear and tear on the bodily strength of the animals? This involves a heavy loss of money if taken in the aggregate.

AWFUL PSORIASIS 35 YEARS

Terrible Scaly Humor in Patches All Over the Body—Skin Cracked and Bleeding—Itching Unbearable—Cured by Cuticura in Thirty Days at Cost of $4.75.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE BY CUTICURA

"I was afflicted with psoriasis for thirty-five years. It was in patches all over my body. I used three cakes of Soap, six boxes of Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent. I bathed with the Soap, applied the Ointment once a day, and took the Resolvent as directed. In thirty days I was completely cured, and I think permanently, as it was about five years ago."

"The psoriasis first made its appearance in red spots, generally forming a circle, leaving in the center a spot about the size of a silver dollar of sound flesh. In a short time the affected circle would form a heavy dry scale of a white silvery appearance and would gradually drop off. To remove the entire scales by bathing or using oil to soften them the flesh would be perfectly raw, and a light discharge of bloody substance would ooze out. That scaly crust would form again in twenty-four hours. It was worse on my arms and limbs, although it was in spots all over my body, also on my scalp. If I let the scales remain too long without removing by bath or otherwise, the skin would crack and bleed. I suffered intense itching, worse at nights after getting warm in bed, or blood warm by exercise, when it would be almost unbearable."

"To sum it all up, I would not go through such another ordeal of affliction for thirty-five years for the State of Kansas. (signed) W. M. Chichester, Hutchinson, Kan., April 20, 1905."

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Resolvent are sold throughout the world. Fuller Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston, U.S.A. "See How to Cure Torturing Humors."

GOVERNOR GLENN'S ADDRESSES.

He Held His Audiences in Delighted Enthusiasm at the Methodist Church.
The visits of Governor Glenn to New Bern the past few months have been red letter days in the political religious secular history of the city. His advent is always the signal for a crowded house for when he is advertised to speak are sure of a treat. It is rare indeed to have a man in authority, a Governor of a State who can take the place of a minister and fill it to the satisfaction of his audience. Governor Glenn has preached a lay sermon twice in the city and given evidence of a thorough religious training and knowledge of the scriptures.

He was in New Bern Sunday in the interests of temperance and his address in the Methodist church in the afternoon was the same that he has delivered in different cities throughout the State and he is making a record in a most practical way that prohibition must be successful and he certainly can not be held responsible for its failure.

His campaign he is carrying on more to keep the question before the people than to accomplish anything of a political nature and his knowledge of the conditions in different parts of the State enables him to put his facts in a much more convincing manner than happens anyone else in the State.

His talk bore on the duty of the citizens to uphold the laws of the State. The officers have sworn that they will enforce the laws of the State and protect the interests entrusted to their care. The existence of "blind tigers" shows that there is a failure in the duty of officers to bring the guilty parties to justice and they should be held responsible for such derelictness. He took up with a thorough and convincing argument each proposition made by anti-temperance men and showed how prohibition could be successful if temperance would co-operate with the officers. He showed that it was successful in High Point, Dunn and other places in the State.

He dealt telling blows to those who maintain that a big source of revenue is cut off and that educational interests and municipal improvements will suffer. The money that is expended on liquor will be more than enough to provide for both of these and it will be found on trial that the money which has hitherto been wasted for drink will, if spent wisely, be sufficient for many things that had been denied.

He said that capital and labor were the two giants that would make war against each other and that they would invade even the sacred precincts of the home. As long as there are combines of wealth, there will be combines of labor and as long as the two exist strikes and labor difficulties will fill this world with wee. He said that the fifth commandment had been reversed in these later days to be "Parents obey your children that there may be peace in the household" and that one great cause of the social conditions was the lax government in the family.

It was an earnest and helpful appeal to young men and none left the church without being benefited by the talk.
