

The Professor and the Lion.

By J. Sackville Martin.

Bravery, Doctor, said my friend the third officer, isn't such a simple thing as you think it. One man is brave in one way, and another in a different one. Often enough, that which is called bravery is nothing more than custom. You wouldn't go up on the fore-royal-yard in half a gale of wind, would you? Not you! You'd be afraid. Well, you might think me a brave man because I would. But then I'd be afraid to cut a chap's leg off, and you wouldn't.

That was what old Captain Hoskins, whom I used to sail with, could never understand. If a man was a bit nervous about the sea, he used to look down on him as all sorts of a coward. But there came a day when he learned better.

It happened when I was with him in a three-masted sailing-ship, the Arrow. We lay at Singapore, along-side Tanjong Pagar wharf, loading with a general cargo for Liverpool. The principal object in that cargo was a lion that we were shipping for London. It lay in a strong cage of wood and iron, with a door in the front through which it could be fed. It was a fine big brute, and every time it stretched itself you could see the muscles slipping over its sides and the big, wicked-looking claws peeping out of the pads of its feet in a way that made you very thankful for the bars.

We had a passenger or two, one of whom was a young girl who went by the name of Hilda Sandford. Directly the old man set eyes on her trim figure and her wealth of golden hair, he was struck all of a heap, so to speak, and I could see that he was promising himself a mighty pleasant voyage.

The other passenger was a strange, lean, wiry man, who wore gold eye-glasses, and kept peering about the ship in a most uncomfortable way. He gave his name as Professor Hay, though we didn't find out what he professed until later.

An hour or two before we started this Mr. Hay came up to the old man and began asking him a lot of questions.

"Captain," he said nervously, "I hope we shall have a quiet passage."

"I don't see why we shouldn't," said Hoskins genially.

Mr. Hay looked up at the sky.

"There seems to be a good deal of wind about," he said.

"Pretty fair," said Hoskins. "That's what's going to take us home. Not being a stammer, we can't do without it."

"You're sure it's quite safe?" asked Hay.

"Safe!" says the old man, getting on his high horse, "safe! I'm sailing this ship."

The Professor smiled apologetically.

"You will excuse me, Captain," he said, "I did not mean any offence. The fact is I am constitutionally nervous."

"PUSHED AT THE LION, LOOKING IT STRAIGHT BETWEEN THE EYES."

ous on ship-board. It is a feeling that I have never been able to overcome. The "old man" looked at him with a sort of good-natured contempt. "You've no call to be alarmed," he said; "we'll take you to England safe enough."

The Professor smiled again and walked off into the waist, where we had fixed up the lion's cage. It seemed to have a sort of attraction for him, for he stood before it for at least a quarter of an hour. Hoskins looked after him, and then turned to Miss Sandford, who was sitting near.

"Nice sort of chap to have on a ship," he said. "A man like that ought to stick to dry land."

"Well, you know, I have a fellow-feeling for him, Captain," she answered. "I'm afraid of the sea myself."

"Ah," he said, "but you're a woman, you see. A bit of fear is all right in a woman. It's natural to them. But with a man it's different. A man ought to be afraid of nothing."

"And are you not afraid of anything, Captain?" she asked.

"Not I," said Hoskins. "You can have the biggest storm ever hatched by the China Sea and I'll thank you for it. It brings out all the good in a man."

"It must be nice to be so brave," she exclaimed.

"Oh, it's all right when you're used to it," said Hoskins modestly. "A brave man and a pretty woman are two of the finest sights in creation. They ought always to be together."

There was something in his tone that made her blush, and though she agreed with him, she took the first opportunity of clearing off to another part of the deck.

Shortly afterwards we put to sea. For the next few days we had the best weather, and everything went smoothly. I could see one or two things that set me thinking. The first was that the old man was making himself uncommonly attentive to Miss Sandford. The second was that Mr. Hay, in a quiet and timid sort of way, was thinking a good deal of her too. For my part, I thought the girl fancied Hay rather than Hoskins; and though she couldn't avoid the "old man," and could not help listening to his sea yarns, I could see her eyes turning towards the sterner of the ship and the cabin door. There was nothing to be done but to climb up the rigging. She tried, but the first step was too high, and she could not manage it; when she realized that, I thought she was going to faint.

