REV. KNOWLES PREACHES

A Fine Sermon at the Presbyterian Church Sunday Night.

Rev. R. E. Knowles, of Galt, Canada, who with his wife has been a guest of Mrs. E. B. Ellis for several days preached in the Presbyterian church Sunday night to a large and delighted audience. His sermon was a beautiful discourse which was not only one of rhetorical and scholarly finish, but it was of practical benefit. The theme was the value of sacrifice. He made many fine comparisons to illustrate his subject, notably the sacrifice that a mother makes for her child or the patriot for his country. The man in business often has to make sacrifices and yet in all of these cases the love of the person does not decrease on account of his or her privation but on the other hand it increases the love for the object for which the sacrifice has been made. No great thing is accomplished without giving up time or money, some times it may appear that a sacrifice is unavailing or needless but it trains the heart and puts it nearer to God who sacrificed his Son.

Rev. Knowles has gained wide reputation as an author. His recent book, St. Cuthberts has attained immense popularity and ranks among the prominent books of the year. While in New Bern he is writing another book.

V. I. Department

ORIGIN OF BAGPIPES

IT IS FOUND IN THE ANCIENT REED, OR SHEPHERD'S PIPE.

In Early Times There Were Many Different Kinds of Bagpipes in Use in Europe—The Highland, Lowland and Irish Varieties.

According to the encyclopedia, the bagpipe is a wind instrument the fixed characteristic of which has always been two or more reed pipes attached to and sounded by a wind chest, or bag, which bag has in turn been supplied either by the lungs of the performer or by a bellows. The original instrument was presumably the simple reed, or shepherd's pipe, which was well known to the Trojans, Egyptians, Greeks and Romans. But the strains of blowing these ancient pipes was so great that some genius conceived the idea of having a reserve supply of wind in a bag attached to the pipes, and hence the bagpipe. The first real instrument is believed to have been a skin of a goat or kid, with two pipes, through one of which the bag was inflated, the other emitting the sound.

In early times the bagpipe was common in Great Britain and abroad. At one time there were five different kinds known on the continent, some inflated by the mouth and others by bellows, while in the British Isles three kinds were known—the great highland bagpipe, the lowland bagpipe of Scotland (which closely resembled the Northumbrian and the Irish bagpipe).

In the great highland bagpipe, which originally had but one drone, a valved tube leads from the mouth to an airtight bag, which has four other orifices, three large enough to contain the base of three fixed long tubes, termed drones, and another smaller, to which is fitted the chanter. The three are thrown on the shoulder, while the latter is held in the hands. All four pipes are filled with reeds, but of different kinds. The drones are tuned by means of sliders, or movable joints, and this tuning of preparation for playing, which generally occupies a few minutes of the pipe's time before he begins the tune proper, is heard with impatience by those not accustomed to the instrument. Indeed, it gave rise to the saying, applied in Scotland to those who waste time over small matters, "You are longer in tuning your pipes than in playing your tune."

The Scottish lowland bagpipe, like the Northumbrian pipe, was in two forms, one consisting of a smaller and milder toned edition of the highland instrument and the other a miniature of this and having the same relation to it as the flute has to a German band. Its great drawback, from the point of view of the devotees of the highland bagpipe, is that it is unsuited to perform what they consider the perfection of pipe music—the pibroch. These small pipes were, however, gentler than the highland, having the same tone, but less sonorous. It was to the strains of such a bagpipe that Chaucer tells us the company of pilgrims left London, and it is the same instrument that is alluded to in Shakespeare as the Lincolnshire bagpipe.

The Irish bagpipe is the instrument in its most elaborate form and is supplied with wind by a bellows. The drones are all fixed on one stock and have keys which are played by the wrist of the right hand. The reeds are soft and the tones very sweet and melodious, and there is a harmonious bass which is very effective in the hands of a good player. The Irish instrument is fast dying out.

The bagpipe, though at one time fairly common, never obtained a firm hold in England. It lost favor and gradually deteriorated until it is now practically extinct. The average Englishman neither appreciates nor understands it. A famous poet irreverently once compared its notes to "the shrill screech of a lame goose caught in corn," while another heretic writer likens its sound to a "horrible, noisy, mad Irishman" or to the cries of the "eternally tormented." To the Irish people it appeals more strongly. They still possess in a degree the feeling of attachment to the bagpipe which is so general among Scotsmen. But it is undoubtedly more closely associated with Scotland, both in the highlands and lowlands, than with any other country, the particular instrument in use being the great highland bagpipe, which, as already explained, consists of three drones, including the big drone, which was added about the beginning of the last century. It is this type which has gradually superseded the lowland pipe. There is no doubt that the bagpipe was in use in Scotland from a very early period, and it is in Scotland that it has been brought to the highest degree of perfection. Its music distinctly connects it with Scotland, as is clear in the pibroch, the strathspey, the reel, the march and other popular melodies. There are proofs that the instrument was cultivated in Scotland certainly in the twelfth century and of its universal popularity as early as the fifteenth century, while in the seventeenth century nearly every town in the highlands and lowlands boasted of its pipe—London Globe.

SHORT PASSING EVENTS.

The February list of phonograph records embraces a fine lot of current songs, instrumental pieces, and dialogues which are very pleasing to hear.

A journeyman painter painted some ads on the O. Marks store building yesterday in a very clever manner. Aside from being an artist he was one of the fastest workers that has been here for some time.

