STATE POLICIES AND POLITICS.

The vote on last Tuesday in North Carolina was indicative of the sentiment of the people of the State, as to State policies, and their confidence in the party which would best carry out their policies, that is, of a safe home which national politics were no issue, the people went to the polls in the countrial. ties where their votes were needed and elected Democrats. In many counties and towns there was a light vote, due more to the fact of the apparent no need of large Democratic majorities. than to lack of real Democratic feeling. In Craven county this sentiment, that of no urgent need of votes, made a large falling off. It is not a wise act for any voter, to fail to vote, but there are many who need the spur of an opponent, or the fight for some material thing to bring them to the polls.

It is North Carolina conservatism that was seen in last Tuesday's vote in this State. The perfect confidence in the principles of democracy, as well as the security felt in the State administration under such principles, and the policies growing out of them. In the election of a solid Congressional delegation to represent this State in the nation's councils, was seen the rebuke to outside interference, as dictated and attempted through the national republican administration. The glamor of a cabinet official, and the clamor of a discredited ex-United States Senator, had the effect to warn Democrats to on their guard instead of leadin any away. The State leadership of Republicans was so undisguisedly of those who were stimulated to zeal through office holding, that their eries produced decision and contempt among those who were honestly open to changed political convictions, if it was proven that those who declared for republicanism, were shown to be clean handed. Republicanism may occasionally win votes through some kind of political effort. But the Butler and republican office holders, can not longer be successfully used as decays, deceive voters. The floating North Carolina vote, whetever it may be, knows these decoys too well. As for democrats, they are likely to be incited to vote by seeing or hearing them The majority result is one of congratulation. It means stability in the State, and material development that has nothing to fear. It is a token from the people of confidence in Chairman Simmons and the State administration, and it must make these leaders feel the greater responsibility, that the people shall not be deceived in their trust of

THE SUPPORT OF THE

LOGAL MERCHANT.

The approach of winter and the holiday season, when the most important and largest expenditures on the part of every person and family takes place, calls attention to a matter of great consideration, for those who are to purchase these supplies. This matter is where are you, the citizen, going to buy your goods, of your home merchant. or are you already sending out for cata logues from outside merchants of the great northern cities, and figuring on dollar purchase?

There is no greater community of intarents in a town or city, than that which is to be found in local co-operation of the people. It is the sentim put into active practice of doing everything possible for your neighbor's interest. It is the good word ever ready for the city's defence. It is the ready bely to promote and advance every local interest which means public better

It is found to giving the local mer this deliar in trade for goods, that ea

be purchased in his store, or ordered

The support of home institutions i best seen in the local patronage given every worthy local merchant. The retail merchant, as a tax payer, is a most important supporter of every thing that makes up a municipality. He is taxed for everything, and proportionally bears the greatest burden as a local taxpayer. This being true the local merchant deserves the consistent support, and every possible dollar of patronage from his home people.

At this season of the year, the pamphlet by mail, and the attractive ad in ome outside periodical, is to ant to Advertising rates furnished upon ap-lication at the office, or upon inquiry draw attention away from the local merchant. The person wanting goods very often will says what is the use of going to the local merchant, he can't earry such goods," and so send an order to some outside merchant. But how does the home citizen know that the article wanted is not to be found in town? Has the local newspaper been looked over, to see if the local merchant advertises, or if not having the exact article, cannot order the goods, and so make a small profit?

Let this season be a new one for lo cal buyers, in that they make up their lists of needed goods, look up their local merchant and give him the first opportunity to fill every order, before sending a dollar to some northern city. Being an "off year," that is one in Let the people try this one season, and see what the result will be. Give it a

CONSCIENTIOUSNESS IN WORK,

Given the man, woman or child that puts conscientiousness into their work, whatever it may be, and success will ccompany their efforts. It is the hardest task, this learning and living up to the fulfillment of conscientious effort. It is very easy to find excuse for the cutting short, in some degree the work or project at hand. It is the workman who gives his employer the premium of work on every dollar he receives, that is going to get ahead, and be wanted when extra and better work comes

It is in every day life, in the home, in the church, in society, that the conscientious person is wanted, for it is through such a person, that the best esults come, that the home is exalted, the church made the strength it should be, and society redeemed from its frivality and wastefulness.

It is the doing more and better than the allotted work, that counts. It is not being moral and upright, for mere individual gain, because good habits give their possessors a higher position, n a salary or money basis, but the be ng good, because goodness is a virtue that means peace, happiness and security to the possessor in this world, and in the one to come. In a commercial sense, it is the person who is above par in charcter and application in conscientious effort, that is wanted in every trade and profession, in every walk of life. The indifferent person may appear to succeed equally as well as the person that puts individual conscientousness into work. But in the day when any crisis occurs, when work becomes scarce, wages are cut. or when a man or woman is wanted to carry out some great work of the moment, it will be found that the conscientious person stands above his fellow, the indifferent and her as the case may be

In the school, in the field of labor, conscientiousness in the work at hand. is what means both temporary and future success. To carry to the fullest possible, the lessons well learned, and thoroughly. To complete the work of the hour and the day, carefully, honest ly, without waste of material or time. It means success. It means better future efforts. It means character strength for the person so performing and fulfilling.

A Year of Blood.

The year 1903 will long be rememb ered in the home of F. N. Tacket, of Alliance, Ky., as a year of blood; which flowed so copiously from Mr. Tacket's lungs that death seemed very near. Greensboro, Nov 9-Kellog, a negro in ail charged with larceny made two attempts at suicide yesterday. He complained of being sick, and the physicians prescribed for him, giving him a vial of medicines and particularly cautioning him to take but ten drops, every four hours. Late yesterday afternoon Jailer Busick found him in the cell very sick, and the physician being hurriedly summoned promptly brought him round. Finding the vial empty, John said he drank half of it in the morning instead of ten drops as prescribed. It didn't hurt him. After dinner he gulped down the balance, hoping it would kill him. After he had been thoroughly stomachpumped and was out of danger, John seemed thankful at being saved, but declared "he'd rather to die, than have himself turned wrong side outerds ergin like dat."