Hoskins was just going down to give her a hand, but at that moment the lion looked up and saw him, and lashing its tail gave a muffled roar. The "old man" stuck where he was then, and sort of shivered all over like a jelly. As for the girl, she moaned despairingly, and gave herself up for lost. Just then—out of the cabin came Professor Hay.

He took one look around and saw the lion. Then he picked up a broom that someone who had been washing decks had left leaning against the deck-house, and pushed at the lion with it, looking it straight between the eyes. He kept walking forward, pushing the broom gently before him right into the waist and back into its cage. In spite of several ugly snarls, when he had it safely fastened in, he came astern again looking not the least bit excited or worried, and put the broom carefully back in its place. The girl was looking hard at him, and her eyes were shining; but he didn't seem to be aware of it. Captain Hoskins had come down the rigging and was looking a trifle ashamed of himself. He hadn't known it was so easy to push lions into their cage with a broom. After a bit he spoke up.

"That was a fine bit of work, Sir," he said. "If I hadn't seen it, I couldn't have believed it."

"Oh, it's nothing," said the Professor. "It was my business. I have tamed wild animals."

After that he seemed to dismiss the whole subject from his mind, and went down into the cabin. But I saw him, later in the evening, talking to that girl, and he must have had something important to say to her, for when the "old man" met her next morning and began making excuses for himself, she cut him short.

"Captain Hoskins," she said, "do you remember advising me to marry a brave man?"

"I do," said Hoskins, a bit puzzled.

"Well," she said softly, "he asked me yesterday, and I'm going to take your advice."

All of which shows you, Doctor, that bravery is very much a matter of custom. As for poor old Hoskins, we had mill-pond weather the whole way home, and he hadn't even a chance to show himself.—Sketch.

SEASONABLE FADS.

Unique and Striking Designs in Hair Ornaments, Hat Pins and Necklaces.

This year has its share of fads and fashions as much as any that are past and these are used with no small degree of art and precision. One might almost think that the days of barbarism had returned so wide and fervid is the craze for beads, buckles and bracelets, were it not for the fact that each article which is donned gains that distinction by reason of its harmony or contrast. Color plays a great part in the present sartorial drama and the fashionable woman is always seeking for effect in its use. Beads in the form of necklaces are worn in all colors and they are used to further accentuate some color tone in the costume. The necklace worn with the lingerie blouse is often chosen to match the hat and gloves, or to offer a becoming note of contrast to a monotone ensemble. A girl of today does not own one necklace but a dozen, some of them expensive but the majority costing from $2 to $5 each. Some very beautiful shades of green and amethyst are seen in these beads, while amber is returned to favor with a vengeance.

Among the prettiest necklaces recently seen are those of shell from Honolulu with coloring of wondrous beauty. They come in all of the pastel shades, while the blue-grays, greens, pale yellows and old rose are beautifully combined. The shells are very small and alive with color. The necklaces are often long enough to wind several times about the neck.

Hatpins, too, are causing considerable interest this year, appearing in all manner of fantastic shapes and in colorings. The same idea of harmony is adhered to with these quite as much as in the choice of a necklace. Those pins with heads of amber are considered especially smart with black hats as well as those of tan and brown, while almost every fashionable color may be matched in hatpins of crystal or other persuasion. Some very dainty heads of Dresden china are hand painted and tinted with the delicate colors for wear with the white and flower hats.

Carrying out this idea of artistic adornment are the flowers of soft satin ribbon which trim many dainty frocks and hats. The gloss of the ribbon as well as its softness and exquisite shadings give to the blossoms a rare beauty which is seldom seen in those of silk or velvet. Rare little bunches of violets or wild roses made of satin ribbon are frequently worn as bodice decoration instead of the real flowers, and while they prove an excellent suggestion of the real thing, they have the added charm of not crushing and of being always fresh. A lady of fashion recently sailing for Europe carried several beautiful little corsage bouquets of this kind.

