Specimens Gathered in the Mountain Sections and Elsewhere. Crops Said to be Good in Spite of Rain.

(Special Correspondence)
Raleigh Aug. 18.—Curator Brimley of the State Museum has returned from the North Carolina mountains, where he went in search of fruit and vegetables to be shown at the Jamestown exposition in the North Carolina Section. He went in the Counties of Mecon, Mitchell, Yancey, Madison and Buncombe, and arranged to secure apples, peaches and vegetables. The apple crop is very good in some sections and poor in others. The weather was very warm, which is the well. He was here for several days.

The first sweet potatoes of the season arrived on a boat from Dawson Creek, Pamlico county Friday. They were yams and were sold quickly to green grocers, who charged 40 cents the peck, retail. There were only about fifteen to twenty bushes in the lot.

The 25 colored firemen, members of the 6th ward company returned from the tournament in Winston, last night. They were in a happy frame of mind, and made a good showing at the tournament.

Brick Church For Colored Race.
The building of the First Baptist church for the colored people of this city is a notable and strong proof of the progress of that race. Formerly a congregation known as the Cedar Grove Baptist church, these people lost their house of worship by fire and in a few months have erected and will soon complete a handsome and substantial brick church. The burned building was of small size and modest pretensions, but the new one which is well planned, will afford ample room for all congregational and devotional purposes.

The auditorium will be about forty-five feet wide and about sixty in length with annex for pastor's room and one also for the choir. A large baptistry is located in the rear of the altar. The first or ground story will be used for Sunday School and reading rooms. There being but little excavation, the auditorium will have a fine elevation.

All the work on the building seems to have been done in a neat, but substantial manner. W. S. Fulcher, a well known carpenter of the city is the contractor.

The church has been named the First Baptist instead of Cedar Grove church as formerly.

One As Bad As The Other.
A cigarette manufacturing concern recently distributed free in Charlotte thousands of cigarettes for advertising purposes. If a liquor dealer was to distribute free in that town a hundred or so gallons of liquor for advertising purposes the party making the free distribution would probably be arrested. But we seriously doubt if such a distribution would do more harm in the end than this cigarette distribution.

SHORT PASSING EVENTS.

The receipts of the Raleigh dispensary it seems, have been falling off lately and it is said that it is because the thirsty ones are imbibing hard cider. Bad on the dispensary. Perhaps it will ask the legislature to make a law forbidding the planting of apple trees.

The Journal office is in receipt of an address by Hon. A. M. Waddell, on the subject of General Francis Nash, a hero of the revolutionary war delivered at the dedication of the Nash monument. It is an important document to have and contains historical data of the record of North Carolina in the war for independence of which she may well be proud.

A citizen of New Bern said to the Journal yesterday that the attention of the Corporation Commission should be directed to the manner in which the Atlantic Coast Line Road is "doing" the people on the line between Wilmington and New Bern. It comes within their authority to demand that the road give as good service on this branch as they do on others, and when it comes to putting decrepid old locomotives on the trains which can scarcely pull themselves along on the trains that often have to make important connections, it is time for the public to protest. There is no sense in a rich road giving such abominable service, and they should be made to give satisfactory service.

NOTED HORTICULTURIST LEAVES.

Exciting Political Fight Expected. A Statue For Vance in National Capitol. Committees of State Literary and Historical Society.

(Special Correspondence)
Raleigh, Aug. 18.—Prof. B. H. Hume for two years past State Horticulturist, today retired from that position, which he had filled so ably, and went to Florida, where he takes a private position, with a very high salary.

The Raleigh Hose Companies will not go to the Firemen's tournament, Richmond as it is only for foot races and not for horse wagons, and then too there is only ten pounds to twenty pounds pressure in the mains.

In conversation with one of the leading republicans in the State he made so bold as to say that there would be rather a lively fight in North Carolina this year and not since ten years ago has there been more activity. He thinks the people in the east are more interested than had been anticipated by the Democrats, and says that in a few of the eastern counties there is opposition to the Democratic chairman, and it will be the issue in several counties.

After a conference at which President Charles B. Aycock of the State Literary and Historical Association was present. It was decided to ask the Legislature to provide for a statue of Vance in the Capitol at Washington. The following committee will prepare the memorial: Richard H. Battle, W. A. Montgomery, Armisted Burwell, Locke Craig, and F. A. Woodard.

A Sane Life-Insurance Discussion.
The Metropolitan Magazine promises for its October number what the entire country has been waiting for since Hyde and Alexander first started squabbling—a sane summing up of the situation in life insurance. Both sides are to be given, in the light of recent reform measures. Among others who will contribute pages to this most valuable symposium are Paul Morton and Charles A. Peabody. If these articles are all they promise, the policy holders and the man doubtful as to whether or not he should insure his life will know finally where they stand.