It is said that Ex-Serator Butler is promoting a scheme to establish an afternoon Republican paper in Wilmington. A part of the money subscribed has been paid and devoted to buying equipment for the office. The paper will appear about April 1.

There was an electric storm Sunday night; the lightning was quite sharp but the thunder not marked. A small quantity of rain fell.

The Trinity College Glee Club will give a concert at the opera house Monday March 5.

Woman's Club will have their regular business meeting at the Elks Club rooms this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Romeo Brock was fined two dollars and costs yesterday by Justice S. R. Street for assaults on his wife and her mother, Sabra Boomer.

The literary department of the Woman's Club will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Elks Club rooms.

The Plain Sewing Department of the Rector's Aid Society of Christ Church gave an enjoyable entertainment at Hughes hall last night. The program consisted of a pleasing medley of music and recitations. Prominent among them were operatic and current popular songs which were well rendered. There was a large number in attendance. The proceeds were for the parish house.

Mr. J. S. Basnight received a telegram yesterday announcing the death of J. W. Knowles, a well-known lumber man of Baltimore at the age of 80 years. He was one of the most widely known and highly respected dealers in lumber circles. He was a personal friend of Mr. Basnight.

A True Celebration

Washington's birthday was celebrated last Thursday in many different ways, by the public schools of our great United States, but at no place could true loyalty and patriotism exceed the spirit that was shown by the children of "Paradise School," at Mansfield.

The programme commenced with singing and speaking by the pupils, with an occasional address by their heads.

Mr. A. Asa Nichols, Rev. Avery and Mr. Tolson, giving very interesting talks.

Much disappointment was felt when it was learned that Dr. Sanders and Supt. Ennett, were not able to attend as expected.

After the indoor exercises were over our attention was called to those of the outdoor order, which was the marching—in true military style—of all the scholars decorated in keeping with the day. They lined up in the building, and with the aid of a drum, marched in perfect step to where four trees had been planted in honor of the day, and bore the names of Washington, Lafayette, Education and Carolina.

It was a beautiful sight to see each fair young girl, step from the ranks of their school mates—as they stood in line around the tree—and repeating lines suited to the character represented by the tree, place a wreath upon it.

It would not be just to mention any one pupil with praise, but they all deserve great credit for the patriotic spirit shown in their work.

The teacher, Mr. W. C. Murdoch, who is held in high esteem by the scholars and parents of this section, gave proof of his ability to guide and direct the growing minds and hearts of these coming citizens of 'The Old North State.'

I was pleased to note a large attendance, and the appreciation shown by everyone.

The large assemblage turned home-ward, after giving three rousing cheers for this faithful teacher, who had given us all a lesson in patriotism.

BUSY TIMES FOR FIREMEN.

Two Fires Within the Space of Three Hours

Keeps Fire Laddies Hustling.

A fire is no respecter of a man's comfort or duties and it delights in nothing so much as to call a man out in the cold and dark night to battle with the devouring element. Sunday night at about half past eight the tool house in the rear of Mr. Jesse Harrison's residence, 183 Pollock street was discovered on fire. The department quickly got it out. The damage was slight. As no fire had been used in or around the building, it is believed that the fire was incendiary.

A little more than two hours later an alarm was turned in from box No. 47 at the corner of New South Front and Spring streets. The fire proved to be a two story dwelling occupied by Nancy Paton and owned by Mary Jane Moyer. The fire made quick work of the place and was beyond control of the firemen. The contents were destroyed also. The entire loss is estimated at $500. The origin of the fire is unknown. Other property belonging to Mary J. Moyer adjacent to the building was threatened but was saved by the firemen.

LARGE CLASS CONFIRMED.

The Membership of Christ Church Increases By Substantial Addition

Sunday night Bishop Strange confirmed a class of twenty four persons at Christ church. It was one of the largest classes that has been taken in for many years and it marked an epoch in the history of the church. The ceremony of confirmation was solemn and impressive. After the ceremony and before the new members had taken their seats, Bishop Strange made a few remarks impressing upon them the importance of the step they had taken. He said they had become separated from the world and that upon them along with other church members rested the integrity of the church. The world would behold them with critical eye and the influence of the church would be limited by their conduct.

Bishop Strange preached a very able sermon on the theme of Right Living. The text was Micah 6:8, "And what doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God." The prophet referred to the incident of Balaam in order to show the power of God. Would God like us to bring burnt offerings of our flocks and herds, of the abundance of our wealth if our heart were not with the gift? Is it not when men do justly and love mercy that their lives rise like incense to the throne of heaven.

If a man should come to me and ask what do these things include; must I join the church? Yes. Must I confess Christ? Yes. The Savior gives us the assurance of his promises if we comply with this injunction. He mentioned several scripture passages to show what reward awaits him who does his Christian duty.

REMOSS FOR THEFS

Said to Be The Cause of Attempted Suicide

By John Bowen, Coler.

Sunday afternoon John Bowen, colored, employed as a bell boy at Hotel Chattawaks, tried to commit suicide by swallowing laudanum. He sat down to the writing table in the hotel office, and was seen to put a bottle to his mouth and drain the contents. He threw the bottle down and went up stairs. He was followed by one of the attaches of the hotel and had not gone far before he fell overcome by the drug. Dr. Ward, whose office is in the hotel building was immediately summoned, and with the aid of Dr. Hughes got the poison out of him. He vital contained an ounce of laudanum. He recovered.

It is said that the boy had a fear he would be arrested for stealing some money, and although he had returned it to the owner he was stricken with remorse over the deed. Bowen was removed to his home up town.