There has been a greater demand for fancy combs and hair ornaments this year than for sometime past. Head dressing has reached its height during the past few years and coiffures were never more exquisitely arranged. It is small wonder then that the demand for combs has been so great. Here the idea of suitability is still followed and while the comb must be that in best harmony with the costume, the little bar or other shaped pin which holds the stray locks at the neck must match the comb. These are in all prices. One very striking and attractive comb seen recently was of a composition resembling amber. A huge dragon fly spread its wings across the top in beautifully shaded metal giving the effect of iridescence in coloring. The price was $3.50. Another of tortoise shell mounted in solid gold with dainty designs of leaves and berries was five inches wide and cost $21.50. The comb was carried out in small Oriental pearls, the centre one being a large fresh water pearl. In spite of the good imitations which can be had, the real shell is unequalled for lightness and durability.

Margaret Anglin.

Love and Adventure.

The Theme of the Stirring Serial Story by Sir Conan Doyle, Creator of Sherlock Holmes.

This Exceptional Story, Highly Illustrated, Will Start in the Next Issue of This Magazine Section—Be Sure of Your Subscription, so as Not to Miss the First Chapter.

We have arranged for the publication of 15 issues, of the thrilling story of love and adventure, "The White Company," by Sir A. Conan Doyle, author of "Mistress Mark," "The Sign of the Cross," and the "Sherlock Holmes" Detective Stories.

"The White Company," to write which Mr. Doyle read 123 contemporary books, is a tale of the battles of England's Knight Errants, her redoubtable men-at-arms and her wondrous long-bowmen, during the period when all France was harried by the famous Black Prince. In those times, when gunpowder was just coming to be used in a crude form, the English long-bowman could send his gray goose shaft, with deadly effect, a distance of 420 yards, or practically a quarter of a mile. The bows were made of yew, tough and springy, and the arrows were of ash, long, and feathered and straight.

"So we toast all together To the gray goose feather And the lead where the gray goose flew."

The White Company is the sequel to Mr. Doyle's great story, "Sir Nigel," which he received Twenty-five Thousand Dollars.

In presenting the revised "White Company" we are offering our many readers one of the most stirring and powerful stories written by any modern author.

A Russian did not become of age until he is twenty-six.

At the recent Greek athletic games, the Russians made a particularly poor showing in the sprinting or running contests, notwithstanding their extensive Manchurian training.

The Washington Post says that that German stable hand who was imprisoned for three weeks for swearing at one of the Kaiser's horses "will hereafter curb and bridle his temper a bit." Should think he would.

It is now stated that the Japanese General Kuroki is none other than Sir Hector MacDonald, who mysteriously disappeared or some years ago in India. The story is ridiculed in Russia circles, as those people say they know many of them personally, that Kuroki fought like anything but a dead one.

SEASONABLE FADS.

Unique and Striking Designs in Hair Ornaments, Hat Pins and Necklaces.

This year has its share of fads and fashions as much as any that are past and these are used with no small degree of art and precision. One might almost think that the days of barbarism had returned so wide and fervid is the craze for beads, buckles and bracelets, were it not for the fact that each article which is donned gains that distinction by reason of its harmony or contrast. Color plays a great part in the present sartorial drama and the fashionable woman is always seeking for effect in its use. Beads in the form of necklaces are worn in all colors and they are used to further accentuate some color tone in the costume. The necklace worn with the lingerie blouse is often chosen to match the hat and gloves, or to offer a becoming note of contrast to a monotone ensemble. A girl of today does not own one necklace but a dozen, some of them expensive but the majority costing from $2 to $5 each. Some very beautiful shades of green and amethyst are seen in these beads, while amber is returned to favor with a vengeance.

Among the prettiest necklaces recently seen are those of shell from Honolulu with coloring of wondrous beauty. They come in all of the pastel shades, while the blue-grays, greens, pale yellows and old rose are beautifully combined. The shells are very small and alive with color. The necklaces are often long enough to wind several times about the neck.

Hatpins, too, are causing considerable interest this year, appearing in all manner of fantastic shapes and in colorings. The same idea of harmony is adhered to with these quite as much as in the choice of a necklace. Those pins with heads of amber are considered especially smart with black hats as well as those of tan and brown, while almost every fashionable color may be matched in hatpins of crystal or other persuasion. Some very dainty heads of Dresden china are hand painted and tinted with the delicate colors for wear with the white and flower hats.

Carrying out this idea of artistic adornment are the flowers of soft satin ribbon which trim many dainty frocks and hats. The gloss of the ribbon as well as its softness and exquisite shadings give to the blossoms a rare beauty which is seldom seen in those of silk or velvet. Rare little bunches of violets or wild roses made of satin ribbon are frequently worn as bodice decoration instead of the real flowers, and while they prove an excellent suggestion of the real thing, they have the added charm of not crushing and of being always fresh. A lady of fashion recently sailing for Europe carried several beautiful little corsage bouquets of this kind.

There has been a greater demand for fancy combs and hair ornaments this year than for sometime past. Head dressing has reached its height during the past few years and coiffures were never more exquisitely arranged. It is small wonder then that the demand for combs has been so great. Here the idea of suitability is still followed and while the comb must be that in best harmony with the costume, the little bar or other shaped pin which holds the stray locks at the neck must match the comb. These are in all prices. One very striking and attractive comb seen recently was of a composition resembling amber. A huge dragon fly spread its wings across the top in beautifully shaded metal giving the effect of iridescence in coloring. The price was $3.50. Another of tortoise shell mounted in solid gold with dainty designs of leaves and berries was five inches wide and cost $21.50. The comb was carried out in small Oriental pearls, the centre one being a large fresh water pearl. In spite of the good imitations which can be had, the real shell is unequalled for lightness and durability.

Margaret Anglin.

Love and Adventure.

The Theme of the Stirring Serial Story by Sir Conan Doyle, Creator of Sherlock Holmes.

This Exceptional Story, Highly Illustrated, Will Start in the Next Issue of This Magazine Section—Be Sure of Your Subscription, so as Not to Miss the First Chapter.

We have arranged for the publication of 15 issues, of the thrilling story of love and adventure, "The White Company," by Sir A. Conan Doyle, author of "Mistress Mark," "The Sign of the Cross," and the "Sherlock Holmes" Detective Stories.

"The White Company," to write which Mr. Doyle read 123 contemporary books, is a tale of the battles of England's Knight Errants, her redoubtable men-at-arms and her wondrous long-bowmen, during the period when all France was harried by the famous Black Prince. In those times, when gunpowder was just coming to be used in a crude form, the English long-bowman could send his gray goose shaft, with deadly effect, a distance of 420 yards, or practically a quarter of a mile. The bows were made of yew, tough and springy, and the arrows were of ash, long, and feathered and straight.

"So we toast all together To the gray goose feather And the lead where the gray goose flew."

The White Company is the sequel to Mr. Doyle's great story, "Sir Nigel," which he received Twenty-five Thousand Dollars.

In presenting the revised "White Company" we are offering our many readers one of the most stirring and powerful stories written by any modern author.

A Russian did not become of age until he is twenty-six.

At the recent Greek athletic games, the Russians made a particularly poor showing in the sprinting or running contests, notwithstanding their extensive Manchurian training.

The Washington Post says that that German stable hand who was imprisoned for three weeks for swearing at one of the Kaiser's horses "will hereafter curb and bridle his temper a bit." Should think he would.

It is now stated that the Japanese General Kuroki is none other than Sir Hector MacDonald, who mysteriously disappeared or some years ago in India. The story is ridiculed in Russia circles, as those people say they know many of them personally, that Kuroki fought like anything but a dead one.

THIS MAGNIFICENT COTTAGE DINNER SET FREE.

Forty-two pieces of American China (semi-porcelain) given FREE for a small club of subscriptions. Six dinner plates, 8 place plates, 4 cups and saucers, 6 fruit, 6 butter, a sugar bowl with lid, a cream pitcher, a vegetable dish and an olive dish, all the best ware, decorated in five colors and gold. This is not a cheap "greenish" set, but just such a set as you would buy at a first-class store.

THE OFFER Send 12 new yearly subscriptions to THE HOUSEKEEPER at 60 cents each and receive the Cottage Dinner Set, freight paid, as a reward for your trouble.

Sample Copies and Agents' Supplies sent on application FREE. Hundreds of ladies who have received use set are working for the second.

OUR GREAT "GET ACQUAINTED" COUPON OFFER

The Housekeeper contains serial and short stories, verse, illustrated articles of general interest and the best and most helpful household departments ever put together. Let us get acquainted. We will bear the expense of the introduction if you will cut out and mail Coupon No. 2.

THE HOUSEKEEPER CORPORATION, Minneapolis, Minn.

Fill out and mail this coupon to-day. Do not delay.

THE HOUSEKEEPER CORPORATION, Minneapolis, Minn. Coupon No. 2.

Please enter my subscription to THE HOUSEKEEPER. After receiving three copies I will send you 60 cents for this year's subscription if I think the magazine worth the price. If I do not think it worth the price I will write you to stop sending it. You are then to make no charge for the copies sent me.

Name.....

Address.....

THE HOUSEKEEPER CORPORATION, Dept. H, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.

FREE TRIAL

of the genuine Edison No. 5000. No Money Down. No C. O. D.

To any RESPONSIBLE party we will ship a genuine Edison No. 5000 for a FREE TRIAL—no money down no C. O. D. No formality from responsible people—and if you are not pleased to keep the outfit, return at our expense. Otherwise send the cash order. FREE TRIAL—no money down no C. O. D. No formality from responsible people—and if you are not pleased to keep the outfit, return at our expense. Otherwise send the cash order. FREE TRIAL—no money down no C. O. D. No formality from responsible people—and if you are not pleased to keep the outfit, return at our expense. Otherwise send the cash order.

Free to photograph owners latest Edison record catalogs.

ALISON CO., Dept. H, Buffalo, N. Y.

FREE GOLD WATCH

Our STEEL-SPRING AMERICAN watch is the best quality watch made. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years.

ALISON CO., Dept. H, Buffalo, N. Y.

SENT ON APPROVAL

STRAIGHT LEGS Our straight and easy Form gives the legs perfect shape. The trousers hang straight and firm. Put on or off in a moment, impossible to do. Inexpensive, durable, give style, comfort and comfort. We send them on trial. Write for photo-illustrated booklet and proofs mailed free and sealed.

ALISON CO., Dept. H, Buffalo, N. Y.

PETTICOAT AND CORSET

This is the latest style. Fitting Corset, with fancy trimmed top, medium waist and short hip. Remember, it costs you nothing. You get it free with the petticoat.

ALISON CO., Dept. H, Buffalo, N. Y.

FREE FOR SELLING

This beautiful Petticoat is made of the best quality material, with a full 10-inch waist, and is guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years.

ALISON CO., Dept. H, Buffalo, N. Y.

TO INTRODUCE

Artsilk EMBROIDERY COTTON

We will send you a handsome doll, 12 inch, 18 inch or 24 inch in diameter, stamped on a fine grade of white embroidery cotton, for 10 cents or 50 cents respectively, and enough Artsilk to work it. Patterns after Will H. Hines, Violet, Daisy or 100 other designs.

Artsilk is the new embroidery cotton that's taking the place of silk for working on. It's soft, smooth, and easy to work. It's the best for working on. It's the best for working on. It's the best for working on.

E. D. LORIMER & CO., 340 Broadway, New York

FREE FOR SELLING

This beautiful Petticoat is made of the best quality material, with a full 10-inch waist, and is guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years.

ALISON CO., Dept. H, Buffalo, N. Y.

GENUINE 21 JEWELLED

$50.00 GOLD WATCH. Guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years. It is a genuine Swiss watch, guaranteed for 25 years.

ALISON CO., Dept. H, Buffalo, N. Y.

PALISADE PATTERNS.

A MODISH SHIRT BLOUSE.

The trend of fashion is toward the tailor made with its elegant simplicity of lines, and the sleek of society will find the tailor a most important factor from now on. Everything except evening and house gowns must have the smart, neat finish of this master artist. Here is one of the latest modes in a separate shirt blouse which is a stunning example of the new mode. Crash or linen may serve as material and the bottom adornment be used or not. A fanciful yoke appears in front and back, continuing along the closing in stole fashion. A small applied pocket lends a jaunty air decidedly smart. White flannel, linen, taffeta or broadcloth, as well as any other plain material which possesses the qualities necessary to tailoring, may serve. For the medium sizes 8 yards of 36-inch goods are needed.

6434—Sleeve, 32 to 48 inches bust measure.

PALISADE PATTERN CO., 17 Battery Place, New York City.

For 10 cents enclosed please send pattern No. 6434 to the following address:

NAME.....

ADDRESS.....

CITY and STATE.....

Number 6434.

PRICE, 10 CENTS EACH.